ITALY'S DELEGATION QUITS CONFERENCE TODAY, AFTER WILSON'S REFUSAL TO GIVE HER FIUME; PRESIDENT'S APPEAL FAILS TO CONCILIATE HER

City and Sub-Districts Respond Liberally, Taking $25,586,050 on Third Day.

THREE 100 PER CENT. FLAGS

Firms Reporting Every Employe a Buyer Rewarded—Capt. Roosevelt Addresses 20,000.

—At the Liberty Loan Headquarters yesterday it was reported that official figures for the Victory Loan drive showed that in the three days' campaign a total of $88,880,600 had been invested in Victory Notes in the Second Federal Reserve District. Of this amount $25,586,050 was subscribed yesterday, $16,750,000 in the City of New York and the rest in other parts of the district, including the State of New York, the twelve counties of northern New Jersey and Fairfield County, Conn.

While the above is all that the Liberty Loan Committee will give out as the official total, estimates compiled unofficially show that the sum of $120,000,000 is probably nearer the mark for the district's total subscription. Only amounts reported to and recorded by the Federal Reserve Bank are given out as official loan totals, while other subscriptions, no matter where they come from, are counted as unofficial until so reported and so recorded.

The following is an unofficial list of subscriptions given out by the committee for yesterday, which were taken in New York City:

Bethlehem Steel Corp.	$5,000,000
Standard Oil Co. of New York	5,000,000
Citizens' Savings Bank	2,000,000

Paul Moore, through Liberty National Bank	50,000
Charles Baird, through Guaranty Trust Co.	50,000
Federal Adding Machine Co., through Liberty National Bank	25,000

These figures, together with $1,500,000 reported by committees working in the Rainbow Division, and a late return from Brooklyn noting an increase of $4,288,900 over its official report of $7,648,250, show the day's subscriptions as $28,000,000 more than has been officially recorded.

The following is the official table for subscriptions received in the district to date:

Swiss Government Foiled Plot of Lenin for Red Revolution

GENEVA, April 23. (Associated Press.)—The Lausanne Gazette this morning publishes documents from Nikolai Lenin, Bolshevist Premier of Russia, marked "very confidential" and entitled "General instructions for a revolution in Switzerland."

The instructions, which consist of fifteen articles, were communicated to the Swiss Extreme Socialist and Bolshevist leaders by Adolph Joffe, Russian Soviet Ambassador to Germany, and Karl Radek, prominent as a Bolshevist agitator in Germany, from Berlin fifteen days before the general strike was declared in Switzerland in September last, the Gazette says.

"Lenin succeeded in introducing Bolshevism into Hungary, but failed in Switzerland, owing to the prompt and energetic measures of the Federal authorities, who immediately mobilized the army and expelled foreign Bolshevist agitators, including two Germans, Rosenberg and Sarovitch, who had been sent specially from Berlin with false passports," the newspaper declares.

"All the Federal authorities and also the Military Staff must be captured and held as hostages," Lenin's instructions ordered. "The banks, railways, factories and newspapers must be seized and placed under the control of Comrade Radek."

BURLESON CHARGES ZONE LAW INTRIGUE

Declares That an "Organized Propaganda" of Publishers Is Directed Against Him.

SAYS THREATS WERE MADE

Tells of Order to Send World's Messages That Were Held Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Postmaster General Burleson issued a statement this afternoon declaring that newspaper and magazine publishers are engaged in "an intrigue" of "organized propaganda against him, because they wish the rates of second-class mail matter, which includes their publications, reduced." The Postmaster General alleges that a member of a committee contending for the appeal said to him:

"We have made and unmade many Congressmen. We ruined Postmaster General Hitchcock and destroyed Mr. Taft. We realize that without your aid we may not be able to secure relief now, but we will see what can be done with the next Congress."

Mr. Burleson also further alleges that "a well-known publisher" called on him and said: "If you will acquiesce in the repeal of this law we will make you the most popular man in the Wilson Cabinet, but if you do not I fear they will ruin you."

Both these statements, Mr. Burleson alleges, were made in the presence of the First Assistant Postmaster General, John C. Koons. There are two other allusions in which the names are concealed. One of these is to "the principal lobbyist employed by this selfish combination," who is alleged to have sent out many circular letters asking criticism of the second-class rate, and other matters. The other allusion is to "the advertising manager of The New York World," who is declared to have made a "virulent attack founded upon falsehood" upon the Postmaster General.

Postmaster General Burleson's statement was drawn by press dispatches printed here this morning, saying that a syndicated article from The New York World criticising Mr. Burleson, had been barred from the telegraph wires. Early in the day Mr. Burleson sent out

INTENSE FEELING IN ITALY

Reports from Rome Indicate Furious Impatience Over Delay in Negotiations.

PARIS, April 23.—The Italians have been definitely on strike since yesterday morning. They declare that unless they receive full satisfaction they will boycott the Peace Conference in every branch of its activities. I am authorized to repeat the declaration made yesterday by Premier Orlando to a few of the principal Italian newspaper men. The Premier said:

"We have withdrawn. From this morning none of the members of our delegation will take any part in any Conference work. We are simply standing pat on our positions, and all further initiative must now come from the other side. If we learn that an adverse decision is reached by them, we shall go home immediately. In any case, unless we receive full satisfaction, the day of the arrival of the German delegates will be the limit to our stay. If we go, it will not mean a rupture of diplomatic relations, but an expression of lack of solidarity between Italy and the other members of the Conference."

The Premier added that the Italians would decline to accept any compromise permitting Italy to sign the allied peace with Germany while leaving the Adriatic problem open for further discussion. For Italy it is now a question of all or nothing.

The fact is, Orlando has no choice—he must get everything his people want or break away. Reports from Rome and other centres with which the Italian headquarters at the Hotel Edward Seventh are in constant telephonic and telegraphic communication indicate that public feeling is seething. Whether it be true or not that the Italian leaders have themselves sown the wind that blows from Italy, it is beyond the shadow of a doubt that they are now reaping the whirlwind which is sweeping them powerless before it. Already the Italian public is furious at the delay and is demanding definite news either of the success or the return of their delegation, in place of the present uncertainty.

I am informed that the departure of one of the members of the commission, which took place last night, was in the nature of a sop to the public Cerberus. Another will go tonight. So, according to a Russian folk tale, the travelers in a dark forest threw their children, one by one, from the sledge to the wolves pursuing them.

BELIEVES JAPAN WILL JOIN.

Tokio Thinks Racial Decision No Bar to the League.

TOKIO, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The impression exists in well-informed quarters here that Japan will join the League of Nations even if the racial clause of the League covenant is finally rejected by the Peace Conference.

This was brought out in answer to special news dispatches from Paris asserting that Japan had informed the other delegates to the Conference that Japan would decline to enter the League if the racial clause were not adopted.

Lloyd George and Clemenceau Approved Wilson Statement

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—It was stated tonight in an authoritative American quarter that Mr. Wilson's statement regarding Fiume was submitted by him to Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau two days ago. He had previously laid it before the American delegation, which had approved it.

It was said that Premier Lloyd George approved President Wilson's statement without reserve, and that Premier Clemenceau has described it as "admirable" and has said that he "would not change a word."

It is explained that the reason that Mr. Lloyd George and M. Clemenceau did not join the statement was the fact that they were parties to the Treaty of London.

It was also made known that Premier Orlando had prepared a statement for the Italian Parliament, which went forward last night. It has not been made public here, and its contents are as yet unknown.

CHRONICLE FAVORS ITALIANS

Declares Hungarians Prefer Them to Jugoslav Neighbors as Masters of Fiume.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, April 24.—The Daily Chronicle says editorially of President Wilson's statement regarding the Adriatic question:

"President Wilson does not base his argument on the population, but on the need for a commercial outlet, and, as he himself says, Fiume is the outlet not merely for the Jugoslavs, but for three other nations, Bohemia, Hungary and Rumania.

"It is not obvious that these three countries would be better served if their outlet were in the hands of the Jugoslavs, who live next to it. In point of fact, the Hungarians, whose trade through Fiume was much the largest before the war, are believed to prefer that the Italians should have it and probably Rumania would, too.

"Whatever may be thought of the merits of the question, it must be admitted that Wilson's appeal from the diplomatic table to the general public of the world is a very grave innovation. It may at first sight commend itself as consonant with democratic statesmanship, but it is obvious that none of the negotiating statesmen, including Wilson, hitherto understood democratic statesmanship in that sense. On the contrary, their practice in negotiating all other questions has been extremely secretive, too secretive, as we have often urged.

"The result of making an exception to the practice in Italy's case is evidently to create danger for the whole League of Nations. Either the Italian statesmen will reply by a counter-manifesto, and the most delicate issue will be frankly transferred to the novel arbitrament of the uninstructed public opinion of two hemispheres—not exactly a tribunal whose verdicts will command permanent acceptance—or else the Italians may walk out.

"In either case the League of Nations, which requires the hearty concurrence of at least all of the five great powers represented at Paris if it is to become a living reality, may find its existence otherwise than on paper practically terminated before it is begun."

In reference to President Wilson's statement, The Chronicle understands that the British position is as follows:

Under the Treaty of London the Italians are entitled to Trieste, Pola and part of Dalmatia, while Fiume was to go to Croatia. The Italians, however, claim Fiume on the ground that 60 per cent. of its population is Italian and have occupied it.

The British and French representatives have, it is understood, informed the Italian representatives that England and France will stand by the treaty in all respects, but have advised

WILSON CHALLENGE A SHOCK

Old School Diplomats Upset by the President's Bold Action.

HE IS FIRM ON PRINCIPLES

Warns the Conference That America Will Not Deviate from Declarations.

CHAMPIONS SMALL STATES

Says to Italianize Fiume Would Be to Disregard Their Interests.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson issued today an emphatic declaration that he would not yield on the Adriatic question, and thereby created the most profound sensation in the Peace Conference. He threw down the gauntlet to the supporters of secret treaties in a manner which almost took away the breath of delegates who had been urging compromises on points covered by many secret documents and at variance with the President's Fourteen Points.

Mr. Wilson's sweeping declaration, while aimed directly at the Adriatic problems, also reaches the Kiao-Chau controversy, in which Japan relies upon secret agreements made with Great Britain, France, and Italy in 1917 to support her in her claim to the concessions formerly held by Germany in Shantung.

The peace delegates generally regarded President Wilson's statement as a challenge which would once for all dispose of the question whether secret documents, of which many nations participating in the war were ignorant, were to figure in the peace coming.

The idea, which had been prevalent in Paris, that the Adriatic situation was a game of chess, in which the most skillful diplomats would win, regardless of the armistice conditions, was suddenly banished by President Wilson's action. Since Monday it had been generally known that he had prepared a statement which was presented on that day to the entire American delegation, and that the delegation had approved it. But there was no suspicion that his position was so unalterable against secret diplomacy.

Thought Wilson Would Yield.

Declarations by the members of the American delegation that the President would not yield on the matter of Fiume were regarded by most European diplomatists, and especially by the Italians, as part of a political game, until today, and even now many old-school diplomatists seem unable to comprehend what has happened.

The President in his statement declared that Fiume could not become a part of Italy.

He pointed out that every condition concerning the Adriatic settlement had been changed since Italy entered the war on the promises of the treaty of London; the Austro-Hungarian Empire having disappeared. He noted that new States had been created, for which Fiume was the natural outlet to the sea.

The President also contended that the strategic necessity pleaded in behalf of Italy's claim to the Dalmatian Islands no longer prevailed, as the Austrian naval menace had ceased to exist.

In issuing his statement the President let it be known that he desired once again to call attention to the fact that there were certain well-defined principles which had been accepted by the peoples of the world as the basis for a lasting peace. The United States delegation simply recalled this in order that there should be no deviation from these principles.

LONG REPARATIONS SESSION.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The Council of Three this afternoon held the longest session on record during the Peace Conference, discussing the question of reparations from 3 o'clock until 7 o'clock, financial experts being called in to explain some details.

Although it is reported that the council now has the settlement well in hand, some questions remain to be considered tomorrow.

At the morning's session some time was devoted to aspects of the Italian question and the treaty with Germany, but the nature of the discussion was not given out.

Text of the Statement by President Wilson Dealing with the Italian-Jugoslav Dispute

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson issued this statement today:

In view of the capital importance of the questions affected, and in order to throw all possible light upon what is involved in their settlement, I hope that the following statement will contribute to the final formation of opinion and to a satisfactory solution:

When Italy entered the war she entered upon the basis of a definite private understanding with Great Britain and France, now known as the Pact of London. Since that time the whole face of circumstances has been altered. Many other powers, great and small, have entered the struggle, with no knowledge of that private understanding.

The Austro-Hungarian Empire, then the enemy of Europe, and at whose expense the Pact of London was to be kept in the event of victory, has gone to pieces and no longer exists. Not only that, but the several parts of that empire, it is agreed now by Italy and all her associates, are to be erected into independent States and associated in a League of Nations, not with those who were recently our enemies, but with Italy herself and the powers that stood with Italy in the great war for liberty.

We are to establish their liberty as well as our own. They are to be among the smaller States whose interests are henceforth to be safeguarded as scrupulously as the interests of the most powerful States.

The war was ended, moreover, by proposing to Germany an armistice and peace which should be founded on certain clearly defined principles which set up a new order of right and justice. Upon those principles the peace with Germany has been conceived, not only, but formulated. Upon those principles it will be executed.

We cannot ask the great body of powers to propose and effect peace with Austria and establish a new basis of independence and right in the States which originally constituted the Austro-Hungarian Empire and in the States of the Balkan group on principles of another kind. We must apply the same principles to the settlement of Europe in those quarters that we have applied in the peace with Germany. It was upon the explicit avowal of those principles that the initiative for peace was taken. It is upon them that the whole structure of peace must rest.

If those principles are to be adhered to, Fiume must serve as the outlet of the commerce, not of Italy, but of the land to the north and northeast of that port, Hungary, Bohemia, Rumania, and the States of the new Jugoslav group. To assign Fiume to Italy would be to create the feeling that we have deliberately put the port upon which all those countries chiefly depend for their access to the Mediterranean in the hands of a power of which it did not form an integral part and whose sovereignty, if set up there, must inevitably seem foreign, not domestic or identified with the commercial and industrial life of the regions which the port must serve. It is for that reason, no doubt, that Fiume was not included in the Pact of London, but there definitely assigned to the Croatians.

And the reason why the line of the Pact of London swept about many of the islands of the eastern coast of the Adriatic and around the portion of the Dalmatian coast which lies most open to that sea was not only that here and there on those islands, and here and there on that coast, there are bodies of people of Italian blood and connection, but also, and no doubt chiefly, because it was felt that it was necessary for Italy to have a foothold amidst the channels of the Eastern Adriatic in order that she might make her own coasts safe against the naval aggression of Austria-Hungary.

But Austria-Hungary no longer exists. It is proposed that the fortifications which the Austrian Government constructed there shall be razed and permanently destroyed.

It is part also of the new plan of European order which centres in the League of Nations that the new States erected there shall accept a limitation of armaments which puts aggression out of the question. There can be no fear of the unfair treatment of groups of Italian people there, because adequate guarantees will be given, under international sanction, of the equal and equitable treatment of all racial or national minorities.

In brief, every question associated with this settlement wears a new aspect—a new aspect given it by the very victory for right for which Italy has made the supreme sacrifice of blood and treasure. Italy, along with the four other great powers, has become one of the chief trustees of the new order which she has played so honorable a part in establishing.

And on the north and northeast her natural frontiers are completely restored, along the whole sweep of the Alps from northwest to southeast to the very end of the Istrian Peninsula, including all the great watershed within which Trieste and Pola lie, and all the fair regions whose face nature has turned toward the great peninsula upon which the historic life of the Latin people has been worked out through centuries of famous story ever since Rome was first set upon her seven hills.

Her ancient unity is restored. Her lines are extended to the great walls which are her natural defense. It is within her choice to be surrounded by friends; to exhibit to the newly liberated peoples across the Adriatic that noblest quality of greatness, magnanimity, friendly generosity, the preference of justice over interest.

The nations associated with her, the nations that know nothing of the Pact of London or of any other special understanding that lies at the beginning of this great struggle, and who have made their supreme sacrifice also in the interest, not of national advantage or defense, but of the settled peace of the world, are now united with her older associates in urging her to assume a leadership which cannot be mistaken in the new order of Europe.

America is Italy's friend. Her people are drawn, millions strong, from Italy's own fair countrysides. She is linked in blood, as well as in affection, with the Italian people. Such ties can never be broken. And America was privileged, by the generous commission of her associates in the war, to initiate the peace we are about to consummate—to initiate it upon terms which she had herself formulated and in which I was her spokesman.

The compulsion is upon her to square every decision she takes a part in with those principles. She can do nothing else. She trusts Italy, and in her trust believes that Italy will ask nothing of her that cannot be made unmistakably consistent with those sacred obligations.

The interests are not now in question, but the rights of peoples, of States new and old, of liberated peoples and peoples whose rulers have never accounted them worthy of a right; above all, the right of the world to peace and to such settlements of interest as shall make peace secure.

These, and these only, are the principles for which America has fought. These, and these only, are the principles upon which she can consent to make peace. Only upon these principles, she hopes and believes, will the people of Italy ask her to make peace.

ITALIANS DECIDE TO QUIT

So Announce After Meeting Held to Consider Wilson's Statement.

SURPRISED BY WILSON'S ACT

Italian Premier Says He Was About to Make a Supreme Effort to Settle Matter.

FIRST NEWS FROM PAPERS

Will Appeal to the Italian People and Let Them Make the Decision.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press).—After a conference held by the Italian delegation to the Peace Conference this afternoon, it was announced that the delegates would leave Paris tomorrow.

Premier Orlando this evening addressed an official communication to Premier Clemenceau as President of the Peace Conference, saying that as a result of the declaration by President Wilson the Italian delegation had decided to leave Paris at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Premier Orlando, Foreign Minister Sonnino, and Salvatore Barzilai, Antonio Salandra, and Marquis Salvago Raggi, the other Italian delegates, attended the conference at headquarters, which examined the situation created by the President's statement.

General Armando Diaz, Commander in Chief of the Italian Armies, it was announced, would leave tonight.

It was learned at Italian headquarters this evening that the Italian delegates were first apprised of President Wilson's statement when it appeared in the afternoon papers.

Premier Orlando at once sent a note to Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau, asking them if they thought it possible after the publication of this document that the Italians could remain in the Peace Conference. A reply had not been received up to a late hour tonight.

Orlando "Profoundly Surprised."

Premier Orlando expressed profound surprise today at the declaration of President Wilson, which, he said, came at a time when he was "about to make a supreme attempt at conciliation," according to the Havas Agency.

"The Italian delegates, hoping to see the Italian problem adjusted amicably," he continued, "might have taken some other decision than ceasing to collaborate in the labors of the Conference, had this statement not been issued."

The Premier added that he would address a message to the

Limerick Strike Is Declared National; Allied With Labor Congress and Party

LIMERICK, April 23.—An alliance of the Limerick Strike Committee, the Irish Trades Union Congress, and the Labor Party was arranged for at a conference this morning. Tom Johnson, Treasurer of the Labor Congress, issued a statement announcing that the strike had become national, and that reports from other centres proved that Ireland was giving active support to Limerick.

"And," added Johnson, "it may demand the same dogged resolution as when Sarsfield had his fight. You will show the world that the men and women of 1919 are no less valiant than those of 1690."

The alliance was announced by large bills held to the pavement by stones placed upon each corner.

General Shaw, the commander in chief in Ireland, who had been in conference with General Griffin, commanding the Limerick district, returned to Dublin today. He was said to be satisfied with the Limerick military situation, which is taken to mean that there will be no extension of the area under military law, which the strikers hoped might be done.

It was said at army headquarters today that out of a population of 38,000 in Limerick 21,000 had applied for and been granted military passes. A pass was issued to Miss Rose Timmins, a leader of the Irish Labor Party, who is in Limerick.

Italian people, who, he said, "will express themselves."

Following the publication of Mr. Wilson's note on the Adriatic question, newspapermen flocked to the Hotel Ourde, where the Italian delegation makes its headquarters. In the salon reserved for Italian newspapermen Premier Orlando received the correspondents.

He said that Italy had consented to all possible concessions regarding the Dalmatian Hinterland and added that he had received this morning from England, France and the United States a reply, recognizing the rights of Italy over the Italian cities of Dalmatia, but refusing to give recognition to Italian claims on Fiume, which would become a free city without mandatory administration by any Power.

"The delegation, having learned that this was the opinion of President Wilson," he said, "declined in the course of a meeting to acknowledge the declaration of Mr. Wilson, which was published this evening, and decided to address to France and Great Britain, signatory nations to the Treaty of London, a letter setting forth the impossibility of continuing participation in the labor of the Peace Conference and expressing regret that the declaration of Mr. Wilson had rendered impossible the last supreme effort toward conciliation on the part of Italy. The message paid homage to the loyalty and fidelity of France and England."

Day of Excitement in Paris.

The Italian situation overshadowed all other questions throughout the day in Paris and was the sole subject of conversation in official and unofficial circles.

When it became known this morning that the Italian Premier was again absent from the session of the Council of Four, various rumors became current. Premier Orlando remained at Italian headquarters, but messengers carried him many notes.

Proposals and counter-proposals were made between the members of the British, French, and Italian delegations, and numerous stories of compromises were circulated. These were suddenly discredited by the issuing of President Wilson's statement, showing that the President was not a party to the proposed concessions, which were chiefly based on the supposition that Fiume would be given to Italy.

Italians Have Train Ready.

PARIS, April 22.—If one may judge by outward signs, Italy's demand for possession of Fiume has created a crisis in the Peace Conference. Orlando refused to attend either session of the Big Four today when the Far Eastern problems were considered, on the ground that unless Italy got Fiume she wished to have no part in the peace settlement.

The compromise offered yesterday on Fiume was rejected by the Italians, who say that public opinion in Italy is so aroused that compromise is impossible. All the Italian plenipotentiaries are still here, but the information is furnished to the press that two important members of the delegation have departed as the advance guard of the official Italian exodus.

The Italians have a special train ready and intimate that their plenipotentiaries will leave Paris on Wednesday. It is declared tonight in informed quarters that if the Italians withdraw the other Allies will make a separate peace with Germany and Austria.

President Wilson holds that Italy's demand for territory under the secret treaty of London is inconsistent with her acceptance of his fourteen points. The Italians say that they notified the United States when the armistice was signed of the existing secret treaty, and that this was a notice that the fourteen points did not abrogate that compact. The Americans respond with the assertion that when the Austrian armistice was signed Colonel House made a reservation that the boundary lines laid down by the armistice should not be construed as an acceptance of the treaty of London.

The seriousness of the situation cannot be overestimated, but Wilson, Clemenceau, and Lloyd George seem to be standing together in opposition to the Italian claim to Fiume and determined to make a separate peace with the enemy nations if Italy withdraws.

ROME, April 23.—For the last three or four days the people of Fiume have not worked or slept, awaiting the decisions of the Peace Conference. The mere thought of reunion with Italy, after more than 100 years under a foreign yoke, fills them with such unbounded joy that they can hardly believe it possible.

Fiume considers itself already morally bound to Italy by the self-determination of its people, according to the principle proclaimed by President Wilson. It is now only awaiting the ratification of its status by the Peace Conference.

At a recent meeting in Fiume of the organization called "Young Italy," the assemblage rose and shouted in frenzy, "Italy or death!"

PRAGUE, April 21.—A couple of days ago I crossed the track of a funeral. It was in a little village tucked up among the hills close to the Bohemian border, died of malnutrition. Quite a lot of German babies are going to die from the same cause in the next few weeks, unless something is done to prevent it.

My early impression was that, while the towns were certainly very badly off for food, things were better in the country districts. I am still firmly convinced that the rich farmers are well supplied with food. My border gendarme admitted as much. But the poorer peasantry are as badly off as the poorer townspeople, worse, indeed, for they earn less and prices, owing to the illegal operations of the townspeople who descend upon the country districts in search of food, are almost as high.

There is a certain amount of meat in Germany, and your hotel keeper will find it for you if you are willing to pay enough; but a poor peasant cannot pay 18 marks for a small portion of braised beef.

Germans Fear Border Attack.

You begin to realise the difference as soon as you cross the border into Bohemia. After two unsuccessful attempts, owing to taking the "pass" question too seriously, I took passage in a peasant's wagon, and, although I must have appeared rather unusual, no one took any notice of me at all.

Yet the Germans seem obsessed with the idea of an attack from across the border. In the frontier village of Ziegenhals my wagon passed through a whole detachment of the new volunteer army, with two field guns, the usual liberal supply of machine guns, and half a squadron of Uhlans, with black and white pennants on their lances. They had evidently returned from a long march and were covered with dust, but marching very strongly to the strains of the inevitable band.

Ziegenhals was formerly a customs station between Germany and Austria, but the Germans have now blown up the railway line and protected it with a barbed-wire chevaux de frise. Similar entanglements are on both sides of the road leading to Niklasdorf, the first Bohemian village, and where the road crosses the actual line is a hut containing half a dozen privates under a non-commissioned officer. They came out as the wagon passed and stared at us with an amused grin, but asked no questions and made no attempt to interfere with us.

There was no sign of Bohemians until the wagon reached the village of Niklasdorf, some two miles beyond. There another little party of privates came out of a cottage at the sound of wheels, regarded us with the same amused smile, and said nothing as we passed.

Food Conditions in Bohemia.

In the village of Niklasdorf—In Bohemia—I was given an excellent goulash, a slice of sweet cake and cheese, very nasty, and butter, even nastier, and bread, which was I suppose the nastiest of all; but they were at least bread and butter and cheese, the very flavor of which is forgotten three miles away on the other side of the frontier.

It would be too much to say there are no Bolsheviki in Bohemia. I doubt if there is at present one square mile anywhere in Central Europe where you may not find one of the breed at least. There are very many fewer in Bohemia than there are in Germany. It is true Bohemia is very much taken up by her new consciousness of renewed nationality and in the waving of her red-and-white banners, but there is another reason why she is less obsessed by the spectre of anarchy than is Germany, and I found it at a small manufacturing town called Hochenstadt, where I stayed for the night and was given a very excellent meal for a very small charge, an absurdly small charge if you consider that the Austrian crown is now worth about four pence.

Hochenstadt was very pleasurably excited because a shipload of American bacon had arrived and was to be distributed next morning. Personally I do not like the kind of American bacon we are getting nowadays, but it is a wonderful antidote against Bolshevism.

TELLS OF MUNICH TERROR.

Berlin Paper Says Reds Are Preparing to Flee with Cash.

BERLIN, April 23, (via Copenhagen.)—Terrorism still reigns in Munich and the Bavarian capital is on the verge of bankruptcy, the Lokal-Anzeiger says. (Previous dispatches have stated that the Hoffmann Cabinet resumed control last Sunday.) There is wholesale misery in Munich and almost all the workers are idle.

What food is arriving there is taken by the Communists. Some of the food is given to women and children, but the public kitchens and the hospitals are robbed of their allowances of food.

The Government of Premier Hoffmann, the paper adds, intends to transfer from Bamberg to Nuremberg because it is rumored that the Nuremberg Communists are planning a surprise attack on the Government in company with Munich Communists. The Hoffmann forces hope to outwit their opponents by the move.

Dr. Levien, one of the Communist leaders in Munich, is quoted as saying to his confidants that the Communist troops are not equal to an out-and-out fight with the Government forces. Levien and the other leaders are said to be planning to go to Budapest by airplane with cash taken from the Munich banks.

DANZIG WORKERS RESTIVE.

Bolshevism's Spread Hampers Repairs to American Food Ships.

LONDON, April 23.—German laborers in the shipyards at Dansig, where American food ships are being overhauled, are becoming so imbued with Bolshevism that the American Navy probably will abandon any attempt to do the repair work there. Reports received in London say that the workers are getting entirely out of control.

In one instance a foreman in charge of work on an American ship broke up a card game among the workers and ordered them back to their jobs. The workers threw the foreman overboard and continued the card game, leaving it to others to rescue the foreman from the water.

PARIS SOCIALISTS VOTE TO SEIZE WAR GAINS

Their Congress Demands Tax on Financial Monopolies and Fixing of Wage.

PARIS, April 22.—The Socialist Congress at its session today passed resolutions demanding the return to the State of excess war profits and the levying of special taxes on wealthy establishments, financial monopolies, concerns dealing in luxuries, railways, and large enterprises such as mines and banks. A reduction in the hours of labor, the fixing of minimum wages, and rigorous protection of mothers and children were also demanded.

Another resolution adopted called for the transfer, to the Pantheon of the ashes of Jean Leon Jaurès, the Socialist leader, who was assassinated in July, 1914.

The congress adopted by a majority of 894 votes a resolution offered by Jean Longuet to the effect that the French Socialists are willing to continue to form a part of the Second Internationale, provided that all those who are Socialists in name only shall be excluded.

A motion by M. Kienthallens demanding the adhesion of the French Socialists to the Third Internationale at Moscow, under the leadership of Premier Lenin of the Bolshevist Government, polled only 270 votes.

Hjalmar Branting, the Swedish Socialist leader, in his address to the congress asked the French Socialists to take into consideration the results of the Bolshevist system of government in Russia. He issued a warning against Bolshevism, because in the Bolshevist régime there is no progression. Soviet government, he said, meant absolute economic decomposition, misery, and famine.

In the Bolshevist system, M. Branting added, there is "neither the image of socialism nor its triumph," but the negotiation of socialism. The dictatorship of the proletariat was only a caricature and was not a characteristic of socialism. The development of democracy, he declared, should be the spirit of socialism.

RIOTERS MENACE FOOD SHIP PORTS

Merchants and Professional Men Turn Stevedores in Hamburg Strike.

COPENHAGEN, April 23.—A state of siege has been proclaimed in Hamburg and the suburbs of Altona and Wandsbeck, according to advices received here.

In consequence of the disturbances in Hamburg the police have received orders to shoot immediately persons carrying arms, plundering, or fighting against the national police.

LONDON, April 23.—The rioting in Hamburg affected the unloading of American food relief ships for a time, according to official reports received here, but the work was proceeding this morning with voluntary strikebreakers composed mostly of merchants and men of the professional classes, who realize the vital need of getting the food unloaded.

Until the present outbreak the navy had been able to control the German laborers, although they had been unwilling workers.

BERLIN, April 23, (Associated Press.)—There were serious disturbances in Hamburg during the week-end. A mob plundered the harbor quarter and clashed with the police, several persons being killed or wounded.

A dispatch to the Vorwärts says that there was a "regular battle" in the suburb of St. Pauli, west of the city, on Saturday. A policeman was killed and several others were wounded, but the rioters suffered worse than the officers.

The rioting was renewed on Tuesday, arms being distributed to mobs in St. Pauli. Several police depots were attacked and one was captured by the mobs.

The situation in Bremen has also become serious. A state of siege has been proclaimed by the Senate there and the publication of all newspapers, pamphlets, and placards has been prohibited.

Private persons are not allowed to use the telephones or the telegraphs, letters are being censored, and the restaurants, theatres, motion picture houses, and schools have been ordered closed.

The regulations provide that no one shall be permitted on the streets between 8 P. M. and 6 A. M. Public traffic and even church going have been stopped, and a cordon has been thrown about the city.

COUNCIL DISCUSSES KIAO-CHAU PROBLEM

Not Far Apart on the Object Aimed At, but Best Method in Doubt.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The Council of Four, which was reduced to a Council of Three by the absence of Premier Orlando, held morning and afternoon sessions at the "White House" today and devoted the discussion to a question which is proving hardly less difficult than the Italian issue.

Japan's case was presented by Viscount Chinda and Baron Makino at the morning session, and China's by Dr. Wellington Koo and other Chinese delegates at the afternoon session.

Japan desires that the adjustment shall be written into the peace treaty. It is understood that the two delegations are not far apart upon China's obtaining ultimate control of Kiao-Chau, but that the main difference is over accomplishing this by cession through Japan or by immediate recognition of China's territorial control.

The Kiao-Chau question has brought up reports of another secret treaty, said to have been signed in London soon after the beginning of the war, recognizing Japan's rights in Kiao-Chau.

GEORGE WASHINGTON WAITS.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson's plans for his departure have not been changed since he formed the determination to leave Europe about May 20. But, in order not to keep the United States transport George Washington inactive nearly a month there was some thought of letting her make a trip with troops returning home.

In the meantime, however, the crew and officers have received leave until May 1. Portions of her machinery have been dismounted, so the contemplated transportation of troops has been given up for the present, although it may be carried out, should the negotiations be prolonged.

It is the President's purpose to await the signing of the treaty and personally attach his signature as senior American plenipotentiary.

FIGHT SECRECY AT VERSAILLES

American Correspondents Protest Against Exclusion from the Parleys.

GERMAN COMING DELAYED

Delegates Send Word That They Cannot Reach Paris Until May 1.

German Delegates to Propose a Bernstorff League Plan

LONDON, April 23.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam asserts that the German peace delegates have been instructed to propose at Versailles a plan for a League of Nations to replace the plan adopted by the peace conferees in Paris.

The dispatch adds that the German plan was drafted mainly by Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States; Mathias Erzberger, President of the German Armistice Commission; Professor Walther M. A. Schuecking, and Carl Kautsky, one of the Socialist leaders.

PARIS, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The first of President Wilson's Fourteen Points, the one calling for open diplomacy, is again being put to the test in the arrangements for the Versailles congress. The announcement of the probable arrival of the German delegation on April 28 postpones the opening session from Friday to Monday. An executive session is provided for, with no admission of the public to the meeting or within the building in which the session is held. A pavilion in the neighboring gardens will provide accommodations for the press.

The American correspondents have decided to protest against the secrecy of the proceedings.

At a meeting held today to consider from a news-gathering point of view the plans prepared by the Peace Conference for the meetings of the allied and German delegates they appointed a committee with instructions to try to obtain permission for newspaper men to be present at the negotiations. The committee was also told to demand the right to talk with the spokesmen for the German delegation.

The final drafting of the treaty is proceeding with difficulty, owing to the magnitude of the task and the great number of topics partly concluded. The force working on the draft has been doubled and the Government printing facilities have been largely augmented.

An official summary of the treaty for publication after its delivery has been prepared, but the date on which it will be given out has not yet been fixed. The revised covenant of the League of Nations has already been cabled to the State Department.

Why Discussion is Impossible.

In connection with the question of permitting the German delegates to the Peace Congress to discuss the treaty, it has been calculated that if the treaty were read to the Germans it would require at least one minute for each of the 1,000 articles the document contains, taking up two days of eight hours each. It is computed also that if each article were discussed and an hour allowed for every one the discussion would occupy four months of continued sessions of eight hours per day.

These calculations are advanced as a conclusive argument against permitting the German delegates to discuss the document.

Allied View of Discussions.

When M. Clemenceau recently telegraphed to Berlin demanding that Germany send plenipotentiaries to Versailles instead of messengers, as Germany proposed, it was fully understood that the reason for asking for the presence of responsible personages was that they would be able to raise points for reasonable discussion and decide upon their acceptance or rejection.

It was pointed out today in competent allied quarters here that such raising of points did not anticipate long arguments, with possible references to Berlin but merely questions which the Allies considered might admit of slight modification.

The German Government has officially advised the allied and associated Governments that the German plenipotentiaries will not leave Berlin before April 28, and that they will reach Versailles May 1, at the earliest.

Seven newspaper men will accompany the plenipotentiaries, the dispatch adds.

A delegation of three and a suite of seventy-five persons with a staff of forty telegraph operators and electricians to prepare for the telegraphic installations will arrive at Versailles from Spa immediately.

This delegation will be composed of Herr von Wachambers, a Counsellor of Embassy; Herr Walter, an inspector, and Herr Vunker, an official of thee Food Department.

The council of five Foreign Ministers today approved a clause for the Peace Treaty submitted by representatives of nations which severed diplomatic and trade relations with Germany without declaring war.

This clause provides that Germany shall renounce any claims for damages from these nations for acts committed during the war. The clause covers a point which is very important to those States which seized German and Austrian ships during the period of hostilities.

The Council of Five again took up the clause defining the frontiers of Czechoslovakia and Poland, reserving for future discussion the disposition of Teschen, on which a decision was not reached.

Minor clauses, covering the status of German property in former German colonies, the acceptance by Germany of the Berlin and Brussels agreements, the regulation of liquor traffic and other collateral issues were also taken up.

Another article for consideration concerned the granting of rights to foreign airships and airplanes to fly over enemy territory after the peace treaty was signed, and to land there.

The Uruguayan delegates to the Peace Conference proposed today that a clause be inserted in the peace treaty by which Germany would waive all rights over German ships interned in neutral ports. The purpose of the clause is to remove the possibility of German protests concerning the ships in the future.

AMSTERDAM, April 23.—The German peace plenipotentiaries, the Frankfort Zeitung says, have been instructed not to sign the treaty of peace unless it provides for the immediate and unconditional return of German prisoners of war.

JAPAN TO RECOGNIZE KOLCHAK GOVERNMENT

Also to Co-operate More Harmoniously with Allies in Siberia, Washington Hears.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Information reaches Washington through authentic channels that Japan has decided to join with the British, French, American, and Italian Governments in recognizing the Omsk Government as the de facto Government of non-Bolshevist Russia. News has also reached Washington that the Liberals in the Japanese Cabinet have won a victory over the militarists in the matter of the Japanese Siberian policy, and these two developments are regarded as being of exceptional significance, not only in their bearing upon the Russian situation but upon Far Eastern problems.

To Secretary Lansing is credited the triumph of winning the Japanese Government, through its delegates at Paris, over to the plan of the allied Governments for recognition of the Omsk Government after the Germans have signed the peace treaty.

According to advices received here, General Tanaka, the Japanese Minister of War, for the first time since the Hara Ministry came into power, has yielded an important point to the more liberal counsel of Count Uchida, the Japanese Foreign Minister, in the matter of Siberian policy. Count Uchida is represented as having endeavored, ever since the interallied expeditionary forces were sent to Vladivostok, to have Japan act in full harmony with the other Entente powers participating in the enterprise, only to be overridden by the war party.

Recent events, however, are said to have played into the hands of Premier Hara, Foreign Minister Uchida, and the liberals. The clashes between Japanese officers in Siberia and the American and British officers were blamed on the aggressive policy of the militarists, and the failure of Japan to obtain the co-operation of the American and British troops in certain ventures in Siberia has furnished the liberals the opportunity of contending that the Siberian policy of the militarists was weak. As a result Premier Hara and the Japanese Foreign Office have been able to regain control over the Cabinet to the extent of securing from General Tanaka an agreement to be guided by Count Uchida in the conduct of the Siberian expedition, so that less friction between the various allied forces is now expected.

PERSHING AND BAKER REVIEW TWO DIVISIONS

Decorations Conferred on Members of 99th—33d Parades on Eve of Homecoming.

LUXEMBURG, April 23.—Twenty-three thousand soldiers of the Prairie Division, many of whom fought on the Somme with the British and later with the First American Army in the drive at St. Mihiel and in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, heard their record highly praised yesterday afternoon by Secretary of War Baker and General Pershing, who reviewed the prominent part the division had played in the hostilities.

The scene of the review by the American Commander in Chief, preparatory to the departure of this, the 33d Division, for home, was on a great meadow near Diekirch, which has been the headquarters of this unit, made up principally of Illinois National Guardsmen. Ettelbruck, Diekirch, and other towns in the area were elaborately decorated with American flags and flags of Luxemburg in honor of Secretary Baker's visit and the review of the troops.

The Secretary and the General arrived at Diekirch in the morning from France in General Pershing's special train. The party was on the way to Coblens for a hurried trip over the bridgehead area, and the 33d was the first division of the Third Army which Secretary Baker visited.

Secretary Baker told the men of the division of the wonderful welcome which was awaiting them at home and of his hopes of getting all the men on the homeward way as soon as possible. General Pershing in his talk said the occasion was his first opportunity since the armistice to thank the 33d for what it had done, and declared there was no finer lot of fighting men anywhere on earth.

During General Pershing's inspection Secretary Baker mingled with the men, asking questions about the mail service, food, and bedding, and whether the men wanted to parade at home.

Among the spectators in the reviewing stand was Crown Prince Leopold of Belgium, a lad of 17 years. He wore the uniform of a Belgian infantry private.

TREVES, April 23, (Associated Press.)—In a great hangar near Treves, formerly used by the Germans for housing Zeppelins, Secretary Baker and General Pershing this afternoon addressed the troops of the 89th Division after a review which was witnessed by members of the military affairs committee of the United States House of Representatives on their way to Coblenz.

The review took place on the aviation field, also used for years by German aviators and soldiers, and the troops later assembled in the shed, covering several acres, where they listened to the speeches.

Among those in the reviewing stand were Major Gen. Dickman, commander of the Third Army; Major Gen. James G. Harbord, Chief of the Supply Service, and the Belgian Crown Prince.

Forty-five decorations were presented by General Pershing, Brig. Gen. F. L. Winn, commander of the 89th, receiving the Distinguished Service Medal and the Croix de Guerre.

The review of the 89th, which was originally made up of National Army troops from Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, and New Mexico, but which now has members from virtually every State in the Union, is taken to indicate that the date will be set soon for the departure of these troops home.

Secretary Baker left tonight for Coblenz, where he will spend two days, the Belgian Crown Prince accompanying him.

SAY JAPANESE TROOPS MASSACRED KOREANS

Governor General Investigating Report That Christians Were Slain and Church Burned.

SEOUL, April 23, (Associated Press.)—The Governor General of Korea is investigating charges that Japanese troops in a hamlet forty-five miles southeast of Seoul summoned the male Christians of the village to the church and shot and bayonetted them.

It is reported also that the troops afterward burned the church and other houses in the village.

GRAND CROSS FOR BENSON.

He and Beatty to Receive Highest Legion of Honor Decoration.

PARIS, April 23.—The British Admiral, Sir David Beatty, who has arrived here, and the American Admiral William S. Benson will both receive the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor from the French Government.

URAL COSSACKS IN NEW ADVANCE

Join in Great Encircling Movement That Is Hemming In Red Russia.

SEIZE SEVERAL VILLAGES

Captured Bolshevist First Army Said to Have Gone Over to the Ukrainians.

LONDON, April 23.—Ural Cossack troops, apparently acting in conjunction with the Siberian forces of Admiral Kolchak, have begun an offensive in the region of Uralsk, in Southeastern Russia, south of Samara, and have captured several villages west of Uralsk.

Thirty-five miles southwest of Uralsk fighting is taking place between the Cossacks and the Bolsheviki for the possession of the fortress of Shevoridn.

(Uralsk is the terminus of the railway line running east from Saratov, on the Volga, and is about 260 miles southwest of Srittamak, where the Kolchak forces were reported several days ago to be advancing southward on Oranberg.)

A Russian wireless official statement, under date of April 22, admitting the progress of the Ural Cossacks, says that further north the Bolsheviki have carried out further retirements "owing to enemy pressure."

An official statement received today from Rovno by the Ukrainian Press Bureau at Berne, Switzerland, says that a large part of the Bolshevist first army which surrendered several days ago to the Ukrainians has offered voluntarily to fight the Bolsheviki and already has been in action with the Ukrainians against the Bolsheviki at Ultmi, in the Pripet region.

North Russians Drive Foe South.

A War Office communication issued this evening dealing with the situation on the Russian front says that from information received from the Russian forces on the Petchora River it has been learned that the Russians, in conjunction with Siberians, have cleared the Bolsheviki from Ust Ishma and that the Bolsheviki are retreating to the upper reaches of the Ishma River, taking horses and some of the male inhabitants with them.

The statement adds that the Siberians are joined everywhere by the local inhabitants and that the Siberian commander has been met by a British mission from Archangel.

Large quantities of material were abandoned by the Bolsheviki when they were driven out of Solsko Osersk recently, according to the report of Major Gen. Edmond Ironside, British Commander in Chief on the Archangel front, regarding the operation. His report continues:

"We captured two field guns, 1,000 rounds of three-inch ammunition, and prisoners. The spirit of the troops taking part was excellent, and they have done exceedingly well."

Regarding the general situation, General Ironside says:

"Deserters from the Bolshevist forces have joined our own and the Russian troops. They openly show their hatred of the Bolsheviki and bear witness to the hard conditions of service. This has done more than anything else to consolidate the new Russian army."

General Ironside in his report mentions especially a battalion of Royal Scots with the North Russian force as having had the hardest time of any troops in the Archangel sector, with the heaviest casualties, but as displaying high morale throughout and never showing a sign of being disspirited. The General also mentions several times the excellent work and spirit of the American engineer companies, who also have formed a part of his command for some time.

The following cablegram was received yesterday by the Russian Information Bureau in New York from the Russian Telegraphic Agency at Omsk:

OMSK, April 18.—The Red Army is retreating along the entire eastern front. In the regions north of Perm and south of Samara many peasants' uprisings against the Bolsheviki are taking place as a result of our victories.

The Siberian troops have taken Buguruslan, on the march towards Samara. One of the Bolshevist regiments garrisoned in Samara revolted and refused to go to the front. Uprisings are going on in the various parts of Bolshevist Russia. Large detachments of the Red army are being sent against the revolting peasants. According to a Bolshevist radio dispatch, an uprising against the Bolsheviki took place at Kazan and the revolutionists are now marching toward Yelabouga.

A detachment of Russian troops left Archangel on March 15 to join the Siberian army and is expected in Omsk in the course of a few days.

Closing In on Red Bands.

Reports of fighting at widely separated places mentioned in the above and recent dispatches indicate that the various anti-Bolshevist Russian forces in the east, southeast and north are combining in a great strategic encircling movement, in which on the west Ukrainians, Poles, Lithuanians, Esthonians, and other elements appear to be co-operating. This is gradually driving the Bolsheviki back into Soviet Russia, whose chief centres are Moscow and Petrograd, and must in due course imperil the Red armies operating in the Crimean and other southern regions.

Advices to Washington have disclosed that the plan of campaign in the east conceived and being carried out by Admiral Kolchak with his Siberian armies has greatly impressed the military authorities of the Entente Powers. The rapid development of his operations are held to have rendered the positions held by the Red forces east of the Volga untenable. It is believed that his advance will not stop at that great river, but that his objective is Moscow. It is known that the eventual objective of the Russian army in the north is Petrograd.

REDS THREATEN FLOOD OF BOGUS BANKNOTES

Easy to Counterfeit American, French, and English Issues, Says Bolshevist Financier.

GENEVA, April 23.—The Russian Bolshevist leader and financier, Zinovieff, according to a Helsingfors dispatch, on being informed that the Russian ruble was prohibited on American and other exchanges, said smilingly:

"We possess abroad plenty of gold script, on which we can depend for a long time. Besides, it would be easy to fabricate American, English, and French banknotes, and thus flood the world with counterfeit money. It would amuse my comrades."

RED TERROR IN ODESSA.

Chinese Troops Used to Commit Atrocities on Citizens.

MARSEILLES, April 23, (French Wireless Service.)—The steamer Souirah has arrived here from Odessa with 450 French civilian refugees on board.

Several of the repatriated men said that when they left Odessa terror reigned. In the carrying out of their maltreatment of the people, they declared, the Bolsheviki had resorted to the use of Chinamen, the most savage of these people being used. It was asserted that a man named Skvirski, an engineer of Kronstadt, was stabbed with knives all over his body and then compelled to sit on a pan of hot coals. He was burned to death in the presence of his wife, who later died from shock.

Other Chinamen, the repatriated men related, dug holes, in which land owners were buried alive. Other land owners were drowned, stones having been tied about their necks before they were thrown into the water. Any person suspected of anti-Bolshevist tendencies was shot down in the streets by the Chinese, it was declared.

RED RAID IN EAST SIBERIA.

Foe Attempts to Cut Railroad and Ambushes a Russian Force.

KRASNOYARSK, Siberia, April 22, (Via Vladivostok.) (By Canadian Press.)—A large Bolshevist force is endeavoring to cut the Siberian railway line east of Krasnoyarsk and fighting is going on daily in the vicinity of Talshed and Yurd. Last Thursday the enemy ambushed a force of 200 Russians and only eighty of them returned to their base. The trails leading to the Bolshevist villages are commanded by machine gun nests and the Russians have been unable to advance through the woods, which are deep in snow.

The railway line is held strongly by Serbians and Czechs with field guns. Because of the heavy weather and the deep snow it is probable that the Bolsheviki will not be subjugated until Summer.

Colonel Brook, Adjutant of the Canadian forces in Siberia, is on his way to Vladivostok arranging for the withdrawal of Canadian details in the interior of Siberia. The only Canadian troops left at Omsk are hospital detachments.

CALL PLAN TO FEED RED RUSSIA FUTILE

Northern Government Officials Say Bolsheviki Are Now in Precarious Position.

ARCHANGEL, April 21, (Associated Press.)—Opposition by officials of the Government of North Russia to the plan for feeding Bolshevist Russia, as recently made public in Paris, is based not only on unwillingness to provision territory occupied by forces of a Government the North Russians are fighting but because they believe the plan would not be efficacious in combating Bolshevism.

In the interview given The Associated Press correspondent recording his opposition to the plan Lieut. Gen. Eugene Karlovitch Miller, acting head of the Archangel Government, expressed the view that those who helped Bolshevist Russia in this wise would in effect be allying themselves with the Bolsheviki. Others in official circles expressed opposition to the scheme, and on all hands there was approval of the statement of the Russian leaders in Paris that those aiming toward the regeneration of Russia should not for one moment cease fighting the Bolsheviki.

General Miller characterized as "impossible and impracticable" the proposition that the anti-Bolshevist Russians should cease fighting at any place in order to allow provisions to reach their enemies.

"The Bolshevist Government," continued the General, "is hard pressed from a military standpoint by the Siberian forces and it is now helpless in the north. In the interior it faces hunger. It would doubtless welcome an armistice and would eagerly accept help from outside. Those who help it would, in effect at least, simply be making an alliance with the Bolsheviki."

And this, the General said, was at a time when victory for the opponents of Bolshevism was in hand.

General Miller stated that the period of trial for the new Russian troops in the north was finished. He pointed out that the Russian force which was fighting on the northern front last Autumn was small and its morale nothing to brag of. "But now," continued the General, "the number of Russians in the north equals that of all the Allies combined. Their morale is excellent. On the actual fighting fronts most of the work is now being done by the Russians. They are more and more taking the first line positions, while the Allies protect the rear."

General Miller said the morale of the soldiers had improved while they were at the front because there were now in contact with peasants who had suffered from Bolshevist depredations, so that whatever the troops had thought previously of the theories of Bolshevism, they soon learned to hate that doctrine in practice.

"It must be understood," General Miller said, "that this civil war is not only a war of principles, but a war against brigandage. All over Russia there are little groups of Bolshevist brigands and anti-Bolshevist peasants engaged in fighting and full of a hatred that can only be wiped out by extermination. The fulfillment of the Bolshevist pledges would result in the extermination of the bourgeois classes. The issue is so clear that there is but one solution of it—the complete defeat of the Bolshevist leaders, who, having guns, impose their will on those who do not have them."

General Miller said that the refusal of the Russian anti-Bolshevist governments to permit food to reach their enemies should be compared with what the attitude of the North in the American civil war would have been had an outside nation sought to break the Union blockade and feed the South.

In giving his views on the question another official of the North Russian Government said:

"The Russian situation is not a case like that of two small boys throwing mud at each other and in which one could stop them fighting by offering them a bag of cookies."

LONDON PRESS FEAR WIDENING BREACH

Italy to forego part of the territory to which she is entitled under the treaty. If, however, the Italians insist on their treaty rights Britain and France will stand by the treaty, but will insist on the provision regarding Fiume being carried into effect. It is understood that Lloyd George and Clemenceau have been endeavoring to bring about a settlement.

The Daily News, in an editorial headed "The Breaking Point," says of President Wilson's statement:

"Such a step would clearly never have been taken except as a last resource, after the failure of all private negotiations. What is clear is that two antagonistic principles which have been in more or less veiled conflict throughout the Conference now meet in a death struggle. . . .

"Italy has agreed to the fourteen points and actually bases certain of her claims upon them, but that agreement in itself invalidates the claims which she is making under the treaty of London. It is not logically possible at one and the same time to pose as the champion of open covenants and to press claims based avowedly on secret agreements, to demand guarantees under the principle for self-determination for national independence, and to urge claims which deny to neighbor nations the elementary conditions of independence."

The Daily Express finds it impossible to give any sort of judgment "in such questions as those which threaten the Conference with a disaster difficult to measure." It appeals to the nation blindly to support Lloyd George "in the most onerous task any Prime Minister has ever undertaken," and concludes:

"Whatever he counsels—compromise or no—he is England and he must have the national confidence and support."

HUNGARIAN REDS ASK ARMISTICE

Want the Rumanian Army to Halt Its Advance Toward Budapest.

CAPITAL AFRAID OF ANARCHY

All Unemployed Workmen Ordered to Report for Work in Munition Factories.

BERLIN, April 22, (Associated Press.)—The Soviet Government in Hungary has asked for a suspension of the Rumanian offensive and the arrangement of an armistice, according to Vienna reports received here. One of these reports quotes the Neue Wiener Journal to this effect. The dispatch adds that the Government of Bela Kun has announced its readiness to retire in favor of a Socialist cabinet.

The reports are connected with the departure for Budapest of Colonel Cunningham, the British representative in Vienna, but the Vossische Zeitung's correspondent says Colonel Cunningham has gone to the Hungarian capital merely in response to an invitation by Bela Kun's Government, which wished to convince him that the reports of murder and robbery in Budapest were baseless.

LONDON, April 23, (via Montreal.)—According to authoritative information the Rumanian advance into Hungary is progressing well.

Rumania is acting solely under the orders of the Allies and purely with the object of stemming the Bolshevist advance. No permanent occupation of territory is contemplated without the sanction of the Peace Conference.

While the danger of a Bolshevist attack on Rumania is not entirely removed, it is believed that the position is much improved. The spirit of the Rumanian Army is splendid, and the arrival of food, equipment, and stores is having a stimulating effect.

BUDAPEST, April 22, (Associated Press.)—This city is going through a crisis worse than that of April 3. There is apprehension that there will be a violent swing to anarchy, with the Socialists losing control to Bolshevist leaders like Bela Kun and chiefs of the Red Guard. Looting, which hitherto has been held in check or legalized as the "nationalization of property," and the assassination of the old political leaders and the aristocrats is feared.

Reports are current that the Rumanians and Czechs have received orders from the Allies to march on Budapest. This is increasing the uneasiness here. It is felt, however, that the Rumanians are advancing merely to occupy the territories set aside for them by the allied note of March 20, which resulted in the resignation of Count Michael Karolyi, the former Premier.

The fact that the Communists are unable to prevent the Allies from occupying the districts involved is weakening the influence of Bela Kun and causing violent hatred against the Allies among the Hungarians.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 21.—All the coffee houses and restaurants in Budapest closed last night. The private use of the telephone is forbidden. There have been several hundred arrests, including Count Michael Karolyi.

All unemployed workmen were ordered to report this morning for work in the munition factories. Reserve officers not already with the red army are ordered to join on pain of death.

Bela Kun declared in a speech to the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council that if the bourgeoisie would not assist actively, they must be bloodily exterminated. The Rumanians are reported to have occupied the whole left bank of the Theiss River, the red army offering no resistance.

AIR MINISTRY PRODS BRITISH SEA FLIERS

Wants to Know Why They Haven't Started on Transatlantic Flight.

OUR NAVY HAS A CHANCE

Bad Weather Predicted Until May 1 —Seaplane Supply Ship Reported on Way to Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 23.—A cable message from the British Air Ministry, asking reasons for the failure of Harry G. Hawker, the Australian aviator and pilot of the Sopwith biplane, and Captain Frederick P. Raynham, his British rival, who is to pilot the Martinsyde entry for The Daily Mail's $50,000 prize, to start their transatlantic flights, created a stir in the aviators' camp here tonight.

The cablegram, directed to Lieutenant Lawrence J. Clements, meteorological expert of the Royal Air Force, assigned here in connection with the proposed flights, said that all weather reports reaching England had indicated favorable weather conditions for the start.

Following a consultation with Hawker and Raynham, Lieutenant Clements replied that daily wireless reports from vessels at sea showed that conflicting winds made a start inauspicious. Both aviators, when asked about their "failure to fly," said it had been due to local conditions and reports of adverse winds and weather in midocean as received from Lieutenant Clements.

It has been generally conceded here that Hawker realizes now that he allowed almost perfect conditions to pass on April 10 and 11, but unpreparedness, notwithstanding his haste to forestall Raynham, was advanced as his reason for letting the opportunity pass.

With mist and rain today, followed by more rain tonight, Hawker and Raynham face the prospect of further delay, and Lieutenant Clements said there was nothing in today's report to offer hope of improved conditions for forty-eight hours more.

The trouble seems to lie in the "storm belt" of the North Atlantic, an area of about 200 square miles in which winds are reported from northern, eastern, and southern quarters, but none from the west. Local fogs are an added handicap to be considered, but with good conditions at sea it was said the aviators would decide to seek clear conditions at higher levels.

Raynham today held a ground test for his motor. The Martinsyde plane has received minor repairs since its trial flight on Thursday. Now everything is declared ready. Major C. W. Morgan, Raynham's navigator, asserted that the next flight will be the "big hop."

Hawker went out to his hangar on Mount Pearl Plateau this afternoon, and inspected his Sopwith, ordering daily warm-up runs for the engine.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 23.—The meteorologists of the Royal Air Force reported to their local representative today that there was no prospect of weather favorable for a transatlantic flight before the end of this month. They could give no positive predictions of better conditions even then. The east winds which have hindered the attempt winds which have hindered the attempt for a week or more are not now so prevalent, but beam winds, some northerly, some southerly, would be encountered almost all the way across if the start were made now.

Newfoundland officials and James S. Benedict, the American Consul here, are without information of the destination of the Aroostook, the minelayer said to be proceeding here with the United States Navy seaplane's advance party. Lieutenant Commander P. N. L. Bellinger and Lieutenant Stone, U. S. N., when they came overland to St. John's after the destroyer Barney had been blocked by ice, conferred with Mr. Benedict and went to Trepassey, 135 miles south of St. John's when the Barney, advised by the Consul's wireless, met them and returned with them to the United States. This alone gave rise to the report that Trepassey would be the jumping-off place for the United States Navy seaplanes. R. E. Byrd, an officer of the United States Navy, was here last October searching for a seaplane station for the American submarine patrol, based on Halifax. He paid much attention to Cape Broyle Harbor, but this point has been selected by Lieut. Col. Porte for the Porte flying boat, which also is to attempt the crossing.

FOUR FLY TO SPRINGFIELD.

Lieutenant Torney Wins Parsons Cup Among Planes at Finish.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 23.—Four of the six airplanes that left Mineola early this afternoon for this city to do "stunts" in the Victory Loan campaign arrived here about 3:30 o'clock. Lieutenant Stewart W. Torney was first to land, winning the Parsons Cup offered by the local committee.

One machine, piloted by Lieutenant Darrell Montieth was faced to land ten miles south of Hartford, Conn., but arrived an hour later, while one piloted by Lieutenant Ulysses G. Jones came down only a few miles from the start. Major Jack W. Heard is in charge of the squadron.

The planes were new ones that had not flown prior to today. They were lined up by signal in air for the race for the Parsons Cup when about half way to this city.

TO FLY TO SOUTH POLE.

John Cope of Shackleton Party Plans Expedition in 1920.

LONDON, April 23.—Another Antarctic expedition is being prepared for, according to a statement printed in this morning's newspapers. John Cope, biologist with the British Antarctic expeditions of 1914 and 1917, will be the leader and expects the expedition to start in June 1920.

He proposes, besides carrying on scientific investigations, to ascertain the extent of mineral and other valuable deposits on the Antarctic continent. He has secured the famous exploration ship Terra Nova and intends to take an airplane for surveying the interior of the continent. He hopes to make a flight to the South Pole.

Cope and eight comrades narrowly escaped death when the Aurora, the rescue ship sent for the Shackleton party in 1916, broke her moorings and left them on the great ice barrier surrounding the Antarctic continent.

PLAN PERSHING WELCOME.

British War Office to Honor American Commander in Chief in London.

LONDON, April 23.—The British War Office has begun to arrange for signally honoring General Pershing, the American Commander-in-Chief, on his approaching visit to London, which it is believed will take place about the middle of May. Until the date of the General's trip and the length of his stay are definitely determined, however, the plans must necessarily be left in an incomplete state.

General Pershing will receive the full honors due to the commander of the forces of an allied nation, it was stated at the War Office today.

EXPLAINS WAR TAX RULES.

Dr. Klein Urges the Necessity of Filing Abatement Claims.

Dr. Joseph J. Klein, certified public accountant and expert on income tax, returned last night from Washington, where he conferred with Government officials relative to the revised regulations, No. 45, just issued by Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, which deal with income tax as well as with war profits and excess profits tax. The revised regulations cover over 300 pages, and its main feature, Mr. Klein said, was a comprehensive subject index covering forty-five pages, whereby even the uninitiated can readily fathom all the intricacies of the tax.

The law respecting inventory abatement claims and the fact that all taxpayers must keep books, Mr. Klein said, were the most important features of the new regulations. Regarding abatement claims, he said:

"Under the original regulations the matter was not fully disposed of. We now learn, from Articles 263-268, that losses due to shrinkages in inventory values, if the merchandise in question has not been sold at the time when the return and claim has been filed, will not be decided until after the close of the taxable year of 1919. Article 267 implies that the entire 1918 inventory must have resulted in a loss in order to substantiate a claim, because the following information is called for with respect to all items included in the 1918 inventory: Items sold at a loss during 1919, items sold at a profit during 1919, and items still on hand at the close of 1919.

"Inasmuch as a penalty of 1 per cent. per month is added to the amount of tax held in abeyance on such amount as is disallowed, and as it is quite possible that a full year or more may elapse before the claim is disposed of, taxpayers who avail themselves of the abatement privilege may find that they have paid a heavy penalty. The alternative is to file no abatement claim until within thirty days after the close of the year 1919, at which time a refund may be claimed for such amount as is provably lost.

"The difference between the two methods of procedure lies in the fact that under the first method the initial tax payment is reduced, whereas under the second method the full original amount is paid and a refund requested from the Government. Taxpayers are cautioned to adopt the first method unless losses have been incurred as a result of actual sales at the time when the return is filed, and unless they are positive that with respect to the unsold merchandise there has been a permanent drop in market values."

SEES PEACE IN LEAGUE.

Text of Ambassador Wallace's Address to President Poincare.

PARIS, April 22.—Hugh C. Wallace, American Ambassador to France, in presenting his credentials to President Poincare today, said:

"Mr. President: "I have the honor to present to your Excellency the letters which accredit me as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary of the United States to the French Republic. I am indeed honored, for I come at the end of the world war to salute victorious France in the name of the American people. In that struggle Frenchmen and Americans fought side by side until the final victory was won on French soil, under French command; and Paris, for a time the capital of the world, is now witnessing the erection of the temple of peace.

"We hope to dedicate that temple in the name of the League of Nations, and make it its home; for the great war which was fought in the defence of civilization should be the last conflict of mankind. When victory came it was complete, and the peace which is to follow should be enduring. It is now the task of the allied nations to confer that peace upon humanity, but first to unite the world in support of it. At that labor and the great task of reconstruction France and America, one in aim and principle, are working with united energy.

"I am fortunate, Mr. President, to come to you at such a time, for my opportunity is great. Great also is my responsibility, but my task itself should be easy. The deeds we have done and are yet to do together need no interpretation. Words fall from our lips in different accents, but as friends and allies in war and peace we speak the common language of the heart."

DENIES WIFE ENDED LIFE.

Joseph Hoadley in Testifying Says Death Was Accidental.

Joseph H. Hoadley of 18 East Eighty-second Street, whose wife, Mrs. Fannie C. Hoadley, died of gas poisoning at her home ten days ago, testifying yesterday at the Chief Medical Examiner's Office in the Municipal Building, challenged the decision of the Medical Examiner that she had committed suicide. Mr. Hoadley insisted that the death of his wife was due to an accident, caused either by failure to close a gas jet or by entering a room in which gas was flowing without her knowledge.

In his testimony Mr. Hoadley described how he and his wife had passed the evening previous to her death. He said they had been together until a late hour talking and reading, and when they finally retired Mrs. Hoadley had announced that she would sleep in one of the guest rooms. Mr. Hoadley declared his wife had no cause whatever to take her life and that her life was most harmonious in all relations. Other witnesses questioned were Senepa Ono, the Japanese butler, who told of finding Mrs. Hoadley unconscious; Joseph Wade, her son-in-law, and Policeman J. A. Martha, who said he had been notified some hours after the finding of the body.

Dr. Schwartz, acting Chief Medical Examiner, said the investigation would be continued and other witnesses heard, one of whom will be Joseph E. Shipley, an undertaker's employe, who will be questioned concerning the embalming of the body before getting a certificate from the Medical Examiner.

DOUBT REVOLT IN TURKEY.

British Discredit Report of Soviet Rule, but Hear of Move for It.

LONDON, April 23.—The rumor that a Soviet Government had been set up in Turkey, which has attracted much attention here, remains entirely without confirmation, and is now treated with considerable incredulity.

It is pointed out that the source of the news, Odessa, is in the hands of the Bolsheviki, and that British warships at Constantinople, being equipped with wireless plants, might have been expected to report the fact if the rumor were true, but nothing has been heard from the fleet.

Another report, which is regarded here as being more likely to be true, comes in a wireless dispatch from Moscow, to the effect that the Turkish Consul at Odessa has made proposals to a Russian Soviet official there that the Bolsheviki send revolutionary instructions to Constantinople with a view to initiating the establishment of the Soviet system in Turkey.

CZERNIN HELD IN AUSTRIA.

Says He Wanted to Go to Paris to Consult "Big Four."

GENEVA, April 23, (Associated Press.)—Count Czernin, former Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, who was arrested last week at Feldkirch, a short distance east of the Swiss frontier, near Buchs, because he had no passports, has been released on parole. Count Czernin is not to leave Austria.

It is reported that the Count desired to go to Paris in order to consult with the Council of Four.

N C-3 TAKES AIR CARRYING NINE

Navy Seaplane's Successful Trial Arouses Hopes of Transatlantic Victory.

WEATHER GIVES A CHANCE

British Planes May Be Held in Newfoundland Until Our Airships Are Ready to Start.

The possibility that the United States may be the first to start an airplane on a transatlantic flight and get away before the climatic conditions permit the Sopwith and Martinsyde biplanes to leave Newfoundland was discussed by officers and aviators at Rockaway Beach yesterday when the N C-3 on its maiden flight took to the water and air like a huge gray seagull. The N C-3, the most modern of the naval hydroplanes, made its initial flight yesterday afternoon with nine passengers, including three pilots, and was in the air for thirty-three minutes.

Because of the remarkable flying weather the new machine was taken from its hangar at 4:30 o'clock, and all morning a squad of experts tested the four twelve-cylinder Liberty motors. So great was the improvement in the new sea boat that no new features will be experimented with on the N C-1 and N C-4, according to officers at the Naval Station. Besides doing away with the pilot carriage and using three tractor motors instead of two tractor and two pushers, a combination engine and chemical firing apparatus are the latest features.

When the motors were started the big airship skimmed over the water at different speeds, following an "S"-shape course to test the steering apparatus. The hydroplane responded perfectly and Commander H. C. Richardson, piloting the ship, raised the elevators. Instantly the big boat took the air and several pessimistic groans from the mechanics changed into shouts of joy. The biplane circled about Jamaica Bay and climbed to a height of about 500 feet.

It was noticed by spectators, among whom was Commander John H. Towers, who has just come on from Washington, that before the hydroplane left the water the propeller of the starboard motor was not revolving. When the airboat returned it was still stationary and Commander Richardson said that the motor did not operate during the entire trip but that it had scarcely no effect on the successful operation of the plane.

Commander Towers refused to discuss any plans for the transatlantic flight. Considerable criticism is heard over the plan to send the ships on a 1,500-mile journey to Newfoundland, 1,000 miles further than a hydroplane has ever taken, to a jumping-off place whence they will start for Portugal by way of the Azores.

WASHINGTON, April 23, (Associated Press.)—Naval orders made public today mention the names of four vessels in connection with the proposed transatlantic flight. They are the U. S. S. Aroostook, Baltimore, Melville, and Shawmut. Ensign Peter Talbot, according to the orders, is assigned to the Aroostook in connection with the flight: Ensign Cornelius J. O. Connor to the Baltimore, Boatswain Harry W. Weinberg to the Melville, and Boatswain George L. Kennedy to the Shawmut. Machinist Rasmus Christiansen is ordered to report at Rockaway Beach, L. I., where preparations for the flight are being made.

The part to be taken by the four ships in the flight was not disclosed at the Navy Department.

REDFIELD DENIES CHARGE.

Says Politics Do Not Affect Foreign Trade Commissioners.

Secretary William C. Redfield of the Department of Commerce, speaking yesterday at the convention of the Metal Trades Association, at the Astor, challenged a report he said had reached him to the effect that an impression had been spread among some business men that the work of his department is being conducted along political lines.

"There is no foundation for this impression; it is not true," he said. "Just to show you that the men selected by the department as Foreign Trade Commissioners are not of a political type, I will explain to you the examination which is necessary for them to pass before they are qualified to do the work. The candidate must speak fluently the language of the country to which he is to be sent. That counts half towards his rating. He must then meet a merchant from that country and converse intelligently on the subject he is to study. Then he must write a report on the subject from the foreign standpoint. Finally he must pass an examination whether he is qualified to meet the representatives of business interests abroad. The Lumber Association picked their own representative recently.

"You, gentlemen, and all other interests, can do the same thing. A joint committee from the department and the industry can also make the selection. I know nothing of the political views of the ninety Foreign Trade Commissioners. All that we require is that each must know his work thoroughly. Let us get rid of that silly idea, if possible, that the great practical side of our Government is conducted along political lines."

The Secretary recounted some the benefits of the work of the department for the farmer, for labor and for business. He told of direct aid in enabling American concerns recently to place contracts for $100,000 each in Buenos Aires and Mexico, and $5,000,000 of business that had been developed by an American concern in China.

"Our one aid and thought," he concluded, "is to work hand in hand with industry, so as to put American industries in a position of strength. It is pitiful to see the waste in this country for lack of scientific consultation."

SPEEDING AUTO KILLS TWO.

Two Preparatory School Pupils Held After Mishap Near Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., April 23.—Two persons were killed and three hurt, two of them seriously, when an automobile plunged at full speed into a group of five who were waiting for a trolley car on the Lawrenceville Road, about a mile above this city, late tonight. The dead are Mrs. Bessie Swan, thirty years old, and her five-year-old son, John, of North Warren Street, this city.

The autoists ditched their car and ran away. An investigation resulted in the arrest of Carroll Billups, eighteen years old of Norfolk, Va., and George Leiper Cary, Jr., nineteen years old of Baltimore, Md., both students at the Princeton Preparatory School. They are held by the Trenton police charged with manslaughter, while Sywus W. Hall, eighteen of Charleston, W. Va., another student, is in a state of nervous collapse at Princeton, where he is under surveillance. He will be arrested upon his recovery.

WANTS A FREE PRESS, SAYS MAYOR HYLAN

Declares to Visiting Publishers That Without It Free Government Is Impossible.

TIME FOR OPEN DISCUSSION

Asserts Attempts to Undermine the Government Will Not Be Tolerated Here.

Mayor John F. Hylan, who has consistently declined to "see" reporters for some time and who has made a number of his recent public comments through letters to various members of his city administration, giving out copies of the letters but refusing to comment on their contents, spoke of the freedom of the press at a supper to publishers at 11 o'clock last night. The supper was at the Friars' Club, at 110 West Forty-eighth Street, and the guests were several hundred members of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, which opened its annual convention yesterday at the Waldorf.

"Without a free press you cannot have a free Government," Mayor Hylan told the publishers, most of whom were from other cities. He also quoted Thomas Jefferson's utterance that "I would rather live in a country where there was no Government and there was a free press than live in a country where there was a government but no press."

"The press of the country," the Mayor said, "has always been proud of New York. It was in New York, a little less than two hundred years ago, that the first battle for a free press was fought in this country, and was won by a poor publisher, who showed then that same spirit and courage that has since made journalism the greatest power on earth for free government.

"And if New York can claim your respect and affection on account of her history in journalism, I feel that, as Mayor of the city, I am entitled to membership in your association, for as Mayor I am the publisher of one of the most popular of our daily newspapers, popular in the sense that no man seeking a political job would be without it and no man seeking an increased salary would miss it. I speak of our noble City Record—no illustrations—it has not even printed the picture of the Mayor—for sale at only a few places, price 5 cents.

"Speaking, then, as one not entirely ignorant of the sacred mysteries of your craft, I welcome you to New York, and earnestly hope that when you go back from us it will be with the strengthened impression that we of New York are striving to deserve the high opinion in which this city is held, that with many and difficult problems we are endeavoring ceaselessly to make our city a beacon among municipalities, a standard-bearer in patriotism, and what is right, proper, and descent in life.

"It is particularly a time when we must have free discussion as long as the purpose of that discussion is not to incite disorder and riot, as long as the object is not to undermine our Government. I believe, and I do not say it flamboyantly, that this is the best Government on earth. It is, of all Governments, the most representative of the people. Our duty is to uphold it; and we shall uphold it, and we will not tolerate those who would undermine it of change it save in the orderly processes laid down by the great founders of the republic."

A. P. CONVENTION ENDS.

Officers for the Year Elected—Publishers Discuss Paper.

The annual convention of The Associated Press closed yesterday at the Waldorf with the election of officers for the ensuing year. Following the adjournment the annual convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, which includes a large number of the members of The Associated Press, opened at the same hotel. The officers elected by The Associated Press were:

President—Frank B. Noyes, Washington, (D. C.) Star, re-elected.

First Vice-President—A. N. McKay, Salt Lake Tribune.

Second Vice-President—J. L. Sturtevant, Wausau, (Wis.) Record-Herald.

Secretary and General Manager—Melville E. Stone, re-elected.

Assistant Secretary and General Manager—Frederick Roy Martin, re-elected.

Treasurer—J. R. Youatt, re-elected.

Executive Committee—Frank B. Noyes, Charles Hopkins Clark, Charles A. Rook, W. L. McLean, John S. Ralston, Victor F. Lawson and Adolph S. Ochs.

The opening session of the Publishers' Association was taken up largely with a discussion of the paper situation. During the war the Government undertook through the Federal Trade Commission to fix the price at which news print should be sold, the Attorney-General acting under an agreement between the Department of Justice and the newsprint manufacturers. The prices were fixed on the basis of Winter costs, which were the costs at the time of the hearing, according to L. B. Palmer, manager of the association. Subsequently, Mr. Palmer said, the Federal Trade Commission had run out of funds and was now unable to conduct an investigation into the present costs, as a result of which the prices remained up.

The association voted to protest against a continuation of this tie-up, and a committee will be appointed to draw up a resolution. The resolution on the same subject recently passed by the Pittsburgh Publishers' Association was read at the meeting. John M. Imrie, Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, talked on the news-print situation in Canada. It had been much the same there as here, during the war, he said, the difference now being that the paper tribunal controlling the matter had not run out of funds.

The annual dinner of the association will be served at 7 o'clock this evening at the Waldorf. Election of officers and a discussion on postal rates for newspapers will be held at tomorrow's session.

LORD READING SEES A VICTORIOUS PEACE

British Ambassador Says Just Terms Will Be Imposed Upon Germany.

LAUDS AMERICAN SOLDIERS

Letter from Marshal Haig Is Also Read at St. George's Society Dinner.

Lord Reading, British Ambassador to the United States, a speaker at the "Victory Dinner" of St. George's Society of New York at the Waldorf last night, lauded the accomplishments of American troops who served with the British. Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, lately commander of the 27th Division and now head of the new State Guard, reviewed the service of his division as a unit of the Fourth British Army and cited instances of the pleasant relations which existed between the British and Americans who fought at their side.

George Edward Ide, the toastmaster, read a letter from Sir Douglas Haig, in which the British General praised the service of the Americans who fought with the British. Lord Reading said he was not permitted to discuss the Peace Conference, saying that he had obtained the greatest part of his information as to the progress of the conference from the newspapers.

"But," he added, "the burden on the representatives of your country and of my country is a very heavy one. I am confident that the result of the conference will be to give us a victor's peace and that those who have fought have caused much illimitable suffering.

"Like others, I must ask myself what are to be the results of this war. It has brought us to the unalterable conclusion that in some way we must find a means to prevent future wars. The conviction has been general that never again shall the sword be drawn to settle matters that can be settled by reason."

Lord Reading also spoke briefly of the general labor disputes that have followed the war, and said that in England he believed that more had been accomplished toward meeting the so-called social revolution through close deliberation and intimate conference "than could have been accomplished during perhaps a century of war."

General O'Ryan expressed disapproval of any plan for a large force maintained by the regular army in this country after the signing of peace, and denied the statement that the soldier is the last to want war because it is he that suffers most. He declared that the soldier's family suffered most, but that soldiers looked forward to war as a glittering opportunity.

"We must have in our country some form of preparation," he said. "It seems to those who have studied the subject that there should be some form of mandatory training that would bring about some expertness of force, and if we were able to produce finished officers with three months' training, why can't we produce soldiers in that time?

"Many of us who have had experience believe that we should, to a considerable extent, follow the Swiss method of maintaining a defensive force, and that this force should be decentralized. We have seen the effect of centralization in other things; in military affairs it would be possessed of even more dire consequences. Overcentralization in this should be avoided most carefully."

The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning and Lieut. Col. N. G. Thwaites also spoke. Lady Reading, wife of Lord Reading, was among those in the gallery boxes. Others present were Paul D. Cravath, Ambridge Colby, Henry Fletcher, Herbert L. Satterlee, Major Gen. Emile, Military Attaché of the Italian Embassy; Rear Admiral James Glennon, U. S. N., Francis Key Pendleton, and E. W. R. Thayer.

a statement dealing with the matter and giving a copy of an order that no press messages relating to himself should be kept from the wires, no matter whether libellous or not. This statement alleged that the syndicated article from The World, was held up by officials of the Postal Telegraph system, following rules which the company adopted, before Federal control of the wires began, in order to protect themselves against libel.

No revelation was made at the Post Office Department as to the identity of the four men the Postmaster General alluded to in his statement. However, it is said that Don C. Seitz was "the advertising manager of The New York World," at the time the Postmaster General mentions, Charles Johnson Post of New York is said to represent the Publishers' Advisory Board. It is understood that "a member" of the committee "contending for the repeal" represented an organization of class publications, such as trade papers, and did not include metropolitan dailies. It is also intimated that the "well-known publisher" mentioned by Mr. Burleson is a nationally known magazine.

Mr. Burleson's Statement.

The statement made by Postmaster General Burleson follows:

The organized propaganda directed against the Postmaster General is thoroughly understood by him. He was advised last year that it would be inaugurated before the convening of this Congress. It does not have for its real purpose any desire for improvement in the postal or wire service, but is intended to aid in accomplishing a reduction of the rates of postage on second-class mail (newspapers and magazines).

A virulent attack founded upon falsehood was made on the Postmaster General by the advertising manager of the New York World, the principal newspaper engaged in this intrigue, at the time the increase of those postage rates was pending before the Ways and Means Committee. The increased rates were bitterly opposed. All opposition was brushed aside and an increase of the rates was made by the Congress. The repeal of this law is what is now really desired by those attacking the Postmaster General. It is believed by some of those affected that this cannot be brought about unless "Burleson is gotten rid of."

The principal lobbyist employed by this selfish combination which is reputed to have raised many thousands of dollars to be used for accomplishing the repeal of this law, in circular letters, after telling of the number of Democratic representatives committed to the repeal of the law and how it was hoped Republican members could be induced to join, urged that efforts not to confine their attack to the zone law (the increased postage rates) but to broaden their scope of criticism. Thus the sinister purpose is disclosed.

Says Threats Were Made.

In fact, as stated, notice was given the Postmaster General more than a year ago as to what could be expected if there was not acquiescence on his part in the suspension or repeal of this law. At that time a member of the committee representing these contending for the repeal urged the Postmaster General to acquiesce therein, and in the course of conversation bluntly informed him, "We have made and unmade many Congressmen. We ruined Postmaster General Hitchcock and destroyed Mr. Payne. We realize that without your aid we may not be able to secure relief now, but we will see what can be done with the next Congress." Later a well-known publisher called on the Postmaster General and also urged that he recommend the suspension or repeal of this law, saying to him:

"If you will aid or acquiesce in the repeal of this law we will make you the most popular man in the Wilson Cabinet, but if you do not, I fear they will ruin you." These two statements were made to the Postmaster General in the presence of the present First Assistant Postmaster General.

"The Postmaster General spurned them both and is now confronted with the effort of these selfish interests through systematic propaganda, stealthily concealing their real purpose by "creating and falsifying news, misrepresentation of facts, and appealing to prejudice" to destroy the Postmaster General, thereby aiding in the repeal of the law, thus enabling them to resume the enjoyment of a postal subsidy of over $70,000,000 per annum, which must be taken out of the pockets of the other users of the mail.

Discusses Postage Rates.

It might not be wise at this time to suggest it, but as a matter of fact justice as between the users of the various classes of mail would require an increase of this postage rate, instead of a reduction. The general public for years suffered a loss of millions of dollars by the transportation of second-class mail at much less than cost. A large percentage of this mail is not printed and distributed for educational but solely for commercial purposes. Even under the zone law after the maximum rates have been reached, there will still be an annual loss of more than $50,000,000 to be made up by the general public. This makes clear the exact interest the owners of certain newspapers and magazines have in the effort now on foot to discredit the Postmaster General.

I do not object to criticism having behind it an honest purpose. On the contrary, it is welcomed; but it is regretted that many conscientious publishers who desire to be fair are frequently unwittingly misled by those willing to resort to base means for the accomplishment of sinister purposes.

Declares Order Was Rescinded.

The first statement issued earlier in the day by Postmaster General Burleson, which concerned directly the syndicated article from The New York World, says in effect that notwithstanding the fact that an official of the Postal Telegraph system held up the Burleson article as libellous, he was told by A. F. Adams, who was the official Government representative of the Postmaster General, that the matter should be sent anyway. In addition, an order which Mr. Burleson issued today that all news dispatches pertaining to himself should be sent unhampered is reproduced. This statement follows:

The rules governing the transmission of libelous matter were adopted by the telegraph companies to protect themselves against libel suits long before the wires were taken over by the Government.

The published rules of the Postal Telegraph system prohibit the sending of messages containing libelous matter. The telegrams filed by the New York World News Bureau at New York, which the night manager of the Postal Telegraph system refused to transmit, were brought to the attention of the representative of the Postmaster General in charge of the Postal Telegraph system, who immediately directed the General Manager of the Postal Telegraph system to issue instructions to the manager of the operating department in New York City as follows:

Mr. A. F. Adams instructs that the World News Bureau be notified that the matter has been taken up with him and that, notwithstanding the fact that our night manager construed the messages as containing libelous matter, and, therefore, not transmissible under our rules, and, notwithstanding that it appears to Mr. A. F. Adams that they do contain libelous matter, he has instructed that messages be transmitted at once at the proper regular rates, if the World News Bureau desires it.

Messages returned herewith.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) C. F. BRUCH,

General Manager, Postal Telegraph System.

The Postmaster General also directed the Operating Board to issue the following instructions:

"Direct the management of all telegraph systems to suspend in so far as messages referring to the Postmaster General are concerned their rules prohibiting transmission of messages containing libelous matter."

Lincoln B. Palmer, General Manager of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, commenting last night on the statement of Postmaster General Burleson, alleging "organized propaganda," designed to effect reduction of postage rates for newspapers and magazines, said:

"It is obvious that the Postmaster General does not refer to the newspapers in the quoted paragraph. The newspapers have only the public welfare in mind. They share with the public the shortcomings of the postal administration."

The New York World declined to comment on Mr. Burleson's statement.

This action was taken, not today, but immediately on the matter being brought to the attention of Mr. Adams, yesterday morning.

Dispatches printed here today quote William J. Deegan, Secretary of the Mackay Companies, as having said that "The Postal Telegraph," the house organ of the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company, had been suspended from "regular channels" of distribution, as well as other literature that contained reflections upon Mr. Burleson. It was asserted, in rejoinder, at the Post Office Department that Postal Telegraph employes had "been using the Postal organization for propaganda purposes" by transmitting, on Federal controlled wires, literature intended for publication; that they had also been using Government time and facilities for "propaganda" purposes, and that any stopping of distribution of the literature was aimed at such practices.

ACTED UNDER LIBEL RULE.

Explanation of Telegraph Officials as to The World's Messages.

Investigation yesterday of Postmaster General Burleson's explanation of why dispatches summarizing The World's attack upon him were not transmitted over the Government controlled telegraph lines because the Postal and Western Union had rules which prohibited the acceptance of matter deemed libelous—disclosed that the rules of both companies have rarely been enforced in such cases. In fact, officials of both companies were unable to recall a precedent for the action of the night managers of the companies in refusing to handle the dispatches.

Following the statement of Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union and Federal Cable Director, that it was absurd to think that either Mr. Burleson or company officials had known anything about the refusal to transmit the dispatches, Mr. Carlton gave out a copy of the order referred to in Mr. Burleson's statement directing that personal criticism of Mr. Burleson be sent over the wires the same as ordinary business. The order was as follows:

U. S. Telegraph and Telephone Administration Operating Board,
195 Broadway, April 23, 1919.
Western Union Telegraph Company, New York City.

Gentlemen: By direction of the Postmaster General, you will suspend, in so far as messages referring to the Postmaster General are concerned, the rules of the company prohibiting transmission of messages containing libelous matter. Very truly yours,

U. N. BETHELL, Chairman.

William J. Deegan, Secretary of the Mackay Companies which operated the postal system up to the time of Government control, was asked yesterday if his company had a regulation which required employes to scrutinize messages for libel. He said the matter was covered by rule 15, in effect many years, which reads:

A telegram containing profane, obscene, or libelous language will not be accepted, but employes are cautioned not to refuse messages properly signed and relating to business, legal proceedings, or in cipher, &c. Our patrons should be requested to expunge from messages such words as "thief," "liar," &c., when used in an objectionable manner.

Commenting upon this rule, the enforcement of it against the newspaper and the Postmaster General's explanation, Mr. Deegan said:

"Mr. Burleson's statement about the time-honored practices of the telegraph companies is all wrong. Such a press telegram as The New York World sent out Sunday night over the wires to different newspapers in the United States would have been accepted and transmitted by either telegraph company without the slightest hesitation under the old rules and practices of the telegraph companies.

"In fact, we do not know of any press telegram ever having been refused by a telegraph company on the ground of its being libelous. Such a telegram as The New York World sent out last Sunday night is absolutely unobjectionable from a telegraph point of view, and it was only because it referred to Burleson, and Burleson has terrorized the telegraph staff by 'gag' orders, threats of dismissal, spies, and so forth, that the telegraph employes rejected it. A year ago the company would have no more thought of rejecting it than it would think of rejecting any other telegram of press matter. This shows the degradation to which Burleson has dragged the telegraph companies."

Mr. Deegan reiterated his charge that the Postmaster General had permeated the postal organization with spies and said that employes had been threatened with discharge if caught criticising Government control of the wires. He showed a letter to an employe, including a reference to instant dismissal if certain parts of the letter were not carried out, in support of his charge that terrorism was being used.

When Mr. Carlton was questioned concerning the rules of his organization, he said that the Western Union manager at The World office had probably acted under Rule 2, Paragraph F, which sets forth in part that employes should "not accept a message containing profane, obscene, or libelous language." Mr. Carlton said the rule was put on the books about twenty years ago, and that it had not been changed since the Government took over the company. He was asked if he recalled an instance where the rule had been enforced before. He said:

"I never have heard of other refusals; however, they may have occurred. Our manager at The World received this message, and, having in mind the rule which I have just read, which he knew perfectly well, he decided that the news was libelous. I suppose that he was particularly sensitive because Mr. Burleson is the titular head of this system.

"Our manager communicated with his superiors at the Walker Street office, who confirmed his judgment and suggested that the message should be modified. It was a pretty—well, warm message, I understand.

"I don't think that we declined to handle the message or that our manager refused to handle it, but I think the effect of the request to modify it resulted in its being withdrawn.

"It was an error in judgment to have made any comment about the message, and the matter should have been sent out, but to suggest that Mr. Burleson, or any one in authority in the Western Union, knew anything about it is utterly beyond the fact. No instructions have ever been received from Mr. Burleson that we should exercise any censorship over anything said about him, or any criticism of the Western Union, coming to us in the regular course of business. The rule about libelous matter, as I have already pointed out, has been in effect in this company for twenty years, but Mr. Burleson never for a moment, I am quite sure, thought of its including personal attacks on himself."

Mr. Carlton was asked if he expected legal proceedings to be brought against his company and, with a smile, he replied: "I've been in the telegraph business for just twenty-five years, and one thing I have learned is that anybody can sue the telegraph company."

A statement regarding the controversy was given out yesterday by U. N. Bethell on behalf of the Operating Board of the United States Telegraph and Telephone Administration, at 195 Boardway. The statement said:

"Widespread publicity has been given to an alleged order claimed to have been issued by the Postmaster General in which the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies were said to have been directed to refuse to transmit messages in which the Postmaster General and his acts in connection with the operation and control of wire service companies were criticized.

"Similar publicity should be given to a statement issued by the Operating Board on the authority of the Postmaster General to the effect that the alleged order was never issued or even considered. On the contrary, the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph Companies have both been directed to transmit any and all messages on the aforesaid subjects and even to suspend in connection therewith the customary precautions relating to the transmission of matter which may be regarded as libelous.

"Any delay which may have occurred in the acceptance and transmission of messages reflecting on the Postmaster General was caused by the natural precaution of subordinate officials in the acceptance of matter which on its face appeared to be of a libelous nature until relieved from responsibility by the proper authority. As soon as the matter was brought to the attention of the Postmaster General, the action quoted above was taken."

All Naval Officers know, of course, that a new type of Naval dress is to be adopted January 1st next. MRS. M'ADOO LAUDS WOMEN IN THE WAR

President's Daughter, Speaking for Loan, Praises Heroism of Red Cross Nurses.

ANOTHER SPEECH BY PHONE

Exercises in Victory Way Preceded by Parade of Nurses and Motor Corps.

American womanhood's part in the war, as typified in the heroism of Red Cross nurses, was the subject of Mrs. William G. McAdoo's address at the opening exercises of Nurses' Day in the Victory Way yesterday. Mrs. McAdoo, daughter of President Wilson and wife of the ex-Secretary of the Treasury, was introduced by Martin Vogel, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. The exercises were preceded by a parade of the Red Cross Motor Corps and overseas nurses, led by the Red Cross Band, from Fifty-ninth Street and Fifth Avenue to the Victory Way.

"There are almost a million women who have worked for the Liberty Loans in America, but I think there is not one who, seeing these splendid women whom we have come here 'today' to honor, would not feel that her part had been very humble, indeed compared to theirs," said Mrs. McAdoo. "We have worked in the comfort and safety of our homes, while they have faced danger and death to save the men we love. But it makes us very proud to realize that in working for these loans we are not only helping our armies and navies, but our nurses, too.

"We are making it possible for them to continue their work, the great work of building up and making over the 200,000 wounded and suffering men who are coming home to us. All that our doctors and nurses, with the wonderful skill and knowledge that modern science brings to them, can do to make our boys well they will do, and in it not an inspiring thought that we, who subscribe for this last great loan, will be pouring into their hands the means whereby they can save our men? And do you realize that we are doing something by our subscriptions that will help pay the debt we owe these nurses, too?

Owes Debt to Nurses, Too.

"Out of this $4,500,000,000 about $700,000,000 goes to pay the insurance that the Government gives, not only to soldiers and sailors, but to the women soldiers—the nurses of our country. This sacred debt it is our privilege to help pay, and there is no prouder duty in the world today. Women have proved during this war that they can do more than even their most ardent advocates believed.

"They have proved that they can be partners of men, not only in their homes and in deeds of charity and mercy, but in the greatest financial project the United States has ever undertaken. Let us prove it again, women of America, for the fifth time. Let us do more for this loan than we have ever done before and make this Victory Loan a great victory as well for women's service as for the world.

"These splendid nurses have shown us what sacrifice is—let us sacrifice ourselves, our money and everything we can give to try and live up to the standard they and our boys have set for us."

Assistant Secretary Vogel lauded Mrs. McAdoo for her work during the four Liberty Loan campaigns as Chairman of the Women's National Liberty Loan Committee of the United States. "She has been an inspiration. She has done her work nobly and well, and in addition to that has been an inspiration to her husband, who has done his great work so well," he said.

Miss Ruth Morgan, an active worker for the Victory Loan and a former Red Cross official in Paris, said women nurses had proved to the scoffers of Spanish-American war days that they were qualified for war activity. During the Spanish-American war, she said, there were many army officers of the belief that women nurses for the army were out of the question. Until recently it had been the popular opinion that women could not parade for any great distance without many faintings and much hysterics.

Miss Clara D. Noyes, Chairman of the Bureau of Nursing Service of the Red Cross, from her office in Washington addressed the crowd over the long-distance telephone with the aid of sound amplifiers. This feature of the Victory Way again proved effective in spreading over the plaza the message of a speaker from a distant point. Miss Noyes talked for several minutes, and, referring to the nurses, she said:

"She, too, like the soldier, has made the supreme sacrifice. Over 200 American Red Cross nurses have died during the war. Some sleep quietly among the American dead in France, others in England, many here in the United States. Now the most tragic loss comes in the death of the Chief of the Red Cross Nursing Service, Miss Jane A. Delano, at Savenay, France, in line of duty. That these nurses may not have served and died in vain, and that the work begun by America may be completed now, buy Victory Liberty Loan notes."

Praises Presbyterian Hospital Unit.

Colonel George D. Brewer, recently returned from service as consulting surgeon, First Army Corps, A. E. F., who served with the British prior to America's entry into the war, paid tribute to the army nurses of Mobile Hospital No. 2, who were recruited by the American Red Cross mainly from the staff of the Presbyterian Hospital in this city. Applause interrupted his brief story of the work of these nurses for five days last Summer while in the field, behind the lines held by the Rainbow Division, including the old 69th Regiment.

In the Red Cross and Motor Corps parade were thirty-six ambulances, representing every chapter in the metropolitan section of the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross, each car with a driver and assistant, and ninety-six stretcher bearers. Following were 300 army nurses and members of the Red Cross Motor Corps, many of the nurses in the blue uniforms of overseas service. Dr. Dorothy C. Smyley, assistant director of the Red Cross Motor Corps, was Marshal of the parade.

Women's Motor Corps Day will be celebrated on the Victory Way in Park Avenue today with three programs which will progress simultaneously. The celebration will be preceded by three parades in which about 600 or more marchers will participate.

RAINBOW DIVISION GETS OVER $6,500,000

Day's Biggest Subscription Is $5,000,000 from Standard Oil Co. of New York.

With 100,000 canvassers working in every part of the city and reaching into every business, the Rainbow Division workers reported to the division staff, the Advisory Trades Committee, yesterday a grand total of more than $6,500,000 of subscriptions. The banner subscription was from the Standard Oil Company for $5,000,000 and there was $800,000 of subscriptions, announced by the Confectioners' Committee.

The aim of every individual firm in the division is to fly the honor flag. This is awarded to each firm reporting 70 per cent. of its employes as loan subscribers. When 100 per cent. subscribe the figures "100 Per Cent." are written across the flag. Yesterday John Wanamaker, M. C. D. Borden & Sons, and McCawley & Co. won the 180 per cent. banners.

It was said that many other firms with a great list of subscriptions are withholding announcements of the same until an honor flag is assured. The Advisory Trades Committee is certain that by the end of the week a large percentage of the 120,000 firms in the division will be flying the flag.

Standard Oil's Big Holdings.

Howard E. Cole, Chairman of the Petroleum and Allied Products Committee, announced the largest individual subscription received in the Rainbow Division to date, that of the Standard Oil Company of New York, through Mr. Cole's committee. This subscription brings the holdings of the Standard Oil Company of New York in Liberty Bonds and Notes up to a total of $20,000,000. Through this subscription the Petroleum and Allied Products Committee now leads all the committees of the Rainbow Division.

Closely following are the Tobacco Industry Committee, of which Edward Wise is Chairman, and the Department Stores Committee. The former committee has two subscriptions amounting to $3,000,000, previously announced, and the Department Stores Committee is approaching the $3,000,000 mark. It announced yesterday a subscription of $200,000 from Bloomingdale Brothers and one of $50,000 from Stewart & Co.

Thirteen subscriptions totaling $310,000 were announced yesterday by William S. Gray, Chairman of the Chemicals, Paints, and Drugs Committee, to start it on its campaign for $22,000,000. The subscribers and the amounts were:

John J. Riker	$100,000
William S. Gray & Co.	50,000
John R. Gardner	50,000
Toch Brothers	30,000
E. P. Ducas	30,000
Chemists' Club	10,000
Durex Chemical Co.	10,000
Hugh Hill	10,000
The White Tar Co.	10,000
H. Kohnstaum & Co.	5,000
E. J. Barry	5,000
Felix Fasandie	5,000
Dr. H. H. Curtis	5,000

No official figures of the results of the first three days' campaign of the Rainbow Division have been announced at the headquarters. The division has to average nearly $38,000,000 a day in order to reach its quota. Unofficial figures on subscriptions announced show the division to be behind the pace that it must set for itself, but many subscriptions have not been reported, and by the end of the week it is expected that enough will reach the offices of the Advisory Trades Committee to indicate that the Rainbow Division will exceed its quota, as it has in past loans.

A survey of the situation during the opening days of the loan drive, made by Craig Colgate, Chairman of the Advisory Trades Committee, has convinced him that the sentiment among the business, industrial, and professional interests of the metropolitan district is strong for a successful campaign.

Says Campaign Is Gaining.

"The campaign in the Rainbow Division is gaining in momentum as the days go by," said Mr. Colgate. "Hundreds of former committeemen who believed they could not afford to give their time to the Victory Liberty Loan campaign and thousands of workers are now volunteering their help to the various committees," he added.

The Women's Committee, led by Miss Virginia Potter, is prosecuting a thorough campaign in the hospitals, sanitariums, hotels, restaurants, private and commercial schools, and women's clubs. In the Post-Graduate Hospital, 303 East Twentieth Street, yesterday $26,650 in subscriptions was collected. Non-federated women's clubs have subscribed for $25,520 in Victory Notes, and federated clubs for $11,050. The subscriptions of the Merchants' and Bankers' Commercial School, totaled $3,650 yesterday.

Frank H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, warned against over-confidence that the Victory Liberty Loan Drive will be a success, in an address yesterday before the Confectioners' Committee.

The meeting was the first which the members of this trade had held since organizing for the drive. It was conducted in the ballroom of the Hotel McAlpin, with about sixty leading confectioners of New York City present. M. L. Morgenthau presided. Mr. Sisson was the chief speaker. He said in part:

"We must pay the insurance of those heroes who lie in Flanders Fields. That is only one debt that we have to face. My only boy, who was in the flower of youth when he went overseas to fight for America, lies in an unknown field in Flanders, one of 4,835 among the 'missing.' We must not break faith with those who made the supreme sacrifice."

Other speakers were Lieut. Col. John T. Finley of the Students' Army Training Corps, and Capt. Carlin Gerhard Harvey of Company A, 308th Infantry, 77th Division, a member of the "Lost Battalion."

After the addresses the committeemen announced subscriptions amounting to $800,000. A fund of $1,000 was also raised for advertising purposes.

Banks Anxious for Notes.

George de B. Greene, Chairman of the New York City Liberty Loan Committee, addressed a meeting of several hundred members of the New York Produce Exchange on the floor of the Exchange, Bowling Green Square, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Greene discussed the Victory Loan Notes from the business man's point of view, and explained that if the notes are permitted to take the bulk of the loan it will result in financial inflation throughout the United States. This, in turn, he said, would mean a postponement of the universally desired return to normal prices and normal conditions in general.

"If the banks take the bulk of the loan," Mr. Greene said, "it will cause inflation and a curtailment of credits, and with credits to the busines men, large and small, throughout the country thus tightened, the business men will be unable to go ahead with peace-time projects that would spell full employment and general prosperity in all parts of the nation.

"The banks are only too anxious to buy to their limit of the Victory Loan. Any banker will tell you that as an investment the Victory Liberty Loan, with its short term notes and its 4¾ per cent. interest, is the finest investment that has come along his way in many a blue moon. But it is up to the business man, little and big, and the professional and laboring man, to buy to the utmost.

"I would advise the members of this exchange to sell other bonds that they may possess, and with the proceeds purchase notes of the Fifth and last Victory Liberty Loan. Sell your industrial corporation, rail, city and other private bonds and invest in the Victory Liberty Loan. It is a step you will never regret."

President Edward Flash, Jr., of the Produce Exchange, presided.

SAY NATION HAS HALF BILLION NOW

Unofficial Reports of Loan at Washington Nearly Double the $249,649,800 Recorded.

MANY TOWNS REACH QUOTAS

Fifty-four in New England Alone Pass Mark — Kansas Village Goes $100,000 Over Top.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Reports received by the Treasury Department tonight from ten of the twelve Federal Reserve Districts showed subscriptions to the Fifth Victory Liberty Loan, officially tabulated, amounting to $249,649,800. Of this total New York reported $88,000,000. The sales for the first two days are said to greatly exceed this amount, but anything like an official tally of all sales is impossible at this time. Unofficial guesses put the nation's figure already at $500,000,000.

Much satisfaction was found by Treasury Department officials in reports received from some of the individual districts concerning the rapid progress which is being made in the campaign.

A telegram received tonight from Chicago unofficially reported that Michigan had obtained its quota. If this information is correct Michigan is the first State to go over the top. Seventy-five Iowa counties also were reported to have obtained their quotas, and the Iowans were claiming first place for their State.

The sales officially reported, with details from the Kansas City and Atlanta districts missing were:

District.	Subscription.
Boston	$45,448,400
New York	88,000,000
Philadelphia	19,258,150
Cleveland	18,160,950
Richmond	14,803,600
Chicago	25,579,350
St. Louis	29,877,900
Minneapolis	4,616,700
Dallas	1,241,300
San Francisco	2,050,050
Total	$249,649,800

An unofficial report from the Kansas City district tonight said that sales there totaled $7,767,000. One small-town bank in this district reported that, with a quota of $6,200, it had sold $108,000 worth of bonds in the first two days of the campaign, and still was selling.

The State of Oklahoma is making an effort to reach its quota by Saturday night.

Fifty-four towns and cities in the New England district had reached their quotas tonight. The number of individual subscribers in this district is very large, 12,413 subscribing the $45,440,400.

With 15 per cent. of the St. Louis district quota subscribed tonight the Indiana section of the district was leading in percentage of quota obtained. Tennessee was second and Mississippi, which had led in subscriptions until today, took third place. Good returns were coming in from Arkansas, Illinois, and Missouri, but they were moving very slowly. The City of Louisville is striving to obtain its quota this week.

Cleveland reported that its unofficial sales were believed to be at least three times as great as the official figures showed. More than sixty honor flags had been awarded to the cities in the district, which is approximately twice the number awarded at this period in the last loan. Returned soldiers are proving particularly successful as salesmen.

Minneapolis reports satisfactory sales from sections that are being heard from, but because of the bad conditions of the roads, reports are coming in slowly. In the sections where the roads are better, farmers are busy seeding their ground, and this situation has tended to slow up sales in the Northwest.

Supplementary advices from Detroit, which went over the top on this first day, are to the effect that this remarkable record has not stopped the enthusiasm for the loan in that city, and that all the Liberty Loan workers are continuing their intensive campaign so that every possible subscriber will be reached.

A cable message from General Pershing tonight said that an officer had sailed for this country on April 20 bearing pictures showing German people greeting at Victory Loan posters which recently were put up on German territory.

It was announced here also that the navy's subscriptions thus far in the campaign had been almost $2,000,000.

YANKEE TOWNS GO OVER TOP.

Yesterday's Showing in New England Already at $45,417,000.

BOSTON, April 23.—Several large subscriptions, the largest for $7,500,000 by the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., among those reported late today, caused campaign leaders to look for a big increase in the New England Liberty Loan total when official figures for the third day are made public tomorrow. The total announced at noon today, covering the first two days of the drive, was $45,417,000.

Massachusetts led in her neighboring States with $29,521,000, Connecticut had $8,850,000, Rhode Island $2,648,000, Vermont $1,895,000, New Hampshire $1,145,000, and Maine $1,948,000.

In addition to the subscription of the Travelers Company, the committee announced subscriptions of $1,000,000 each by Wellington, Sears & Co., bankers, of this city; the United Shoe Machinery Company, Connecticut Savings Bank, and New Haven Savings Bank of New Haven, Conn., and George E. Keith Company of Brockton.

Among seventy-four cities and towns in New England tonight laying claim to honor flags, awarded to communities which oversubscribed their quota, twenty-six were new comers on the list, and nineteen were in Vermont.

The committee at Fryeburg, Me., sent word that their town, which filed its quota Monday, had kept right on with its campaign and was 100 per cent. oversubscribed.

Boston's contribution for the second day was $5,344,000, bringing the gross total for the city to $21,161,000. Individual subscribers in New England number 12,413, of which 3,847 bought bonds yesterday.

Canton was the second Massachusetts town to exceed its quota. It had been asked to take $330,000 in bonds, and word reached loan headquarters that this mark had already been exceeded by $12,000. An open air rally on Patriots' Day netted $105,000, and the balance was obtained at a meeting last night, at which there were 1,000 individual subscribers.

New Hampshire today added two more communities to the honor list from that State, the Lyme-Covington district and Northumberland. Vermont added Fairhaven, Hyde Park, Shelburne, and Ripton.

QUOTAS IN IOWA AND MICHIGAN

Both States, However, Continue to Push Loan Campaign.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 23.—Equaling its record in the last loan, Iowa claims the distinction of being the first State to exceed its quota in the Victory Liberty Loan, according to a message today from C. H. McNider, State director of sales, who is at Federal Reserve district headquarters in Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Messages tonight from Michigan unofficially reported that State had obtained its quota, and the managers claimed first place for their State. Supplementary advices from Detroit, which went over the top on the first day, said the workers were continuing their intensive campaign to reach "every possible subscriber."

BROOKLYN TOTAL GROWS.

Subscriptions of $11,897,150 Reported for the Victory Notes.

Reports issued yesterday by the Brooklyn Victory Liberty Loan Committee placed that borough's total at $11,897,150, which is practically 20 per cent. of its quota, $59,857,400.

The Hamilton Trust Company reported an increase in its subscription of $2,265,000, bringing its total to $2,522,250. The Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn subscribed $1,350,000. The Kings County Trust Company reported $478,800 additional.

The first trade in the Rainbow Division to reach the $1,000,000 mark in Brooklyn is the Machine and Machine Tools Division, headed by H. H. Doehler of the H. H. Doehler Die Casting Company. Of this amount $500,000 was subscribed by E. W. Bliss, while $368,000 was taken by the A. Schrader Sons, Inc.

At the daily noon meeting at Borough Hall a quantity of war material which has been gathered on the battlefields was exhibited. It included German artillery, helmets, and rifles. Several patriotic addresses were made.

NOTE SALE MOUNTS AS CAMPAIGN GROWS

000; Cherry Creek, Chautauqua County, quota $37,800, subscriptions $42,000; Glenham, Dutchess County, quota $22,500, subscriptions $22,700, and Farmingdale, Monmouth County, N. J., quota $26,700, subscriptions $27,000.

Clark Mills, Oneida County, which filled its quota of $61,400 Monday, reported an oversubscription of more than 50 per cent. for a total of $93,550, and has received a star for its honor flag.

First Notes Here Today.

It was announced that today the first installment of notes will be received from Washington, which will greatly facilitate street sales. During the last loan approximately $250,000,000 worth of bonds were taken in cash sales, but so far in this drive the committee has been unable to supply the man or woman who wanted to buy his or her note and take it home. A requisition for 400,000 notes of various denominations to carry on cash sales was made on Washington as a preliminary supply, but the notes were not sent.

Discussing the prospects of the loan judging by the three days' campaign, Arthur M. Anderson, Director of the Government Loan Organization, declared that it was too early yet to form a judgment as to how the campaign was going. He pointed out that the machinery of the loan organization had not yet got to stride and that the reports of sales by organizations such as the Metropolitan Canvassing Committee and the Rainbow Division were not yet available as official figures to be counted on in the total.

When a committee in the Rainbows made a sale, Mr. Anderson said, it might be a week before that was recorded at the Federal Reserve Bank. The sale would be reported from the company wherein it was made to the Trade Committee in charge of that organization, then to the subscription committee at the Liberty Loan headquarters, from where it would be sent out to banks and by them reported to the Federal Reserve Bank to be listed in the official total.

A comparison of the official figures of the present drive with totals for the same days in the second, third, and fourth Liberty Loan campaigns shows that Victory notes compare favorably with Liberty bonds. The first three days of the second loan brought a total of $65,974,000; for the third $156,096,350, for the fourth $139,418,500.

Three 100 Per Cent. Flags.

Three flags were awarded in the Rainbow Division yesterday. These went to John Wanamaker, M. C. D. Borden & Sons, 90 Worth St., and to McCauley & Co. for showing a subscription to the Victory Loan from every one of their employes. The flags were the 100 per cent. emblems, as distinguished from the honor flag, awarded when 70 per cent. of a firm's employes subscribe to the loan. The largest subscription of the day turned in by the division came from the Standard Oil Company, for $5,000,000. A similar sum, however, was subscribed directly by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

The reports from the booths were very favorable yesterday. In one booth, operated by Miss Mabel Van Etten in the rotunda of the Equitable Building, sales aggregating $18,000 were reported. At another, in charge of Miss Sadie Harris of the Council of Jewish Women, the following is the procedure to induce buying: Miss Harris has on display a machine gun captured by the "Fighting Sixty-ninth," and every note purchaser is initiated into the mysteries of operating the gun.

At Liberty Altar in Madison Square yesterday pennies were invested in many notes. The Women's Committee of the National Civic Federation was in charge of the ceremonies there. Marcus M. Marks, former President of the Borough of Manhattan, made the first appeal for subscriptions, and his appeal was answered immediately by sixteen-year-old Aaron Rein, who bought a coupon book for a fifty-dollar note. This started a stream of buyers, who included French, Greek, Russian, Italian, and many other nationalities.

At another meeting designed to meet the "man in the street," Captain Kermit Roosevelt, standing on the steps of the Sub-Treasury Building at noon, told a crowd of about 20,000 persons that this Victory Loan was a matter exclusively for the people to handle.

"This is a case," he said, "in which the people themselves have the big stick. See that you use it effectively. The great outstanding feature, to my mind, of the war, is the proof that we have 100 per cent. Americans and I particularly refer to the men of foreign birth. We are often asked which was the best fighter in the American army, the Jew, the Irish, the Italian, and so on. I tell you there was no such division, there can be no expressed preference, for they were all 100 per cent. Americans and acted like it on the field of battle.

"Now you folks have got to be on your mettle in this loan matter. Put off that little trip to Atlantic City and put the money into bonds. If you had been through some of the hardships in the trenches you would not hesitate a minute in speeding the return of boys who are still over there."

EUROPE HUNGRY FOR THEATRE, SAYS GEST

Sees a Development of Drama and Opera in the Reaction from War's Strain.

BACK WITH EIGHT PLAYS

Plans Lavish Productions of the Fantasy "Mecca" and the Paris Spectacle "Aphrodite."

Europe craves amusement of all kinds as the result of the reaction of the strain of more than four years of war, and one of the results of supplying this reaction will be a development of the opera and the drama in all their forms. That is the opinion of Morris Gest, the theatrical manager, who has just returned from London and Paris with the manuscripts of eight productions, considered by him to be the best now being presented on the European stage.

"All a theatrical manager in London or Paris has to do now to attract a crowd is to hang out a sign saying: 'This is the theatre,'" said Mr. Gest, "and the crowds go to it immediately. They are seeking amusement and entertainment and out of this desire ought to arise a better drama, better productions on the stage in every way. Producers have their opportunity now to raise their art to a higher level, and I think they will do it or at least try to do it.

"In London the producers are recovering rapidly from the effects of the war. They are planning more artistic productions at greater cost. In Paris the revival already has begun with several interesting spectacles and unusual comedies, with and without music. It is there that this new interest in the theatre probably will manifest itself at its fullest effect for the next few years."

Spectacles Are in Favor.

One of the results of the war noticed by Mr. Gest in his five weeks' visit to London and Paris was that the public would not receive plays based entirely upon the war. They desire amusement not based upon the war in any way, because they have already been reminded of the struggle in so many ways. Spectacles with Oriental themes, with beautiful and artistic music, scenery, and costumes, are favorites of the play goers there, and the comedy of unusual theme also is becoming a favorite.

One of the announcements made by Mr. Gest was that Oscar Asche, the English actor and director who created "Chu Chin Chow" for His Majesty's Theatre in London, would come to this city in a few months to aid Comstock and Gest in their production of "Mecca," the fantasy based upon one of the tales of the "Arabian Nights." It was the plan of Mr. Asche and Mr. Gest to equip and train in London two productions of the fantasy to be produced in London and this city about the same time. This was prevented by the operation of the contract with the estate of Sir Herbert Tree to maintain the production of "Chu Chin Chow" at His Majesty's in London as long as the receipts were satisfactory. Mr. Gest believes that this will be at least two years, but arrangements have been made for Mr. Asche to leave the London cast of "Chu Chin Chow" long enough to aid in the staging of the spectacle here.

Mr. Gest believes that the production of "Mecca" will be more splendid than that of "Chu Chin Chow." It probably will be opened at the Century Theatre in February, 1919. It has nine stage settings, and the cast requires more than 400 persons. The costumes are to be executed by Percy Anderson and the scenery by Harkers, of London.

$400,000 for Two Productions.

More than $400,000 will be spent in preparation for this presentation and for the successful Paris spectacle, "Aphrodite," a production regarded by Mr. Gest as the best purchase of the eight brought back by him. This is the first large production Paris has had in her revival, and Mr. Gest describes it as one of the most beautiful he has seen. The book by Pierre Louys was turned into dramatic form by Pierre Frondaie, and the music was written by Henry Fevrier, composers of the operas "Glismonda" and "Monna Vanna."

"What appealed to me most in the Paris production was the opportunity for color and scenic effects," said Mr. Gest, "and I am going to try hard to outdo the Paris production of this Oriental pageant. In the orgy scene, a pageant depicting the life of Alexandria, I am going to introduce an innovation. Half the costumes for this scene are being made by Leon Bakst, and the others by Percy Anderson. Can you see the effects and the clash of color in this disharmony of ideas? The figures of this scene are drawn from all parts of the East and I thought it would be impossible for one artist to provide the clash of color. I regard these two men as the greatest color artists and I hope to see great rivalry."

"Phi-Phi" Among the Comedies.

Another score brought back by the producer is that of the second "Chu Chin Chow," to be opened at the Century in August. It probably will be moved to make way for the November production, and "Aphrodite" may make its home at the Manhattan Opera House when the "Mecca" is ready for production. One unusual musical comedy to be produced soon by Comstock & Gest from the four productions bought in Paris is "Phi-Phi," a comedy with only six principals and eight chorus girls. It has only one scene, with three acts.

"Flup," a comedy, with score by a Polish composer, also will be produced here soon. It was opened at Marseilles and will be moved to the Apollo Theatre at Paris in August. "The Inheritor of Bal Tabarin," a comedy farce, will be presented here as Mr. Gest's personal enterprise as soon as it is presented in Paris. A London melodrama, "The Luck of the Navy," with the English company that presented it at the Queen's Theatre in London, also will be opened at the Manhattan Opera House about Oct. 1.

Several innovations for the Midnight Whirl show on the Century Roof also were brought back by Mr. Gest. Costumes for a new production are to be executed by Mme. Rosi'n of the Theatre Femina and Ba-Ta-Clan in Paris, who will come to this country about May 15. A mirror drop curtain also is to be placed in the roof so that the dancers may see themselves between numbers. On his trip Mr. Gest also arranged for the production in London of several of his plays now appearing in this country. "Experience" will be produced there under the direction of Elliott, Comstock & Gest. Mr. Gest returned on the Olympic to Halifax.

TO STOP SCHOOL LUNCHES.

A. I. C. P. to Discontinue Work at End of Present Year.

At the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday a letter was read from Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., President of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, saying that the New York Lunch Committee would discontinue providing school lunches at the end of this school year, and expressing the opinion that the Board of Education should take over the work.

Mrs. Emma L. Murray, Chairman of the School Lunch Committee of the Board of Education, reported that the Board of Health would co-operate with the committee in ascertaining if there was malnutrition in any of the schools. Malnutrition, she said, was largely due to the ignorance of food values among the well-to-do as well as among the poor.

The board will meet this evening to discuss the building problem. It may hold a special meeting next Wednesday to hear the Public Education Association on the alleged unsanitary condition of some of the public schools.

POLICEMAN SHOOTS SAILOR.

He Is Wounded Trying to Flee After Lively Riot.

Patrick Malloy, a sailor on the U. S. S. Troy, is a prisoner in Bellevue Hospital with a pistol shot wound in his left leg, charged with felonious assault, and George Kopp, who said he was a chauffeur and lived at 539 West Fiftieth Street, was locked up last night in the West Forty-seventh Street Police Station charged with aiding a prisoner to escape. These were incidents of a small-sized riot in West Fiftieth Street last night and of an attempt to rescue the sailor from Patrolman Horace Matheson in West Forty-ninth Street.

Matheson was on post when a citizen told him that a man was being killed in Fiftieth Street, near Tenth Avenue. He hurried there and found a sailor, whom he identified as Malloy, kicking a prostrate man while a crowd looked on. When the policeman approached the sailor ran away. The victim of the assault pointed out a man in the crowd as one of his assailants, and the policeman arrested him and started with him to the station.

Near Forty-ninth Street and Ninth Avenue Malloy returned, walked up to Matheson, and said he could explain. At that the man who had been assaulted accused Malloy of assaulting him. With both prisoners in tow Matheson started again for the station.

He did not get far when Malloy declared that he would die before he would submit to arrest, broke away and ran. The first prisoner took advantage of this to escape, and Matheson pursued the sailor. The chase had not proceeded far when some one shot at the policeman, and as the latter drew his revolver a brick thrown from a roof struck him a glancing blow on the neck and knocked him down. Half dazed, he regained his feet and fired four shots in the air. Malloy did not stop, and the fifth shot brought him down with a wound in the leg.

By this time the street was in an uproar and about 300 persons gathered, most of whom were intent on rescuing the prisoner. Some one telephoned to the station, and when the reserves got there they found Matheson, his revolver empty, his clothing torn, and fighting with his nightstick to keep off the crowd. The assaulted man also had disappeared and the police were unable to tell what had started the riot.

EX-SLEUTH FOUND GUILTY.

Detective Was Charged with Taking Fee from Silk Thieves.

A General Sessions jury yesterday convicted William Haydorn, a former detective at the Second Branch Bureau and a policeman for nine years, for unlawfully accepting a fee of $300 from the receivers of $5,000 of silks stolen by a gang of loft thieves on Feb. 16, 1918, from J. H. Fithian & Co., at 104 East Twenty-fifth Street. Judge Nott remanded Haydorn for sentence on May 1. The maximum sentence for this offense is ten years in prison and a fine of $4,000, or both. It was said that Robert Elder, attorney for Haydorn, would appeal on the ground of insufficient evidence to warrant the verdict of the jury.

Haydorn had also been indicted with the robbers on the charge that he had "stood-in" with them in this theft, and Assistant District Attorney Morris Eder asserted at the trial that because of this alleged association between Haydorn and the robbers the gang of burglars had operated in the wholesale silk district without fear of police interference. Mr. Eder said the robbery charge against Haydorn still stands, but it may not be pressed against him if he is sentenced on the other charge on which the jury found him guilty.

Three of the four men arrested and charged with the robbery, Jack Klein, Isidore Pinder, and Abraham Schoenfeld, have been convicted. Another prisoner, Harry Appel, a discharged soldier, is awaiting trial. The alleged receivers of the stolen silks, Herman Friedman and Harry Zilly, who were partners in a waist manufacturing business at 540 Sixth Avenue, have been indicted on the charge of criminally obtaining the silks by the payment of $3,400.

WOOLWORTH WILL FILED.

Application for Administrator, Replacing Widow, to be Made.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 23.—The will of Frank W. Woolworth, made in 1889, which leaves his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Jennie Woolworth, who was declared incompetent, and which had to be offered for probate because Mr. Woolworth was unable to execute a new will upon which he had been working before his death, was filed here today. The testator stated that he left his entire estate to his wife, "trusting to my said wife, Jennie, that she will make such provision for our children now born or hereafter to be born as she may deem suitable and proper."

The petition accompanying the will stated that the value of the estate is more than $100,000 in real estate and $100,000 in personal property. An application will now be made to the Surrogate to appoint a substituted administrator because of the mental condition of Mrs. Woolworth. It is expected that Hubert T. Parson, now head of the Woolworth enterprises and committee for Mrs. Woolworth's property, will be appointed to act either alone or in conjunction with others.

HYLAN OPPOSES NEW ROUTE

Says Staten Island Will Not Get Direct Subway.

Mayor Hylan let it be known yesterday that he is opposed to the plan of an independent subway route to Staten Island. The matter came up at a hearing on a legislative bill for an appropriation for a new law library in the new Richmond Borough courthouse. When Charles B. Dulles, a lawyer of New Brighton, was arguing for the appropriation, the Mayor said:

"There are certain people in Staten Island who want the City of New York to appropriate $30,000,000 for a subway system in that borough. Those who are conducting this agitation know full well that they will never be able to get this sum—at least not in their time or in my time.

"If the agitators for the $30,000,000 subway would be content with a subway connection to Staten Island instead of an independent route, their hopes would be realized soon. The connection would not cost more than seven or eight millions."

BEGIN JOB CAMPAIGN FOR JEWS OF 77TH

Employers of Their Race Asked to Aid at Jewish Welfare Board Luncheon.

SITUATION NOT SO BAD NOW

Real Shortage of Unskilled Laborers, Says M. L. Schiff—Many Men Refuse Old Jobs.

Unemployment of Jewish boys who have been discharged from the army and navy was taken up yesterday at a luncheon in the Hotel Pennsylvania, given by the Jewish Welfare Board for seventy-five leading Jewish merchants and manufacturers in this city. The occasion was the beginning of a campaign by the employment service of the Jewish Welfare Board to obtain enough jobs for soldiers and sailors to meet the demand upon them which will follow the arrival of the 77th Division.

Following addresses by Colonel Arthur Woods, Mortimer L. Schiff, and Abram I. Elkus, all of whom accentuated the present need for employment, the guests were asked by the chairman, Herbert N. Straus of R. H. Macy & Co., Chairman of the employment service, to take out their note books and write in a conspicuous place the telephone number of the Welfare Board, Farragut 7172, for the purpose of informing them of any vacancy which may occur.

Mr. Elkus, chairman of the State Reconstruction Committee, asserted that in five or six months the question of employment will have been settled and that there will then be jobs for everybody, business by that time having righted itself.

"The particular need today," he said, "is to find a job for the returned soldier. Of course many of them refuse to take the position that they left previous to entering into military service, and that problem confronts all of us. If they could be urged to take any position now, with the assurance that in six months they will be able to change for something better, the question of unemployment would be lessened. It may, however, become a little worse for the next two or three months, with thousands and thousands of our boys coming back, but I predict that after they have all returned there will be more men than jobs."

A similar view of the situation was taken by Mr. Schiff, a member of the War Finance Committee of ten, who has just returned from France where he went to study conditions.

"From statistics in the labor market, it is evident that there is little unemployment at the present time," he asserted. "In fact, there is a real shortage of unskilled laborers. This is due to the demand in European countries for these workmen, where so many of them have been killed or disabled in the war. France lost fifty-six times as many men as we did, and therefore our unskilled workmen have gone there to rebuild the towns, instead of them immigrating here, as in pre-war times.

"We really ought to take these men now, while we have the chance and the opportunity. In the future it may be too late. Remember that the duties of the business men do not end with dinners and entertainments which we all gave to the boys. We must tide the men over the present era of unemployment by giving them jobs."

The last speaker, Colonel Woods, Chief of the Employment Bureau at Washington, pointed out that only 15 per cent. of the discharged men must look for situations, seventy per cent. of them, he said, go to jobs that are waiting for them, and 15 per cent. of the remainder get situations from the Government Employment Bureau at the camps.

WAR VETERANS WANT WORK.

Appeal Issued for 1,000 Men Who Broke Hindenburg Line.

The 27th Division Employment Bureau in the Hall of Records announced yesterday that, although scores of opportunities for soldiers had been reported in response to the appeal last week, several hundreds of the veterans who broke the Hindenburg line still were without work. A statement sent out by the officers at the bureau yesterday put the number of men who needed jobs at about 1,000.

It is urged by the officers of the bureau that employers report all their opportunities for soldiers to the bureau immediately, either by letter or by telephoning to Worth 4716.

Among those who are still out of work are soldiers with several years' experience in their lines of work. There are salesmen, expert accountants, office managers, purchasing agents, chemists, automobile demonstrators, statisticians, translators, ledger clerks, moving picture men, expert mechanics, surety investigators, chauffeurs, teamsters, draughtsmen, and office workers of all classes.

It also was announced yesterday that an employment bureau for "Boyce's Tigers" had been opened by men in the organization. Many of the men have returned from the war to find their jobs gone and they are now seeking work. Opportunities for the "Tigers" should be reported to Box 23 at the New York Post Office or telephoned to Bryant 1475.

CITY'S FREEDOM FOR 69TH.

Col. Donovan and Father Duffy Get Hearty Welcome at City Hall.

Colonel William J. Donovan and Father Duffy, with the field and staff officers of the 165th Infantry, called at the City Hall at noon yesterday to receive for the officers and men of the "old 69th" Regiment the freedom of the city. The entire party of the officers was acclaimed as they entered the hall and as they left it on their way to a luncheon at the India House, and both Colonel Donovan and Father Duffy were greeted by name by thousands of persons who were in City Hall Square.

In concluding his speech of welcome to the party of officers, Mayor Hylan said: "Men of the 69th, the city is yours!" Father Duffy replied that long before the regiment had thought of coming back all the soldiers knew that the city was theirs. At the luncheon at the India House, where the officers were the guests of the Directors of the Benefit Fund of the 165th Regiment, Father Duffy elaborated his sentiment in paying tribute to the city for the welcome of the regiment:

"When the boys were in the dumps, with mud everywhere and cold rain pouring down, with a hard fight finished and another harder struggle just ahead, I crawled from shell hole to shell hole preaching sermons and trying to cheer the lads up by telling them just how much the old city thought of them, how it loved them. They always responded, but now that we are home again they are accusing me of being a poor prophet, they say I did not tell them half of what the city and the folks 'back home' thought of them. They gained this opinion from the reception the city has given them."

Few changes have been made in the plans for the entertainment of the soldiers in the days before the parade or in the arrangements for the parade on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Practically the only change in the entertainment is that the officers are to be entertained at dinner at Sherry's on Saturday night, instead of at the Waldorf, as announced in the original schedule. Tickets for all the other entertainments for the men are being distributed, and the four parade tickets to each man probably will be handed out at Camp Mills today or tomorrow.

Colonel Donovan and the field and staff officers of the regiment will attend the review of the 69th Regiment of the State Guard at the armory at Lexington Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street tonight and will be entertained at dinner at the Manhattan Club. A luncheon will be given at the Bankers' Club for them today, and it is expected that they will go down the bay some time in the afternoon to greet the remainder of the regiment, about 800 men, returning on the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm, for definite hour for the arrival of the ship had been received at the Troop Movements' office of the Port of Embarkation last night.

Father Duffy announced yesterday that he would lecture in Carnegie Hall on next Tuesday evening for the benefit of the fund of the New York Foundling Hospital.

TROOPS GUARD JAIL.

Maryland Mobs Reported Advancing to Lynch Recaptured Negro.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Md., April 23.—Acting upon advices that mobs were advancing upon Easton from every side with the intention of lynching Isaiah Fountain, a negro, who was caught this afternoon after a chase of two days following his escape from the jail here, troops were thrown about the jail yard tonight at the suggestion of Governor Harrington. At an early hour 300 members of the State Guard arrived from Salisbury, Cambridge, and Annapolis and relieved the cordon of deputized citizens that were guarding the prisoner.

Fountain was found hiding under hay in a barn near Hartley, Del.

FRANKLIN SIMON VALUES and WOMEN'S HOSIERY

OUR IDEA OF A HOSIERY VALUE IS ONE WHICH DOES NOT HAVE TO BE CUT IN PRICE TO ATTRACT ATTENTION

FRANKLIN SIMON hosiery prices are the same today, yesterday, tomorrow, and the day after, during the regular season.

And it does not require a mathematician to figure out the advantages to the purchaser. For example: if you buy hosiery in the Franklin Simon Hosiery Shop in March, April, May and June at our regular prices, and contrast it with the sale prices you pay for hosiery during these four months, you will find that the aggregate cost of Franklin Simon hosiery, wear and value considered, is less.

In addition you will find just the hosiery and the styles you want when you need them, and you know styles do change oftener than not. And you will have the additional advantage of being able to make your purchases in quiet and seclusion.

SEVERE TEST SHOWS HOW TO SAVE SHOES

"A molder in our foundry wore a pair of shoes with Neolin Soles every day for ten months and two weeks—both in the foundry, and to and from his work—and they are just worn out." The Sessions Foundry Company of Bristol, Connecticut, makes this report on a pair of Neolin-soled molders' shoes given them for test.

Neolin Soles have none of the shortcomings of other soles. They do not burn or crack under conditions such as these—nor do they wear out quickly under the grind of abrasive materials. They are made by Science to be especially tough and durable, will stand the roughest kind of usage and so wear longer and save money. Moreover, they are comfortable and waterproof.

You can get them on new shoes in many styles for men, women and children—or as re-soles. They are manufactured by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels—guaranteed to outwear all other heels.

HEROES OF CAMBRAI HOME FROM FRANCE

Part of 11th Engineers, Who Threw Down Shovels to Attack Foe, Here on Santa Teresa.

REGIMENT CITED 4 TIMES

Three Other Transports Bring Kansas Troops, Ambulance Units, and Casuals.

Nearly 11,000 troops of all branches of the service, from engineers to sanitary squads, arrived yesterday from France and Italy in four transports, and were welcomed down the bay by the police boat Patrol, the department boat Correction, and a small flotilla of steamboats containing relatives and friends of the famous 11th New York Engineers, who fought so well at Cambrai in the Fall of 1917 under General Sir Julian Byng, and of the 35th Division, mostly from Kansas. Every one who came to meet the Kansas troops, including Governor Henry J. Allen, wore a sunflower.

The first transport to arrive was the Santa Teresa with 1,829 troops, among whom were the first unit, consisting of seven officers and 265 men, of the 11th Engineers to return to America. The remainder, with the commander of the regiment, Colonel William Barclay Parsons, will arrive on Sunday by the French liner Chicago from Bordeaux. The regiment was recruited in New York early in 1917, and has the distinction of being a three-stripe command. It was the first American regiment to be received by the King of England, first to be at the front, first to meet the German forces, and the first to suffer casualties and to lose prisoners to the Germans. The regiment has received four citations—two from the British and two from the Americans.

Dropped Shovels to Fight.

It will be remembered that it was the members of this regiment who dropped their shovels for rifles when the regiment was caught in the German drive on Cambrai, Nov. 30, 1917, Company F furnishing the first casualties of American units in service. It was this regiment also that had its "back to the wall" with the British at Arras in the Spring of 1918. Company E was in the Chateau-Thierry salient in July, 1918, the regiment also doing its bit at St. Mihiel and the Argonne.

There were a number of casual companies on the Santa Teresa, and the "Yankee Special," a dramatic organization which toured the American zone in France under the command of Lieutenant E. L. Alston of Dallas, Texas, who said the whole troupe had been booked for a forty weeks' vaudeville tour last November after the armistice had been signed.

The Duca degli Abruzzi followed the Santa Teresa with 1,106 officers and men of the United States Ambulance Corps from France and Italy and docked at the Italian Navigation Company Pier 96, North River, at the foot of West Fifty-sixth Street. The detachment consisted of eighteen sections of the Army Ambulance Corps, sent out from forty-four colleges and universities in all parts of the country. They were under the command of Colonel Elbert E. Persons, a surgeon of the regular army.

Colonel Persons said yesterday that the thirty sections which were sent to Italy were not only intended to assist the Italian Army in taking care of their sick and wounded, but also to fight the Austrian propaganda, which was being daily distributed from airplanes flying over the Italian trenches. Captain Talbot Smith of Richmond Hill, L. I., a lawyer at 100 Broadway, who was in command of Section 527 at Cima Grappa, was decorated twice by General Lombardi, and the section was cited twice. There were also several American naval officers on board from the submarine chasers which have been doing duty in the Adriatic and the Mediterranean, twenty-seven Italian officers, and 654 enlisted men of the Italian Reserves, and several small casual companies.

Brings 500 Nurses.

The Mobile, the fourth German steamship assigned for use as a transport for the United States Government, arrived early in the afternoon from France with 2,973 troops. The contingent included 500 army nurses. The Mobile was formerly the Cleveland of the Hamburg-American Line, which made two around the world cruises with Americans two years before the war started in 1914.

The principal unit on the Mobile was the 130th Field Artillery, a Kansas regiment of the 35th Division, which returned complete, sixty officers and 1,616 men. They received a warm welcome from the men of their State on the Lexington and other craft, including the police boat Patrol, which were all supplied with band.

Section 646 of the Army Ambulance Corps returned on the Mobile bearing a flag decorated at its tip with six ribbons and six French War Crosses, and every one of the eighteen members of the unit wore the Croix de Guerre and were promised the French Medal Militaire before they sailed from France. It was the original Norton-Harjes Ambulance Corps that in the early days of the war assisted the French. The unit was financed by Richard Norton, who recently died in France, and H. H. Harjes of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan-Harjes, Paris.

Each member of the unit also wore the Fourragere cord at his shoulder, the green and red, showing that the corps had been cited six times for bravery. The only other Americans with this decoration are the 626th Section, which also arrived on the Mobile, and the afayette Escadrille. The 625th Section of the United States Ambulance Corps also had its flag decorated with ribbons and French War Crosses and many of its members wore the Croix de Guerre. It was formed by the American students in Paris at the outbreak of the war in 1914 and went to the front under the command of Lieutenant Robert McClay of New York. The section has been cited five times and has been in twenty-fly battles.

The last transport to arrive was the Manchuria, with 4,169 troops on board, including ninety-eight officers and 2,200 men which formed the 137th Infantry of the 35th Division. The regiment was in command of Colonel W. McRowan, Garden City, Kan., and sailed for France a year ago yesterday. It first went into action at the Argonne trenches in September and was on the right of the 77th Division in the heavy fighting in that section. There were a number of nurses and casual companies on the Manchuria.

LETS MRS. FRICKE TESTIFY.

Judge Mayer Sets Court Rule Aside as Archaic.

The case of Albert Paul Fricke, charged with treason, will go to the jury tomorrow. One of the witnesses called yesterday by Thomas J. O'Neill, counsel for the defendant, was the latter's wife, Mrs. Cecelia Fricke, and when George Winship Taylor, counsel for the Government, objected on the ground that a wife could not testify either for or against her husband, Judge Mayer said:

"I have been waiting for a long time to have this question come up. That has been the rule, but under modern ideals I believe it to be archaic and not in accord with jurisprudence when the wife testifies in behalf of her husband. I will permit Mrs. Fricke to testify."

The gist of the testimony was a statement that the defendant was in Lakewood, N. J., from Jan. 9 to Jan. 23 in 1917. This contradicted the evidence of witnesses for the Government to the effect that Fricke had been seen in a restaurant in conversation with suspected aliens in this period.

HENRI MOUQUINS CELEBRATE

Married 80 Years. They Greet 500 in Old Restaurant.

Mr. and Mrs. Henri Mouquin, Sr., celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday at 149 Fulton Street, the restaurant that antedates the civil war. Between the hours of 4 and 7 about 500 relatives and friends of the aged couple came to present their felicitations. Mr. Mouquin, who is 82 years old, and his wife received their friends surrounded by flowers. A buffet collation was served and there was dancing.

The Fulton to Ann Street institution for many years has been the rendezvous of noted business and professional men. In the early days Charles A. Dana, Horace Greeley, Dr. Henry Ward Beecher, Cardinal McCloskey, William Cullen Bryant, John Hay, John Bigelow, General Chester A. Arthur, who became President, and James Gordon Bennett enjoyed its hospitality.

Mr. Mouquin was born in Switzerland and landed in New York in 1854, at the age of seventeen. In 1879 he married Miss Marie Granjean. They had two sons, Henri and Louis Mouquin, and a daughter. There are also three grandsons and one great grandson.

9TH COAST DEFENSE IS WELCOMED HOME

Veterans of Argonne Greeted with Cheers as They Parade New York Streets.

REVIEWED BY MAYOR HYLAN

Escorted by New 9th Coast Defense Command and Veterans of Civil and Spanish Wars.

New York's old 9th Coast Defense command, that manned trench mortars in the Argonne, received a cordial welcome home yesterday afternoon when it paraded through the streets of New York and was received on Fifth Avenue by Mayor Hylan and army officers. The world war veterans were escorted by the new 9th Coast Defense command and civil and Spanish war veterans of the command, and were greeted with cheers along the whole route of march.

Headed by a detachment of mounted police and 150 cadets from St. Xavier's High School the new 9th Coast Defense command left its armory on West Fourteenth Street and marched up Seventh Avenue to Fifty-ninth Street, and thence to Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street, where it met the old 9th Coast Artillery Corps under Colonel John J. Byrne, who commanded the unit in France. The marching troops passed cheering throngs until they came to a halt outside of the 1st Field Artillery Armory, at Sixty-seventh Street, where the old 9th is being temporarily quartered, where a detachment of the Spanish and civil war veterans of the unit stood at attention while the colors were presented to Colonel Byrne on behalf of the new command.

Before the old command left the armory Colonel Byrne made an address in which he explained that men of the old 9th Coast Artillery Corps had been taken from their command proper and distributed among the 1st French Mortar Battery, 57th Artillery, 43d Artillery, 74th Artillery, 5th Trench Mortar Battery, 17th Anti-Aircraft, 37th Artillery and 31st Artillery before going overseas. With the exception of a few who had been sent to Sandy Hook, he said, every man in the unit had been overseas. Several of them, he added, won the Croix de Guerre.

From the armory the men marched up Broadway to Seventy-second Street, thence Central Park to Fifth Avenue, and down Fifth Avenue to the Fourteenth Street Armory, where a supper, entertainment and dance were given the returned soldiers of the old 9th by the new command.

The troops reached the official reviewing stand on the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Sixty-fourth and Sixty-fifth Streets, shortly after 5 o'clock, taking only fifteen minutes to pass. They were greeted by Mayor Hylan, George T. Wilson, and other members of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome and several naval and army officers, including Commodore Forshew, Colonel Alfred Schermerhorn, General Daniel Appleton, Colonel Elmore S. Austin, and General Edward Ohmer. Seated in the official reviewing stand were sixty members of the Salvation Army. Colonel Charles Miles, who was in command, explained that the unit was from the Salvation Army Training College, the seamstress of which were used by officers of the old 9th for instruction rooms prior to going overseas.

THE PHILHARMONIC PLAYS.

Leo Ornstein and Playerless Piano Accompany Orchestra.

A post-season concert by the Philharmonic Orchestra, Mr. Stransky conducting, with Leo Ornstein, pianist, and the Ampico reproducing piano playing alone, was given at Carnegie Hall last evening before a large audience. The orchestra played the third Leonore overture of Beethoven and the "Tasso" Lamento e Trionfo of Liszt.

The reproducing piano played with the orchestra the first movement of the G Minor concerto of Mendelssohn from a record made by Mr. Ornstein, while the pianist sat before the instrument. Then the musician moved forward and played the other two movements of the concerto. A Chopin nocturne, Opus 15, No. 2 F sharp, was later played by Mr. Ornstein, and directly after it he moved back and the piano repeated the work. Other numbers on the program were Ornstein's "Impressions of Chinatown," the Thirteenth Hungarian Rhapsody and the "Marche Slav."

VANGUARD OF 77TH WILL ARRIVE TODAY

More Than 5,000 New York Men on the Aquitania to Get Rousing Welcome.

BIG FLEET TO GREET THEM

Parade of Complete Division of 31,000 Men Assured in Letter from War Department.

The vanguard of the 77th Division, comprising the 305th Infantry, 303d Machine Gun Battalion and the 306th Machine Gun Battalion, will arrive from France on the Cunarder Aquitania today. The huge transport, bearing more than 5,000 men of New York's own, is expected to reach Ambrose Channel at 6 o'clock this morning and remain there until noon, when, convoyed by a fleet of boats crowded with thousands of welcomers, she will proceed to Pier 54, North River.

The news that the Aquitania was running true to schedule was received by the Mayor's Committee in a wireless despatch from the steamer yesterday. Every home auxiliary of the various divisional units had been keeping its members informed and from early morning until late at night the office of the Mayor's Committee in the Hall of Records was thronged with the relatives and friends of the returning soldiers, seeking tickets to go down the bay on the official boats. It was a happy, good natured crowd which patiently waited its turn to get the coveted tickets.

The official boats will leave Pier A, the Battery, at 8 A. M., according to the Mayor's Committee. Arrangements have been made to carry more than 6,000 persons down the bay to greet the homecomers. The Patrol, Correction, Bay Ridge, and Gaynor have been assigned to the committee for its use. Special provision has been made for the "gold star" mothers who may desire to take the trip. The Patrol will carry city officials and the Mayor's Committee.

To Go Direct to Camp Mills.

As soon as the Aquitania has docked the men will be transported by ferry to Long Island City and taken by special train to Camp Mills, where the division will be quartered until the parade. The division will be mustered out at Camp Upton, where the 77th was originally formed. The advance party of the division yesterday appealed to the relatives and friends of the men not to visit Camp Mills until forty-eight hours after the men had arrived there. It would be impossible for visitors to see the soldiers until after that time, it was said. Generous leaves of absence will be given to the veterans as soon as they have gone through the cleaning up process.

For a while yesterday there was much concern among those interested in the proposed divisional parade when Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen, made public a letter he had received from the office of the Adjutant General in Washington. The letter, which was dated April 18, stated that the War Department had declined to authorize a divisional parade. Members of the Mayor's Committee and the advance party pointed out that Secretary of War Baker on April 19 had cabled that it was possible to promise definitely the parade, as adequate shipping facilities had been assured.

Further assurance, however, that New York would be able to see all of the 31,000 men marching up Fifth Avenue at the same time was contained in the following letter received yesterday by Martin Conboy, Director of the Selective Service:

War Department,
Office of the Chief of Staff,
Washington, D. C., April 21, 1919.

Martin Conboy, Esq., Selective Service Headquarters, Hall of Records, Chambers and Centre Streets, New York.

My Dear Sir: The Acting Secretary of War directs that I acknowledge receipt of your letter of April 4 addressed to the Secretary of War, relative to a parade of the 77th Division.

In reply to a similar letter on this subject you were informed that the War Department favored the parade of as large a part of the 77th Division in New York as possible, provided that no unit was thereby delayed in its demobilization to await the arrival of other units of the division, so far as possible to have all of the division, or at least a substantial part of it, for parade.

Very truly yours,
HENRY JERVEY,
Major General, General Staff, Assistant Chief of Staff, Director of Operations.

A committee, of which ex-Judge Leon Sanders, John L. Bernstein, William Edlin, Joseph S. Marcus, Benjamin Steinman, and Jacob R. Fain are members, called on Mayor Hylan yesterday and told him that the sentiment among the residents of the east side was unanimously in favor of a parade of the east side men of the division in their own home district. Members of the committee said that the Jewish community, which had given more than 30 per cent. of its sons to the 77th, should have an opportunity of greeting the boys in its own way.

The Welcome Committee for the Jewish Boys Returning from the War, according to the delegation, has made plans for a parade of the Jewish Veterans of the east side, entertainments in the Jewish theatres, thanksgiving services in the synagogues, dinners for the officers and men, and a monument as a tribute to the fallen. Mayor Hylan said he would take up the subject with the Mayor's Committee.

The advance party notified the various home auxiliaries yesterday that no entertainment by glimmerlit or company units could be held earlier than the fifth day after the parade, because of the time required for demobilization.

A memorial service in memory of the members of the 305th Field Artillery who died in the service will be held tomorrow night in the Engineers' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, under the auspices of the 305th Field Artillery Auxiliary.

ITALY AND FIUME.

The action of the Italian delegates will not break up the Peace Conference. The business of the Conference will be continued, the treaty will be prepared, it will be submitted to the German plenipotentiaries, and we have very little doubt that it will be signed by them. We have just as little doubt that in the end the document will be adorned with the signatures of ORLANDO and SONNINO in behalf of Italy.

They have nothing more to propose, they declare, but are willing to receive and consider overtures from other members of the Council. That is not exactly the way in which they would put it if they had irrevocably resolved upon withdrawal. ORLANDO and SONNINO appear to be carrying out a political rather than a diplomatic policy. They say the Italian people are "seething" with excitement over the fear that they may lose Fiume. If public opinion in Italy has been raised to that high temperature, the fuel has been supplied chiefly by SONNINO. Fiume was omitted from the secret treaty of 1915. Its inclusion in the present Italian demand looks rather like a political move to give the people something interesting to think about, possibly to divert their attention from contentious matters which might have brought about the overthrow of the Ministry. But having raised the Italian people to this pitch of excitement about the demand made for Fiume, ORLANDO and SONNINO find themselves really in danger of being made its victims unless they can carry their point at the Conference.

They have not carried their point, they have not won Fiume, and it will be very difficult for them to get it. President WILSON'S plain statement presents the controlling principles of right and justice that the Conference must apply and abide by unless it would throw consistency to the winds. It is evident that he has the support of CLEMENCEAU and LLOYD GEORGE, for even if they must stand by the terms of the secret treaty they are not called upon to deprive the Jugo-slavs of their seaport, since the treaty did not give Fiume to the Italians.

ORLANDO and SONNINO have sought to win by insistence carried to the point of obstinacy. They may return to Rome, they may do many things, but unless, their passions have got the better of their reason, they will not put Italy in the unfortunate and dangerous position of being an outsider when the Treaty is signed and the League of Nations becomes operative. Italy aided her partners in the war. She was helped by them. She is going to stand in need of help from her partners in peace. No nation can afford to dissolve that partnership.

THE PRICE OF BREAD.

Those who found fault with regulating the price of iron and steel at the same level for all are leaders of a movement for putting the price of bread below the world level for Americans. Needless to say, the movement is popular. It is an unwelcome fact that the prices of food used in the official index rose 2 per cent. in the month last reported, March, and are now 14 points above last year, on an average of twenty-two articles. That is the basis for the demand that the price of bread shall be cheapened with tax money. It is said that the Government's guarantee of $2.26 to farmers as the price of their wheat is the cause of dear bread, and that the Treasury should assume the loss of selling wheat cheaply enough below the guarantee to break the price of bread. All would like to see that result, but not all would like to see it brought about in that manner.

Bread cannot be cheapened in that way. If the wheat market were broken wide open it would be as likely to rise as to fall, just as hogs rose when the price control was removed. The price of flour is not the sole factor in the price of bread. Everything that goes into bread is dearer by more than enough to keep up the price of bread if bakers got their flour at old prices. The world price is the only price consistent with the spirit which inspired the $2.26 guarantee. We risked a billion to do our duty toward feeding the starving. Now it is said that we should waste a billion to supply bread cheaper to Americans before world hunger has been abolished. An irritating picture is drawn of a heaped up, rotting surplus, kept away from the hungry here in order to save money from the Government's food corner. There can be no rotting surplus anywhere in the world if the wheat to be got here alone can be distributed.

In the nine months ending with March we shipped abroad $645,992,000 of breadstuffs and $753,594,000 of meat and dairy products. It was a work of both humanity and profit, and should not be hindered in order to cheapen bread even for ourselves. The "Government food trust" is right in getting a world price for its wheat, and saving our taxpayers from loss, if it can be done. The bread which is sold cheaply abroad is cheapened by tax money. It is better that our breadeaters should pay for what they eat if it can be managed that way. World starvation is what makes bread dear here, not the Government guarantee. Few would defend the use of a billion of tax money to supply Americans with cheap food, bought away from those for whom it was produced.

The situation is not normal, and is not to be judged or ruled by normal considerations. On principle, price regulation is obnoxious. But economic principles do not apply to conditions controlled temporarily by humanity and sacrifice rather than by profit and loss.

KOREA.

News about the disturbances in Korea which has found its way to the outer world—and in spite of the Japanese censorship there is a good deal of it—indicates that there is a conflict between an irresistible principle and immovable facts. The facts, not seriously disputed, are that the Koreans are better off materially and intellectually under the Japanese rule than they were while independent, and most probably better off than they would be even today if they ruled themselves. The principle is the passionate desire of the Korean people for freedom, and the events of the last few weeks have shown that this is a fact quite as stubborn as any of the others. Indeed, the evidence brought out by the independence movement has so far been wholly favorable to the Koreans. Japanese government has done much for Korea, but the strain of the recent manifestations has brought its worst features to the front; the Koreans may as yet be incapable of self-government, but they have lately displayed a remarkable degree of patriotism, self-control, and capacity for organization.

The Koreans have been known as an excitable race; half a century ago mobs used to murder and torture missionaries and their converts and sailors shipwrecked on the coast. Nothing of that has been seen in the recent movement. Amazingly widespread, remarkably organized, it began as a movement of passive resistance and peaceful demonstration, and seems to have remained so despite the harshness of repressive measures. Here and there, according to Japanese papers, Japanese have been killed; but the long Korean casualty lists admitted even by the Japanese convey the impression that these were isolated outrages, balanced by something like massacres when troops or police dispersed Korean crowds. The brutalities of some Japanese toward apparently harmless men and women which have been attested by impartial witnesses would have provoked most races to violence, but the Koreans seem to have kept their heads. It is not impossible for an entire people to change its nature under great pressure; the classic instance is the throwing off of the less practical qualities of the Slavonic nature by the Czechs when they realized that it had to be done to shake off German rule, and all present evidence indicates that the Polish nation has learned a lesson which might have preserved its liberty if understood two centuries ago. If this can happen in Europe, it may in Asia; the present movement has shown the Koreans much more capable politically than the world had thought.

The methods by which Japan is repressing the nationalist movement are not pleasant in themselves and not likely to create good feeling between Koreans and Japanese. Undoubtedly the greatest misfortune in recent Korean history was the assassination of the able and just Prince Ito, the first Japanese Governor, by a Korean fanatic. Ito's system contemplated a considerable training of the Koreans in self-government and a moderate rule by the Japanese. Evidence which seems trustworthy now tends to show that the Korean participation in the government of the country has been getting less and less, and that the useful lessons in honest and efficient administration which the Japanese in early days taught to Korean officials are going to waste because Korean officials are disappearing.

Ito's successor was Count TERAUCHI, since Premier. All who know him testify to his efficiency, probity, and good intentions; but he seems to be of the military type so akin to that of Prussia, and under the methods of his administration and that of his successor severity has become too common, justice has occasionally been overlooked. Militaristic methods are proof of inefficiency, either past or present, or both. Nor does the Japanese plan of racial assimilation seem to have succeeded very well. However distasteful it is to a Korean patriot, outsiders may think it would be the best solution, if it were possible; but it has been hampered not only by Korean national feeling, but by the Japanese. There seems to be a widespread tendency in Japan to regard the Koreans as an inferior race—a prejudice explicable by Korea's recent history, but one which naturally discourages intermarriage and amalgamation. And in the meantime Korea has been of late administered very much for the preferred interest of the Japanese, with the Koreans, though undeniably better and more cheaply governed than before, in a position of inferiority.

Japan's national interests demand that Korea should not be in the hands of any third Power; on this point the whole world will agree with the Japanese. Nor can it easily be disputed that at the time of the annexation of Korea to the empire this step was probably the best way out for both Japan and Korea. Whether the Japanese are to have twenty million friends or twenty million enemies in the peninsula depends on the Japanese themselves, and it is encouraging that many Japanese realize that the militaristic rule of recent years is hurting Japanese interests as much as Korean. Americans who have studied the case do not say that independence would be a satisfactory solution; but that there should be reforms, less harshness, and more participation of the Koreans in self-government seems to be their general verdict. Japanese statesmanship, which has never been deficient in ability, should surely be able to devise some means which, while insuring Japan's control of a country of such importance to her welfare, would enable the Korean people to exercise the capacities which they have acquired under Japanese rule, and would enable them to feel that they were friends and partners of the Japanese instead of unwilling subjects.

VICTORY NOTE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The national view of the Victory Loan is the important view, and it hardly could be better. The loan had no sooner been offered than Secretary GLASS'S home town oversubscribed its share. Yesterday it was reported that forty-eight New England towns were on the honor list, including forty-four in the Boston district alone. Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana are among States which report that their counties are ahead not only of their share of the loan, but of their previous record of oversubscription. The news is as good from the cotton districts as from the grain districts. For example, twice as many counties are over the top in the Atlanta district as at the same stage of the Fourth Loan drive.

If there were any lack of such news, it could not be made good by any announcement that the money powers had subscribed the loan. That would signify a lack of Americanism such as cannot exist when popular subscriptions are widely distributed. The loan is a sort of referendum, the subscriptions being the ballots. When Socialist Aldermen or radical agitators boycott the loan there is need of a demonstration of American sentiment.

Americans loved their country enough to pledge their last dollar for it, and now the promise is up for redemption in a manner which will return the dollars with reward for lending them. New York's vote by dollars will be satisfactory, but the vote by subscriptions to the Victory Loan must be found all over the country. The reports from the country cheer New York, and when the lists are closed the districts of the interior will find no disappointment in the returns from hereabout. "Finish the job this week!" is the slogan from the country. If the country will finish its share New York will do its part.

HARVARD'S HOSTESS HOUSE.

The world waits expectantly for the official denial by Harvard University of the account of an opening of a "hostess house for students" published in yesterday's papers, and its ascription to a corrosive Yale propaganda. According to the dispatches, "one luxury is a candy kitchen where "undergraduates can make fudge or "taffy." A few years ago a public which took its opinion of Harvard from professional humorists would have found in this statement confirmation of all its suspicions; but football scores of 41 to 0 against Yale prepared the world for the spectacle seen in a war in which Harvard men were honorably conspicuous long before America entered, and in which the Harvard roll of service eventually exceeded, if recollection is right, that of any other American university.

Indeed, the hostess house offers first aid to the collegian in several important matters. "Free facilities for pressing clothes" may not be much appreciated on the Gold Coast, which has figured so largely in Harvard legend, but many a student will be gladdened by the news that he need no longer dispose his trousers between the mattresses when he wraps the drapery of his couch about him. Moreover, "wives of the professors will "mend clothes and sew on buttons "free." Why wives? If daughters of the professors could be drafted for this activity, supported if need be by young society girls whose war work is now ending, the marriage rate of Massachusetts would go up with a bound, and there would be less complaint in future about race suicide in our educated class.

PEACE BY REFERENDUM.

The intimation from Berlin that the German people will be asked to vote upon the peace terms—that is to say, to decide whether they shall be accepted subject to ratification in the usual way—recalls the proposal of the pacifists in this country, when no alternative to war with the Central Powers was possible, that the whole matter should be sent to the polling booths for a decision. In Congress, representing the people, was lodged the power to declare war after hearing from the President that diplomatic relations with Germany had broken down, and that considerations of the honor and welfare of the United States justified a resort to the arbitrament of the sword. The proposal to have a plebiscite upon the question of peace or war was regarded as grotesque and as a counsel of delay, and the same thing can be rationally said of the notion of arranging a vote by the German people upon the acceptance of the peace terms.

It was lightly said in Berlin, on the day the appointment of Germany's six delegates to Versailles was announced, that "if the peace terms are published one morning the referendum "can be taken the next day, and the "answer can go to the Entente forty-"eight hours later." Yet it is clearly the function of the delegation headed by the Foreign Minister, Count VON BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU, to agree to and sign the peace terms, the right of discussion about the details being reserved to them, if to anybody. Why send these delegates to Paris at all if their authority is to be exercised by the voters at home?

In the history of peace negotiations there has been nothing more preposterous than this project to refer to ten or more millions of uninformed voters for their hasty decision the elaborate document upon which the great statesmen of the Entente and the United States have been at work for so long a time. "We have laid "down our conditions, they are ir-"revocably fixed, and we shall not "after them," said BISMARCK at Versailles in 1871. Imagine what his rejoinder would have been if THIERS had declared that the peace terms must be passed on by the French voters. Of ratification THIERS tells the story in one sentence: "The As-"sembly perceived the necessity of "approving the preliminaries of peace "I had just signed without giving "themselves up to discussion and im-"prudent speeches." No one in authority in France would have dreamed of referring the preliminary terms to the electorate.

It should be obvious that it is not the business of citizens who in many cases may be ignorant, or swayed by fanaticism, or influenced by demagogues, to decide the general question of whether the peace terms offered by allies victorious over the armies of their country shall be approved. That is an affair of representatives of the Government of the citizens; of men of ability, experience, and judgment, having the interests of the defeated and prostrate nation at heart. It would be utterly impossible for the most learned German to master in a few hours the contents of the peace document which it is proposed to present to the great body of the voters in Germany, the majority of whom are not learned in any sense, and many of whom are simple, unsophisticated folk constitutionally unable to understand the language of diplomacy. Besides, the individual voter thinks for himself; treaties must be made by officers of Government who think for the whole body of the people.

Germany must have peace, and as Count VON BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU said in his address to the National Assembly at Weimar on Feb. 7, "for a long "time past Germany has ceased to be "an enemy whom the Entente need "fear from a military point of view." The good faith of her present rulers, of her established Government, will be under grave suspicion if the proposal to hold a plebiscite upon the terms of peace prepared at Paris is persisted in.

Is it a practical joker or an amateur Bolshevik who is wasting circulars on "the Workers, Farmers, Soldiers, and Sailors" of South Dakota? Somebody is notifying them of the deadly or humorous purpose of this Soviet of the Banana Belt, "the taking over of "all industries and land by the "American Anarchist Federation of "Commune Soviets."

It is easy to imagine the burst of welcome with which the farmers of South Dakota will receive this offer to hand over their land to the I. W. W. and others "equally as good." Still, if the humorist or amateur really wanted to find a fruitful ground for his literature, he should have addressed the farmers—or would he say "peasants"?—of Vermont.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

They Must Begin All Over.

More trouble and the doing over again of a hard job already well done once confront the people in this country who are went to begin speeches, letters to the editor, and editorial articles with "We," or "I," as the case may be, "have no sympathy with Bolshevism or the Bolsheviks, but——"

The class here is of considerable size. Some of its members have been in Russia for as much as a fortnight, but most of them are serious thinkers without any such preparation. They talk radicalism and revolution in parlors and studios, and are yet to meet anybody more ferocious than a fat, brown "swami," who, being indebted to England for all he is and has, naturally hates that country bitterly.

A few weeks ago there came from Russia the report that the Leninites had decided upon a reform euphemistically described as "the nationalisation of women." Immediately all these interesting folk who are not "Bolsheviks, but——" saw the need of action and acted. The result was that from somewhere—their inner consciousnesses, perhaps—they evolved an ingenious and elaborate disproof, in part documentary, that the dear Bovisteers had substituted promiscuity for matrimony. As nobody wanted to believe a thing as abominable as that, even of Bolsheviki, the disproof was generally accepted as adequate except as against the possibility that a few madmen in some remote Russian district had attempted—and failed—to remove the last trace of decency from the new Russian Government.

Some More Disproof Is Required.

Having accomplished this triumph in vindication of their Russian friends, the people who are not "Bolsheviks, but——" proceeded to take a well-earned rest. It has not lasted long. Yesterday there was printed a long Associated Press dispatch telling in detail just how the "nationalisation of women" had worked—which was with results that had seemed intolerable to not a few, even in Russia and among the Bolsheviki themselves—and announced the suspension of the system in one province until a report on its operation and effect could be made by a committee of women appointed by the Provincial Commissary.

So it looks as if there really was at least a basis of truth in the original tale. Its repetition does, indeed, come from London by way of Stockholm, and it is still permissible to denounce it as "a British lie," that most useful of all characterizations for the people who are not "Bolsheviks, but——." It will be harder, though, this time, to make their denials hold water, for the dispatch quotes at length from a paper that at any rate has a highly Russian name—Krasnaya Gazeta—and cannot be set down offhand as an organ of reaction.

And besides, the nationalization of women is just about what the Bolsheviki would be expected seriously to attempt, and they would be no more likely to fail in it than in their many other, not wholly unlike, undertakings.

Birds Are Still Superior.

That an aviator of such long experience and such notable skill as Juzas Vasaitis should have been killed at last by the collapse of his machine under the strains of landing is an addition to already abundant proof that the most needed improvement of the airplane is one making descent to earth safer. The problem is a difficult one—so difficult that its solution has not yet been seriously attempted, though, of course, it has received a vast amount of consideration.

One method, and an entirely successful one, of accomplishing the desired end is illustrated every time a bird alights. But a bird, besides having a motor incomparably more trustworthy than the best with which any airplane is equipped, also has wings incomparably more efficient than the stiff and immovable expanses by means of which the aviator travels. The bird can approach at high speed a telegraph wire or the swaying branch of a tree and arrest his motion at exactly the right instant to enable him to settle both firmly and lightly on his chosen resting place.

How the bird does it is perfectly well known to the makers of airplanes, but imitation of his device, while theoretically easy, would so complicate the flying machine as to reduce to nothing its present lamentably small margin of safety. That aviators can land at all otherwise than in what they call a crash is as wonderful as anything they do, and the landing is more dangerous than most of the "stunts" that seem so difficult. Some day, presumably, this weakness of the airplane will be removed. Then will it be indeed the culminating triumph of human ingenuity in the way of machines. It is almost that now.

A Like Title Worn by Two Men.

Another Mayor of a small town has succeeded in attracting national attention, but the attention given by the country to the Mayor of Sioux City is of quite different quality from that which it bestowed upon the Mayor of Seattle. To the one fame was accorded; to the other, not to use a harsher word, notoriety.

The opportunity of both was the same. In Seattle it was utilised by a man of sense, patriotism, and vigor. In Sioux City it was wasted, and words, by a man who chose to ally himself with the exponents of just the opposite qualities. Each has his fitting reward.

But, as every country has the government it deserves, so do towns have Mayors in full accord with their wisdom of selection. Seattle, therefore, shares the fame of its good Mayor and Sioux City the notoriety of the bad one it chose. For Mayors are elected; they do not merely happen.

Loss Sharing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Willcox has strong opinions about profit-sharing, but said nothing about loss-sharing. How would he handle the latter? If profits be shared, is it not equitable to expect losses to be shared also, as well as debts arising from losses? Are the workers prepared to accept such responsibility? Are they making any demands to share profits and losses? Is not the subject one that is being thrust upon them?

Would Mr. Willcox limit profit (and loss) sharing to manufacturing industries, or would he apply his system to other fields of industry, such as agriculture, the professions, domestic service, literary work, banking, mercantile business, insurance, &c.?

If applied to manufacturing branches only, would there not be a rush for employment in that branch and such competition for places where profits were shared that wages would fall?

Has Mr. Willcox worked out any practical system? (Miss) EMILY DAVIS.

BAD MOTION PICTURES.

Support for the Protest of Mrs. O'Grady Against Them.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The strenuous protest of Mrs. O'Grady against indecent motion pictures is strikingly similar to many received recently at the office of the National Juvenile Motion Picture League. Producers of motion pictures would profit by heeding these protests.

It would be a pity to see the "movie" houses suffer the same fate as the saloons, for the motion picture, if produced correctly, is one of the most powerful agencies for imparting knowledge, aside from the entertainment value which it undoubtedly contains.

Public opinion and common decency will sooner or later demand that the trashy, sentimental, and cheap melodramatics theme will have to go. The producers of motion pictures who do not see the handwriting on the wall will later be forced to see it. The great public conscience, which has so recently adopted prohibition, is now turning its attention to all saloon substitutes—the spotlight is now directed on the pictures of crime and vulgarity which have for so many years been an insult to the intellect of adults and a menace to the welfare of children and young people.

All over the country the storm has been gathering, and concerted action is becoming stronger in favor of decency in motion pictures. The danger lies with our young people and children. Millions of them every day attend the "movie" houses. One million Chicago children alone attend the movies daily. Their presence cannot be ignored. The two types of pictures which are now receiving a strong demand are these which accurately impart knowledge and the family film, the latter ranking high in wholesome entertainment and comedy value.

Producers must not forget that people seek entertainment in a motion picture house. To be wholesome a picture does not necessarily have to present that eternal and inane struggle between right and wrong, with a glaring moral tacked on at the end. Most of these pictures teach negatively, which teaching, of course, is passé. Educators today omit almost all prohibition from their teaching and hold up the positive truth in its place. They do not dare present the incorrect and caution against it, for fear that the incorrect idea may make a more lasting impression than the correct one. Some motion picture producers have already grasped this psychological principle and are adhering to it. Their pictures have been a tremendous success and have the added quality of being placed in a permanent film library from which there is future revenue. The picture which early seeks the scrapheap is, of course, the most nonproductive, however big its first run may be.

Education of public taste is the most powerful method of destroying the objectionable film; not that our people actually demand salacious and indecent amusement, but they do not resent it openly. Each individual who feels that a picture is revolting should register that protest. No motion picture manager will consider it good business to continue to play a type of picture which offends his audience. Seek him out after the show and tell him what is wrong and promise to support the better kind. This is community service. A half dozen sincere protests from an audience will insure a lively protest to the producer from the manager of the theatre. A half dozen protests from the theatre manager will insure a deep concern on the part of the producer.

FIRST TO FIGHT.

An American Who Was in the Heavy Battles of 1914.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the illustrated supplement of THE TIMES of April 13 a picture is shown of Lieutenant Francis Jeffray in the uniform of the Royal Warwickshire Regiment, who is "said to have been the first American to go over the top, the event taking place Sept. 15, 1916, at Merviller, France."

Last January I returned from Europe with an American named Private William Student, who originally came from Texas, but who now lives in Baltimore. In August, 1914, immediately after the declaration of war by England on Germany, he went to England at his own expense and enlisted in the Royal Scots Fusiliers. He took part in most of the heavy fighting of the war, including that in the Fall of 1914, up to the time he was last wounded and captured by the Germans in 1918.

Private Student has received the Mons Star for service in the field with the British Army in 1914. Also the British Distinguished Conduct Medal for gallantry in raiding machine gun emplacements, the British Military Medal for bringing up bombs and ammunition under heavy fire, and the French Medaille Militaire (the highest French decoration) for bringing in French wounded under fire. He will also receive the French and British Campaign Medals with bars. He was wounded on four separate occasions and wears four wound stripes. The last wound, in the back, has partly paralysed him, but he is now recovering.

It is not claimed that Private Student was the first American to go over the top, but he certainly antedated Lieutenant Jeffray's exploit by at least two years, and it is doubtful if any American has a more honorable record in this war than his. W. de B. WHYTE.

DEFEND WHARTON SCHOOL.

Pennsylvania Alumni Charge That Critics Back Cabal.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—A reply to recent criticisms of the management of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at the University of Pennsylvania by some of the relatives of the late Joseph Wharton, founder of the school, will appear in the next issue of the Alumni Register, the graduate magazine of the university, with the approval of the Executive Committee of the alumni. It reads in part:

"The Alumni of the University of Pennsylvania resent the unwarranted and unreliable attacks made upon their alma mater by some of the relatives of the late Joseph Wharton. These attacks began with their championship of a recent agitator and have continued in various insidious forms until the recent public attack upon the institution, its Trustees, and one of its Deans.

"Although many Philadelphians are aware of the unconstructive views of these critics and of the radical with whom they were so ardently associated, we feel that there may be some not so familiar with the usual judgment of these persons or with the fact that a reversion of the Wharton gift would personally benefit them.

"These critics seem to have made no attempt to ascertain all the facts concerning the Wharton School from the Provost of the university, the Dean of the department, or the Board of Trustees. They have made no ..... to ..... their suggestions or criticisms before these responsible persons or in any constructive or beneficial way done anything to influence the administration of the Wharton School. They have refused to follow the easy course of action laid down in the deed of gift for ascertaining whether its provisions were being properly administered.

"We have known that ever since the close of the war the reconstruction plans of the Provost have included a real and definite plan for raising the salaries of the members of the Faculty of the university. Their number and the complexity of the situation in our big, lightly endowed institution have made these plans slow of consummation, but we who know of them give our assurance that they are fair and practicable.

"If the members of the Faculty of the Wharton School are suppressed and hampered and have so many opportunities elsewhere at higher salaries why do they continue amid conditions of which they so bitterly complain? The Trustees have generously placed them in an infallible life tenure class, but they refuse to reciprocate and feel free to resign overnight.

"Dr. McClellan has striven to raise the Wharton School to the level of the other departments, counting more on quality than on numbers or popularity. He found, however, a cabal against him, backed and encouraged by our present critics.

"We resent the base libel of our Trustees couched in the flippant catchphrases of the Bolsheviki."

Albany Leaders Denounce League of Women Voters, Mrs. Garfield Says.

At a meeting of the New York State Women Voters' Anti-Suffrage Party in the home of Miss Annie Jennings, 48 Park Avenue, yesterday afternoon Mrs. M. C. Garfield, Legislative Chairman, reported interviews with Republican and Democratic leaders in Albany in regard to the newly formed League of Women Voters. She said that, without exception, the men with whom she talked had denounced the league as the sex distinction of a privileged class and as "outrageously un-American," the separating of a part from the whole.

Mrs. Charles S. Fairchild presided at the meeting, and Captain Hoffman Nickerson made an address on "The Federal Suffrage Amendment." There was an election to fill the places of officers and members of the Executive Committee whose terms expired this year. The following were unanimously elected: Honorary Chairman, Mrs. Charles S. Fairchild; Honorary Vice Chairman, Mrs. William A. Putnam; Chairman, Mrs. Frederick W. Longfellow; Vice Chairmen, Mrs. James Guthrie Shaw and Mrs. I. Sturgess Coffin; Secretary, Miss Frances Benson; Executive Member, Mrs. Walter Gibb.

STRASBURG STORKS BACK.

Famous Birds of Good Omen Return to Nests Left in War.

STRASBOURG, April 23.—Storks, which ceased their annual visits to Strasbourg in the Spring of 1914, returned this week to the old nests on a building on the left side of the Place de Broglie, in the centre of Strasbourg. Several storks, the first in five years, now occupy the nests.

The unexpected return of these famous birds in the present circumstances is commented upon with pleasure by the native population, who have always held that the storks brought good luck.

The building to which the storks returned is next door to the house in which, on April 25, 1792, Rouget de Lisle first sang the Marseillaise. The Bank of France recently has established its offices in the building with the stork nests.

Before the war the storks of Strasbourg brought many American and British tourists here.

PLAN NEW ALPINE REPUBLIC

Vorarlberg, Freed of Austria, Has Nowhere to Go.

BREGENZ, VORARLBERG, April 23.—The inhabitants of the Alpine district of Vorarlberg, who formerly gave their allegiance to Austria, are in a quandary regarding their future political status. Little enthusiasm is manifested in favor of a junction with Germany, and still less about joining Bavaria. Public opinion in general appears to favor the idea of a junction with Switzerland, but the Swiss Federal Council has not yet taken kindly to offers of union made by Vorarlberg.

Another solution of the problem, which is gaining partisans, is for the creation of an independent Suabian State, including Vorarlberg and the smaller adjoining principality of Liechtenstein. It was first proposed to make this new State a duchy, but the inhabitants of Vorarlberg are now opposed to any form recalling a monarchical government.

COLLIER BURNED AT SEA.

The Seattle of New Fleet Lost and Officer Drowned.

PORTLAND, Me., April 23.—The Ferris-type steamer Roy H. Seattle, built at Portsmouth, N. H., for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, was burned and abandoned at sea last Friday, and Third Officer Lewis B. Huntley of Portland was drowned, according to a cable dispatch received today by Huntley's wife. The message was sent from Bermuda, where the rescued crew was landed by a whaling vessel.

The Seattle left Norfolk on April 14 with a cargo of coal for a port in Brazil. Captain Thomas H. Cole, master of the vessel, was assistant inspector of hulls, connected with the local office of the Steamboat Inspection Service, before taking command of the Seattle.

WIGMORE ARGUES AGAINST ANSELL

Both Appear at American Bar Association's Hearing on Military Justice.

FORMER DEFENDS SYSTEM

Says Counsel to Bring Out Facts Is Needed—Latter Wants More Civil Law for Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The radical difference of opinion that exists not only in military circles but among lawyers as to the present system of military justice was brought out sharply today before the committee of the American Bar Association in the conflicting views presented by Lieut. Col. Samuel T. Ansell of the regular army and Colonel John Wigmore, a temporary officer in the War Department, in civil life a lawyer and a most active defender of the present system.

"The court-martial system does not need more law, but more facts," Colonel Wigmore asserted, urging that amendments of the present system to insure "perfectly fearless counsel for the accused" to bring out the facts would go far toward remedying such defects as had been disclosed.

"There is a feeling that by putting in more technical law we will get more justice," he added. "I do not believe that."

Colonel Ansell, resuming his argument which will not be ended for another day, defined the real issue as this question:

"Whether military justice is going to be conducted by hard and fast military rules or, is it going to take on an aspect of civil justice?"

"If we had had legal control from the beginning of the proceedings," he asserted, after displaying charts showing the extensive machinery set up in the Judge Advocate General's office to correct errors, "we would have had no need for this great revisory machinery at the top."

Colonel Wigmore took direct issue with statements made by Senator Chamberlain and Colonel Ansell. He quoted a speech made by Chamberlain on the floor of the Senate which declared that the army court-martial system represented neither a system of justice nor a system of law.

"If any man, after any rational inquiry whatever, holds to that view," Colonel Wigmore declared, "he is hopeless."

Similarly he challenged Colonel Ansell's frequently repeated charge that the military justice system is "archaic." On the contrary, Colonel Wigmore declared, there are elements in the army system so advanced and modern that men in civil practice can only dream of the day when they will be applied in civil courts.

Colonel Ansell entered today upon the detailed discussion of changes in law he desires made to accomplish his main purpose of divorcing the legal aspects of the army completely from the possibility of military domination. He recited figures to show that 94 per cent. of the enlisted men brought to trial were convicted.

"Either this is a most unlucky or perfect machine," he said, "or a most unhumanly unjust one."

About 36 per cent. of the officers tried were convicted, Colonel Ansell added, and he continued:

"Of course, people in the army are not going around convicting enlisted men because they are enlisted men and acquitting officers because they are officers. That is not true; but we do know that the officers get better trials."

The records of the Clemency Board, of which he is the head, Colonel Ansell said, show that 63 per cent. of the cases reviewed were not well tried and that 20 per cent were "poorly tried."

Chairman S. S. Gregory of the Bar Association's Committee, formally stated in denying a published report that the committee had been organized through the desire of the War Department to forestall a Congressional inquiry, that "the inspiration for the appointment of this committee and the intervention of the American Bar Association is due to no other person than General (now Lieutenant Colonel) Ansell. He added that Colonel Ansell had conferred in New York with President Page of the Bar Association, when the proposal that a committee of the association make an independent inquiry into the matter of military justice first came up. Subsequently President Page conferred with Major Gen. Crowder, Judge Advocate General, and Secretary Baker. Judge Gregory continued, and both "expressed full concurrence with the plan of having such an investigation."

Secretary Baker at a later conference with Judge Gregory declared himself in sympathy with the desire for an unbiased inquiry" and said he had an open mind on the questions involved.

Colonel Sedgwick Rice, Commandant at the Fort Leavenworth disciplinary barracks, said that about 50 per cent. of the men recalled there whose sentences included dishonorable discharge had that portion of the sentence suspended. From the beginning of the war up to April 10 a total of 4,427 prisoners had been received, he said. Then on their own application 1,916 have been assigned to the disciplinary battalions, to which only men convicted of purely military offenses had been eligible. Of these 1,107 were restored to duty as a result of their work in the battalion. Of those restored to duty the aggregate of their sentences was 5,228 years, which had been reduced through the disciplinary system to 3,600 months, the average time served being five months and three and a half days.

The officer told of the formation by direction of Secretary Baker of a Clemency Board at the Barracks in February, adding that it had always been his understanding that the long sentences imposed during the war were intended as a lesson and would be adjusted after the war. The Leavenworth Clemency Board has forwarded 3,200 recommendations for clemency to the Clemency Board in the Judge Advocate General's department and about 50 per cent. of these have been acted upon and returned. He added that approximately 1,000 men were released immediately as a result of this action and that paroles would be granted to a very large number of cases.

The recent strike at the disciplinary barracks, Colonel Rice said, was brought about by "professional agitators and strike leaders" among the prisoners and the only complaints made was against inequality of sentences for similar offenses and against long sentences. When the prisoners committee was told that the War Department would not discuss considering the whole matter the strike came to an end.

BACKS UP CHAMBERLAIN.

British Handwriting Expert Testifies in His Defense.

PARIS, April 23.—Cross-examination of Mr. Gurrin, the English handwriting expert, took up the entire morning session today of the trial by court-martial of Captain E. G. Chamberlain of San Antonio, Texas, in connection with his reported exploits on the British front last Summer. The testimony of Mr. Gurrin was that out of hundreds of thousands of comparisons between Chamberlain's handwriting and that of the signers of the various documents in issue only thirty-four instances showed a similarity in penmanship.

Captain Trye was sent over here by the British Admiralty about a year ago to serve as liaison officer with the United States Navy Department and has been stationed in Washington ever since.

Hamilton-Woerz.

The marriage of Lester A. Hamilton, a son of Mrs. Margaret E. Hamilton and the late Andrew T. Hamilton of this city, and Miss Beatrice Woerz, whose engagement was announced last Christmas, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Woerz, 417 Park Avenue, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. William M. Horn of the University of Syracuse in the presence of relatives, and a small reception followed it.

The bride, in a white satin gown trimmed with point lace and embroidered in pearls and having a long train, wore a tulle veil held with orange blossoms. She carried lilies and white orchids. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. René Marvin, in peach colored chiffon and a hat to match trimmed with purple orchids. There were no ushers, but John Reed Comstock of Pittsburgh, Penn., was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will spend the honeymoon at the White Sulphur Springs.

Mr. Hamilton was graduated from the Stevens Institute of Technology in 1906, and was in the Artillery Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor in Kentucky when the armistice was declared, and the class was dismissed. Miss Woerz was graduated from the Ogontz School. She has been engaged in work with the Atlantic Division of the Red Cross.

C. F. Fields Weds Miss McClelland.

Clarence Pringle Fields, son of Mrs. Andrew C. Fields, and Miss Myra Belle McClelland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. McClelland, were married at the home of the bride's parents, at River View Manor, Dobbs Ferry, at 6:30 o'clock last evening, the Rev. Clarence Paul McClelland, brother of the bride, who is President of Drew Seminary for Young Women, performing the ceremony.

Eugene R. Verdin of Dobbs Ferry was best man and Mrs. Louis DeB. Day of East Orange, N. J., was the matron of honor. Other attendants of the bride were Mrs. Eugene R. Verdin, Miss Edna Drake of Rivington, N. J., and Miss Mary M. Pringle of Dobbs Ferry. The ushers were George W. McClelland, Professor of English literature of the University of Pennsylvania; Edward Fielder, and Louis DeB. Day. There were more than a hundred guests present. Mr. and Mrs. Fields went to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for their honeymoon.

The bride's father is a former State Senator and has recently been a member of the United States Board of Appraisers at the Customs House here.

Robert Grier Monroe Marries.

The marriage of Robert Grier Monroe of 21 East Sixty-first Street, New York, a lawyer and a son of Major Thomas Bell Monroe of the Confederate Army, killed at Shiloh, and Miss Mina du Montier Bernard, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George R. Bernard of New Orleans, took place yesterday in that city. Mr. Monroe has many near relatives residing there. He has been active in politics, and was Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity under Mayor Low. He is a member of the Union, University, Century and Piping Rock Clubs and a Princeton graduate.

Miss Mary Meek a Bride.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., April 23.—Miss Mary C. Meek, daughter of the late Samuel W. Meek, who, when he died last January, was the Assistant Treasurer of the New York Times Company, was married here today to Lieutenant John Dorsey Brown, son of the Rt. Rev. William Cabell Brown, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia, who officiated. Bishop Lucien Lee Kinsolving of Southern Brazil assisted. The ceremony was performed in St. James' Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Willie Pierce Meek of Richmond, formerly of New York. Lieutenant Brown went overseas with the 80th Division and was severely wounded in the leg by shell in the Argonne drive. Since returning to this country he has been under treatment at Fort McHenry Hospital, Baltimore, Md.

AUDIENCE OF WORKMEN DUCKS RED AGITATORS

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Two Bolsheviki who attempted to hold a mass meeting at noon today at the new Government pier, foot of Snyder Avenue, were rushed by 1,000 workmen, dragged from a platform and marched to the end of the pier, where ropes were made fast around their necks.

Only the pleading of the foreman saved them from being lynched. But the workmen refused to let them go unpunished. Instead of stringing them up to the piling they lowered the ropes to their waists and kicked the reds off the pier into the Delaware, twenty feet below. Five good duckings were given them and then, when half drowned, they were dragged from the river. Bricks, stones and tools followed the frightened agitators as they ran from the pier out to Wecacoe Avenue.

The two men have been employed at the pier for more than a month. Since their arrival numerous complaints have been received by secret service men on the job that radicals were attempting to start a general strike, to go into effect on May 1. The workmen have been finding "red" literature stuffed into their pockets, and this roused their ire. Today when the agitators assailed the Government and praised Bolshevism at the mass meeting they had called and which the workmen attended in a body the audience promptly took the matter into their own hands.

HURL BOMB BUT FAIL TO GET HOLY JEWELS

Statue of Virgin Protected by Seville Throng—Injured Missionary's Leg Amputated.

SEVILLE, Spain, April 23, (Associated Press.)—As a procession in honor of the Virgin was passing through the streets of the city today a bomb was thrown. It is believed that an attempt was made to obtain the jewels on the statue of the Virgin, which are valued at 200,000 francs.

The people grouped about the statue after the explosion and prevented the carrying out of such a plan.

DEPEW PASSES 85TH YEAR.

Ex-Senator Guest of Mrs. Depew at Dinner with Old Friends.

Former Senator Chauncey M. Depew celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday yesterday. He went to his office in the Grand Central Terminal Building as usual in the morning, and last night, observing a long-established family custom, was Mrs. Depew's guest at a dinner party for twenty-six old friends at his home, 23 West Fifty-fourth Street. More than 100 congratulatory telegrams and letters were received there during the day.

"My friends seemed to share my belief that to reach 85 years is quite an event," said Mr. Depew last night. "I am a firm believer that longevity and work go together. A man will not live long and will not be healthy, however, if he works all the time. Every man should have a hobby. By properly dividing his time between his work and his hobby, I don't see why he should not live to be 100."

Speakers at Textile Dinner.

Senators Hiram W. Johnson, Boies Penrose, James R. Reed and Speaker Champ Clark will be the chief speakers at the Peace and Reconstruction Dinner of the Textile-Upholstery Association of America, to be held at the Hotel Astor on April 26. Wood, Colonel George Harvey, Dr. Chilean Tsur of China, Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee, Chairman Homer S. Cummings of the Democratic National Committee, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, ex-Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, Congressmen Joseph W. Fordney of Michigan, Kitchin of North Carolina, Graham of Pennsylvania, and Governor Townsend of Delaware.

OPEN ARGUMENT IN 2.75 BEER CASE

Guthrie Holds Product Is Not Intoxicating and Not Prohibited Under New Law.

SEES BILLION-DOLLAR LOSS

Elihu Root to Close Argument This Morning for Jacob Hoffman Brewing Co.

Judge A. N. Hand, of the Federal District Court, in chambers on the twelfth floor of the Woolworth Building, heard arguments yesterday in support of and in opposition to the injunction suit brought by the Jacob Hoffman Brewing Company, which would restrain the United States Government from enforcing the Prohibition act of Nov. 21, 1918, in so far as the Government has signified its intention of preventing the brewing of beer with 2.75 alcohol content.

The defendants in the case were Richard J. McElligott, Acting and Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, and Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York. Counsel for the Hoffman Brewing Company were Elihu Root, William D. Guthrie, and William L. Marbury.

In reply to the motion made by the defendants to dismiss the case for want of jurisdiction Mr. Guthrie contended that $1,000,000,000 worth of property owned by the brewing interests would be wrongfully destroyed if the terms of the prohibition law were enforced as the authorities threatened to enforce them.

The hearing lasted all day and at 10:30 this morning Mr. Guthrie will conclude his reply. He will be followed in rejoinder by William C. Fitts, Special Assistant Attorney General, and Elihu Root will close the case for the complainant.

It developed in the course of the argument that United States Attorney Caffey had received no instructions from Washington to prosecute brewers distributing beer of 2.75 per cent. alcoholic content in violation of food conservation regulations as construed by the Internal Revenue Department. Deputy Attorney General Fitts also stated that steps had been taken to permit the resumption of beer bottling that collectors throughout the country have been directed to unseal the locks on brewery pipe lines, which have remained idle since brewing was forbidden by Presidential proclamation on Dec. 1.

In support of his motion to dismiss the injunction suit brought by the complainant, Mr. Caffey declared that the court had no jurisdiction in the matter, and could not grant the relief sought, and also that Congress had the power to enact the Prohibition law. Even the Attorney-General, he contended, has not the constitutional power to call off the United States Attorney-General in an action the latter may deem proper to bring, and that if the view of the plaintiffs were to prevail in this action it would be the first time that the United States Attorney had ever been enjoined from the performance of his duty. He conceded the power of the complainant to enjoin the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Result of Roper's Interpretation.

The action grew out of the decision of Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in fixing one-half of 1 per cent. of alcohol as the limit for non-intoxicating beverages. Mr. Caffey argued that a proper interpretation of the original statute would show that it included all beers, irrespective of whether they are intoxicating or not, while Mr. Guthrie sought to prove that the Prohibition act, because it placed the ban on beer, wine or other intoxicating beverages specifically referred only to those beverages that were intoxicating. He maintained that beer with 2.75 per cent. alcohol content was not intoxicating.

Mr. Guthrie said it was preposterous for the Collector of Internal Revenue to refuse to accept the $6 barrel tax on the 2.75 per cent. beer on the ground that it was intoxicating. He had no more right to refuse the proffered tax, said Mr. Guthrie, than the tax collector charged with the collection of the taxes on real estate has the power to refuse the taxes on property which he considers is being used improperly. He took exception to the act of the Collector, and said it meant inevitable ruin for the brewing interests if he persisted in his refusal to sell stamps to the brewers.

Explaining the manner of payment of revenues in the case of beer that is bottled, Mr. Guthrie said: "We are up a tree if a collector is not present to open the lock at the brewery so that the spigot may be turned for the beer to flow. He showed that the key of the vat is held by the Government and that when the brewer desires to bottle beer he notifies the Collector of Internal Revenue, who sends an agent to the brewery. The vat is measured for its content and then stamps are issued. He argued that if the Collector persisted in taking the attitude that while he might take the taxes he would refuse to open the lock that controlled the flow of beer, nothing remained for the brewer but to apply for a mandatory injunction to force the Collector to unlock the vat.

United States Attorney Caffey interposed to say that he thought that matter had been straightened out, and when Mr. Guthrie asked whether the refusal to furnish stamps would continue after May 1 Mr. Caffey said that tomorrow a preliminary injunction would be argued on that point.

Says Commissioner Lacked Power.

Mr. Guthrie, continuing in his argument, asserted that neither the President nor the Federal statute gave the Commissioner of Internal Revenue the power to establish the ruling that one-half of 1 per cent. alcohol constitutes an intoxicating beverage. He said there was no question as to the validity of the Food Conservation Act of Aug. 10, 1917, and that no question was raised as to the validity of the Presidential proclamation, the sole issue being the interpretation by the Internal Revenue Collector.

"It seems to be contended by the defendants," he said, "that neither Collectors of Internal Revenue nor United States Attorneys are specially charged with the enforcement of the acts of Congress, and that, therefore, they cannot be enjoined from taking steps thereunder against the complainant and other brewers. But it is not necessary that the defendant should be specially charged with the enforcement of a particular statute or Governmental regulation if as matter of fact they are under some legal duty in respect of the enforcement of the acts or regulations complained of, or are taking or threatening to take steps to that end."

Regarding the constitutionality of the Prohibition act Mr. Guthrie argued in his brief:

"It is a truism of our constitutional system that Congress can only exercise limited powers as delegated to and by the Constitution, and that it cannot infringe upon the reserved powers of the States. The subject of the manufacture of liquors is indisputably within the sole jurisdiction of the States and will remain so until the Eighteenth Amendment becomes effective, which will not be until January, 1920. When the act of Nov. 21, 1918, was passed the amendment had not yet been ratified, and Congress, therefore, then had no power whatever to deal with the subject of prohibition as applied to manufacturing and selling within the several States."

In a brief filed "amicus curiae" before Judge Hand by Wayne B. Wheeler, General counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, and Robert C. Davey of the New York League, it was contended that the War Prohibition act is constitutional and prohibits all beer and wine from being manufactured and sold. They contended that the enforcement of war prohibition was not affected by the power of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to collect liquor tax or to define what is an intoxicating liquor.

The counsel quoted the War Prohibition act concerning the sale of "beer, wine, and other intoxicating malt or vinous liquor" after June 30. They cited Federal and State laws to prove that this included beer without reference to its alcoholic content.

Pass 4 Per Cent. Beer Bill.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 23.—The House today passed the bill declaring beer containing not over 4 per cent. of alcohol a non intoxicant. The action was in concurrence with the Senate.

MRS. M'PHERSON COMMITS SUICIDE

Wife of Oil Producer and Daughter of Daniel O'Day Shoots Herself in Hotel.

HAD NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Her Father Was One of Rockefeller's Assistants in Organization of Standard Oil Company.

Mrs. Grace McPherson, wife of E. A. McPherson, an independent oil producer, and a daughter of the late Daniel O'Day, one of the five men who aided John D. Rockefeller in the formation of the Standard Oil Company, committed suicide last night in her apartments in the Hotel Majestic, Seventy-second Street and Central Park West. Mrs. McPherson had been in ill health for several months and had of late become subject to spells of despondency.

When she collapsed several weeks ago from a prolonged nervous breakdown, her physician ordered her to take long motor trips in the country. Yesterday, accompanied by a maid, Mrs. McPherson was off early in her car and did not return to the hotel from a tour through Westchester County until just before 9 o'clock.

As soon as she reached her apartment she went to a table in the rooms and picked up some letters which she had written before going on the trip. As she went out into the hall to mail the letters, she remarked to the maid that she missed her husband, who had left several days ago for a trip to Fort Worth, Texas, where he operates extensive oil fields.

After posting the letters Mrs. McPherson, with a smile to the maid, went into the bathroom. She had scarcely entered the room when the maid was stirred by two shots, in quick succession. Rushing in, she found her mistress lying unconscious on the floor. The girl rushed to the telephone and notified the clerk, who in turn called for Dr. John McLear, the house physician.

When the doctor arrived at the McPherson suite on the fifth floor he found that the bullet had entered the right lung and that Mrs. McPherson had died from an internal hemorrhage before he could reach her.

A telegram was sent to the husband at Fort Worth, while relatives notified her son, Cameron McPherson, nineteen years old, who is staying with other relatives. He only reached this city a short time ago after service with the Royal Flying Corps in Canada.

Mrs. McPherson's father died on Sept. 13, 1906, at Royan, France, where he had gone apparently in the best of health. At the time of his death he was Vice President of the National Transit Company, and still had great holdings in the Standard Oil Company. He was a close friend of Mr. Rockefeller, and because of his ability for organization, especially of transit facilities, was credited with being one of the greatest contributors to the Standard Oil's great organization. It was said that his estate ran into many millions.

Burglars Balked

Last year hundreds of safes were burglarized in New York City. Not one of these was safeguarded by Holmes Electric Protection.

During the same period we had hundreds of safes under our protection and not one single subscriber sustained the slightest loss through burglary. Do we protect your safe? The cost is small. Think it over.

RED SOX BLANK YANKEES BEFORE HUGE CROWD AS REGULAR SEASON OPENS HERE

30,000 SEE YANKS LOSE OPENING GAME

Great Throng Jams the Polo Grounds for Baseball Inaugural Against Red Sox.

FINAL SCORE IS 10 TO 0

Mays Holds Locals to Four Hits—Mogridge Is Banged Hard—Ruth Starts Scoring with Home Run.

The Yankees reached the peak of popularity in Manhattan at the opening of the baseball season at the Polo Grounds yesterday, an enthusiastic crowd of 30,000 jamming their way into the Harlem arena to cheer Manager Miller Huggins' team in the battle with the Boston Red Sox. Long before the warm sun was casting shadows under Coogan's Bluff the cheers had turned to groans, for the greatest opening day the Yanks have had since the American League was established here sixteen years ago became a ludicrous rout, the world's champions giving the Yanks a 10 to 0 trimming.

Everybody at the season's first baseball picnic did his part but the Yankees.. They were helpless against the queer pitching of Carl Mays, who gave them only four hits. The whole Yankee team was slow and listless and it didn't seem possible that a major league club could play as badly as the Yanks did yesterday. It is impossible to believe that the team is as poor as it appeared to be.

Babe Ruth won the game for the Red Sox in the first inning when, with Jack Barry on the bases, he slammed out a lucky home run which bounded over Duffy Lewis's shoulder in center field. The game was over right there, but the Boston clan wafted until the ninth inning, when they gave George Mogridge, the Yankee southpaw, a beating he will never forget. Six runs trickled over the plate in that last stanza when the crowd was hurrying toward the exits. Probably never in his career has Roger Peckinpaugh, the Yankee short stop and Captain, played such a loose game of ball as he did yesterday. He made three errors and played other chances clumsily for such a pastmaster of infielding as this same Peckinpaugh. It Was an off day for the whole Yankee outfit.. On the other hand, Boston enjoyed the afternoon immensely.

Great Crowd Sees Game.

Aside from the ball game, it was a lovely party. Almost everybody was there. Baseball, after being crushed by war, revived with lusty recuperative powers. Last year, when it was decreed that the national game was unessential, the Yanks were not as suppressed as they were yesterday. From early in the afternoon fans just oozed out of the tramways of Mr. Shonts. Thousands of soldiers and sailors were in the crowd and the gay Spring colors of gowns and bonnets brightened up the grand stand.

The Brush Stadium has a new coat of green paint. The hands on the clock in right field are painted a bright red. The grass was greener than ever and the Yanks yesterday were very much like the grass. From the outfield fences have disappeared all the signs about old King Red Eye. The strongest drink mentioned on the fences is ginger ale.

Among the 30,000 spectators was one man who came wearing a straw hat. The kelly lasted about two minutes. Frank's Band spilled popular airs all over the lot and after watching the Yanks the musicians had to restrain themselves from playing a funeral dirge. General Barry and his staff were there and so was Admiral Huse, who was pinch-hitting for Admiral Mayo. The two Colonels—Ruppert and Huston—who own the Yanks, walked across the field before the game with Admiral Huse and Robert L. Moran, President of the Board of Aldermen. Alderman Moran threw out the first ball to Umpire Connolly and made a pretty toss right into the umpire's hands.

In gathering this crowd the baseball octopus reached out its tentacles and attracted victims from far and wide. If baseball is a trust, it was evident yesterday that the Yankees are not in on it. They could easily convict the Red Sox, however, with 30,000 witnesses to boost their case. If anything in baseball is to be suppressed, why not start with the Red Sox?

On the way up to Harlem there seemed to be a look of disappointment on the face of every ticket seller at the elevated stations. They were thinking of those 30,000 passengers each paying only a 5-cent fare. Now if the 7-cent fare had gone through, that would be just $2,100 for the starving road, wouldn't it? No wonder they looked grim.

With so much ceremony in such a colorful holiday setting the Yankees wanted to win that game yesterday just as badly as Italy wants the Dalmatian hinterland. They were all primed to play their very best but they just flared up and went out like one of those Swedish matches. It happened to be one of Carl Mays's best days. He could make the ball do everything but talk. In that first inning when Ruth got that lucky home run, a depressing sadness came over the Huggins' lads. Although the crowd cheered wildly at every encouraging move they made, they were not able to get started. One thing was certain, the Red Sox were in far better shape for the opening than the Yanks. They had speed, their batting eyes were true, and they had confidence galore.

Schang Wields Wicked Bat.

Li Hung Schang, the Boston catcher, had four hits, three of them doubles. Ruth had a homer and a single. Black Jack Barry, Harry Hooper, and Scott each had two. Shortstop semeed to be the favorite spot for the Red Sox attack. Peckinpaugh fumbled a good many of them, while others were just too tantalizing to handle. It is doubtful if Peck will have as bad a day as he had yesterday again this season.

Mays fanned eight of the Yanks just at times when hits were needed. When the populace got up to stretch in the seventh, the Yanks, with two out, got two men on the bases when Hannah was hit by a pitched ball and Mogridge walked. Sam Vick picked out this unauspicious occasion to fan. Peck was caught fast asleep off first by Shang in the eighth when the catcher whipped the ball over to McInnis.

Duffy Lewis, the Beau Nash of the Yankees, made his début in a New York uniform, but not once did the newcomer cut loose. The New York club throughout was on the very worst behavior, just like a sulking boy at his birthday party.

The most encouraging thing about the Yanks' performance was the first ball Mogridge pitched to Harry Hooper. It was a strike. Hooper then singled to right, and was forced at second by Barry. Barry went to second on a wild pitch. After Strunk hoisted to Peck Babe Ruth came to the plate. While all the volunteer managers in the stands were advising Mogridge to walk the slugger, the Yank pitcher served one up just where Ruth liked it. He crashed the ball to centre field on a line, the ball taking a vicious hop just as Lewis came running in for it. The ball bounded over his shoulder and rolled nearly to the centre field fence, Barry jogging home in front of the mauler. A pass to Vitt and singles by Schang and Mays gave the Sox another run in the second. In the eighth Peck's error on Barry's grounder, a walk, and a wild pitch, followed by a sacrifice fly by McInnis, added another run.

The ninth inning was a travesty on the part of the Yanks. They batted all the way around the batting order and rocked Mogridge for five hits. The hits were bunched with two errors by Peck and one by Vick.

GIANTS POUND BALL AND THRASH PHILS

Kauff and Doyle Celebrate the Opening of Season with Home Runs Over the Fence.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Heavy hitting combined with air-tight fielding enabled the Giants to win from the Phillies in the opening game of the National League at the Quakers' park today. The score of 10 to 7 does not begin to indicate how far McGraw's men excelled the Coombe clan.

It was a field day for the batsmen of both teams, but the clouting of the New York outfit was much the heavier. Benny Kauff, serene and confident as of yore, blazed away with a wicked wallop in the fifth and the ball cleared the right field fence for a home run. Larry Doyle performed a similar feat in the eighth, when he picked out the same soft place in Jacobs's delivery that Kauff had found. The horsehide soared and did not hit an air pocket until it was safely over the wall and in Broad Street.

Jacobs held no terrors whatever for the Giants and the Phillies found little difficulty in getting to Barnes, but superior fielding saved the day for the New York twirler.

Artie Fletcher, wrecker of incipient base hits, was in high relief all through the game. He figured in several brilliant plays that drew plaudits even from the Quaker fans. Fletcher was the whole works for the Giants in the second frame. He speared liners by Meusel and Pearse, and ruined a perfectly good hit for Baird by clutching a hot grounder and throwing the Phils' third baseman out by inches.

Twelve thousand fans turned out for the opener. The bleachers were filled almost to capacity, although the pavilions were not so liberally patronized. The spectators were at times sombre, as is not uncommon with Philadelphia fans. There were flashes of enthusiasm, however, and the loud was the acclaim when Kauff and Doyle smashed out their home runs.

Fans of the fair sex were out in considerable force, and one group of them, occupying three rows of seats near the scorer's box, got along very well without the aid of a masculine interpreter. Both the army and navy were well represented.

The Phils got the jump in the first frame, Callahan getting a hit and coming on Williams's bingle and Bancroft's fly. In the third the Giants evened the score when Burns got a pass and Hal Chase came through with a double to centre.

Heine Zim placed them as accurately as a tennis player. At the start of the fourth he rapped out a pretty one that skimmed along the third-base line, paving the way for three runs. Fletcher was hit by a pitched ball and McCarthy reached first when Zimmerman was thrown out going to third. Baird fumbled Barnes's grounder, and with all the bases occupied Jacobs issued a free pass to Burns, scoring Fletcher. Young's single to right brought in McCarthy and Barnes.

Kauff's terrific clout in the fifth inning added the fifth run to the Giants' swelling total, and three more were hung up in the sixth. In this session McCarthy nicked one down the third base line, but was thrown out by second, when Baird scooped Barnes's grounder. Burns pelted out a single and Barnes raced home when Young sacrificed. Baird fooled Chase's fly, which scored Burns. Chase reached home when Doyle lined one to centre.

Baird's wild throw allowed McCarthy to reach first in the seventh, and Barnes's double scored his predecessor. As previously mentioned, Doyle completed the Giants' scoring with his fly over the fence in the eighth.

After Callahan had counted in the first frame the Phils were held in check until the fourth, when they collected two runs. Bancroft hit through short-stop and advanced when Luderus flied out to Young. Meusel duplicated Bancroft's feat, sending the Phillies' short-stop home. Baird's single to right sent Meusel to second, and the Quakers' right fielder completed the circuit when Pearce nicked Barnes for a bingle.

Another lone tally was hung up by the Phils in the eighth when Williams reached first on a single to right and scored on Bancroft's fly and Luderus's single to centre.

Barnes began to show signs of wear in the ninth, and the Phils bore down on him with a vengeance, collecting three runs. Pearce beat out a hit to the pitcher, and was advanced by Adams's single over second. Cravath, who batted for Jacobs, hit into a double play, Fletcher throwing out Adams at second. Pearce scored on Callahan's single to right, and Callahan advanced when Williams bingled past first. Both scored when Luderus hit a single over second.

Naval Academy on Long End of Score of 9 to 6.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23.—The Naval Academy baseball club defeated the Fordham nine here this afternoon by the score of 9 to 6. The contest was a free hitting affair, twelve safeties being registered by the home aggregation and ten by the visitors.

The Midshipmen came from behind in the sixth round and tied the score with three runs. In the following session Frisch, Fordham's star shortstop, put his team in the lead by slamming out one of the longest home runs ever seen on the local field.

THIRD IN ROW FOR ROBINS.

Grimes Holds Down Braves, Brooklyn Winning Again, 6 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., April 23.—The National League season got under full headway here this afternoon, when the Dodgers resumed their series with the Braves. Although the attendance was not up to expectations, more than 8,000 fans journeyed to Braves Field and saw George Stalling's crew fall before the curves of Burleigh Grimes. The score was 6 to 1, and it was the third straight game the Dodgers have won from the local aggregation.

Dana Fillingim opposed Grimes and for eight rounds the right-handers engaged in a pitchers' battle, with the Dodgers holding a one-run advantage. This tally was scored in the second inning and was the result of Wheat's double to right centre, Myers's sacrifice, and a single by Ed Konetchy, who joined the club this morning and covered the initial sack.

In the eighth inning Fillingim gave way to a pinch hitter and Nehf took up the pitching burden. Magee, the first man to face him, filed out, but Griffith reached first on an error by Maranville, and Wheat drew a pass. Myers then beat out a hit to second, filling the bases. Stallings then sent Pat Ragan to the box and the Dodgers promptly put the game on ice. Before the third man was retired they scored five times. After Koney forced Griffith at the plate, Malone singled to centre, scoring Wheat and Myers. Koney stopped at second. Miller hit to Maranville, whose throw to Smith was too late to get Koney, and the bases were again filled. Grimes doubled to centre and the blow cleared the bases.

The Dodgers' hurler eased up in the last round and the Braves escaped a shutout when Herzog singled and stole second and third unmolested. He crossed the plate while Magee was fanning out Powell. Several times during the early innings the Braves threatened to score, but each time Grimes tightened up and members of the Stalling outfit were left stranded on the bases.

Education Notes.

The term of office of Anning S. Prall, member of the Board of Education, will expire on the first Tuesday in May. He is the first member of the present board whose term of office will expire. He probably will be reappointed by the Mayor. He is Chairman of the Committee on Investigation of the affairs of the Executive Department, to carry on whose work the Board of Estimate will be asked to appropriate $25,000. The annual meeting of the Board of Education will be held on Tuesday, May 13, at 4 P. M. There will be an election of officers. President Somers and Vice President Wallace will probably be re-elected.

The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund have sent to the Board of Education a copy of the resolution authorizing the sale and removal of the building on the west side of East Thirty-fourth Street, 119 feet north of Snyder Avenue, Brooklyn.

Gilbert E. Hee, counsel to the Teachers' Union, who is defending Benjamin Glassberg, teacher of history in the Commercial High School, Brooklyn, on trial before the Board of Education for belittling the United States Government and upholding Bolshevism, is suffering from throat trouble, and has been advised by his physician not to conduct any cases for a brief period. At his request the trial of Mr. Glassberg has been postponed from tomorrow afternoon until Friday, May 2.

President Somers will be in St. Louis next Monday and Tuesday to attend a convention held there.

A communication has been received asking the Board of Education to meet the committee appointed by the Teachers' Union on teachers' grievances. President Somers said yesterday that the board would receive any committee appointed by the union, but would not itself go to meet it.

The Board of Superintendents has recommended the appointment of twenty-three assistants to Principals. The matter will be considered by President Somers before the board acts on the recommendation.

The bill, which passed both houses of the State Legislature, authorizing the City Superintendent to appoint to high school positions, persons in the army or navy service who had served for a time as teacher, or substitute teacher in city schools, is before Mayor Hylan. President Somers asked him yesterday to veto the bill, as it is special legislation, is not a statewide bill, and would establish a dangerous precedent.

The Aldermen having declared next Monday a legal holiday on account of the parade, and the Board of Education being in doubt whether the holiday applies to the public schools, President Somers and City Superintendent Ettinger were empowered yesterday to find out what the Aldermen meant by the resolution.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Heaviest Dealings of the Year Bring Sharp Advance and Later Reaction.

Speculation for the rise of stocks surpassed yesterday all previously established records of the year both in respect to the number of issues dealt in and the turnover on the Stock Exchange. During the greater part of the day the trading community ignored events of an unfavorable nature, and it seemed when a reactionary tendency developed toward the end of the session that profit taking was more influential than short sales. The vigorous advance of steel, copper, and certain railroad shares invited much realising and a sufficiently large volume of sales was put through in a half hour or so to mark down some stocks rather extensively. Steel common, for instance, which in the morning rose from par to 103, a new record for the year, lost 2 points of its gain before the close. A casual examination of the irregular price list when business ended might have aroused the impression that a week to heavy tone had been the dominant quality of trading, but this was not the case. The market continued to bear all the characteristics of an expanding speculative movement which has been seen gathering force for a number of weeks. It would be unreasonable to expect such sessions as those of the last ten days to proceed indefinitely without a reactionary interval, and yet yesterday's decline from top prices in the last hour did not impress market participants as a real setback.

The early advance of steel was particularly interesting in view of current happenings in the industry. One unfamiliar with market phenomenon would have looked for a decline instead of an advance when steel trade periodicals noted further curtailment of operations, with blast furnaces rapidly being banked and with the expectation voiced in well-informed quarters that a Western subsidiary of the Steel Corporation would shortly close down because of lack of orders and high costs. The Iron Age said that the Pittsburgh plants of the largest units were about on a 40 per cent. of capacity operating basis, with nearly half of the Carnegie Steel Company's fifty-nine furnaces idle. This observer of the industry noted that British export prices were far above those of the United States, but this fact was looked upon as of more or less academic interest at the moment because of the general slackness of buying. The rise of the steel stocks is worthy of comment because of the proof supplied that speculation is making small account of present conditions and looking ahead to the time when large purchases must appear at home and abroad. Several of the low-priced railroad issues were again bid upward by pools, influenced by oil drilling prospects. A number of specialties were found to be scarce in supply and were easily advanced by a little concerted buying.

The processes of reaction made themselves felt at the same time that cable dispatches told of President Wilson's firm position on the Adriatic question. Other cables described growing dissatisfaction among the Italian delegates, and it may be that this news had more influence than was discernible on the surface in last-hour selling. The Street continued to believe, however, that Italy would come into line with the other great powers on the problems immediately affecting her interest and thought that a serious hitch might develop was not loudly spoken. The financial district is basing so many hopes upon the early completion of the treaty, with the signatures of Germany's representative attached, that differences among the allied delegates are viewed as only a natural part of the negotiations. Sterling exchange moved in favor of London, while Paris rates ended the day more favorable to New York than at the start of business. Call money was steady at 5 per cent.

BALANCE OF TRADE NEAR $3,000,000,000

Big Increase in March in the Shipments of Raw Materials to Europe.

COTTON IN GREAT DEMAND

Embargoes Abroad Cause a $222,000,000 Decline in the Exports of Manufactures.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The trade balance of the United States for the fiscal year will pass $3,000,000,000 this month if the nation's commerce continues its rapid growth. At the end of March the favorable balance was $2,790,000,000.

The greatest increase in March exports was in crude materials for use in manufacturing. European countries drawing heavily on this country for cotton, minerals, and other raw products to re-establish their economic life. The month's shipments of these materials were worth $161,197,255, as compared with $66,003,630 in March last year.

For the first nine months of the fiscal year the greatest increase has been in foodstuffs, which total $1,628,066,000 against $993,000,000 the same period of the preceding year. Exports of manufactures have declined about $222,000,000 due to the embargoes of European countries, imposed as a means of readjusting their credit abroad.

Little change has taken place in the country's imports as compared with the preceding year, the total increase for nine months amounting to $117,000,000. The increase in exports has been $606,060,000.

CONSIDER MOTOR MERGER.

Parks Says Maxwell and Chalmers Directors Favor Combination.

A consolidation of the Maxwell Motor Company and the Chalmers Motor Corporation is being considered by the Boards of Directors of the two companies, according to a statement which was issued yesterday by Elton Parks, a Director of the Maxwell Company.

"Rumor is current," he said, "and has been given publicity in the press, that the Maxwell-Chalmers Companies are to combine their interests into a new company to be formed for that purpose. It is true that the respective Boards of Directors of the companies view favorably a combination of their interests and those in control of affairs of both companies have been working for that end, but the matter had not yet progressed sufficiently to make announcement of the details of the plan, which in the last analysis must be referred to the respective stockholders and accepted by them before it can become operative."

Ocean Freight Rates to Stay Up.

Attention has been called in the shipping world to the fact that the purchase of Emergency Fleet Corporation wooden ships at prices which are generally considered as high is a logical argument that their purchasers feel assured that all kinds of bottoms will be scarce for some time, and rates will stay up. In support of this, some shipowners say that it is logical to believe that the men who bought the wooden ships have substantial reason to believe that they will make such profits from the cargoes carried in them that the cost of the boats themselves may be written off comfortably, even though the vessels have to be sent to the junk pile when ocean freight rates finally come down.

SAYS OPEN MARKET EXISTS.

Iron Age Declares Steel Prices Are Not Cut as Output Declines.

In a review of conditions in the iron and steel industry, The Iron Age considers that an open market for steel has existed for some time, but that it has not been recognized as such because of the absence of price cutting. The industry, it is said, is limiting operations to accord more nearly with the business which is developing. The United States Steel Corporation is running at between 60 and 70 per cent. of capacity and the independent concerns at about 50 per cent. capacity.

The publication in discussing other phases of the steel situation says:

Little interest has been taken in the bulletins of further parleys over prices at Washington. The steel trade has regarded the stabilizing episode as ended when executive approval was withheld from prices in which the Government had asked the public to have confidence.

The deviation from the so-called official prices are small and are the exception. New business is on so limited a scale that price cutting has little motive, and since costs increase as output falls off, the chances of the much heralded deep cuts have grown less. The belief that output has now reached or even gone below a bare wear and tear basis has even given rise to a more cheerful feeling, particularly in the Chicago district.

All the large steel companies have maintained wages. In some communities where an iron or steel plant was the chief dependence workmen have accepted some reduction in wages to prevent a shutdown. A southern steel company has reduced wages 15 per cent. Some blast furnace reductions have come also.

Of the 1,200,000 tons of low-priced rails on the books of the mills January 1, considerably more than half has been rolled, and the steel companies have already adjusted their expectations to limited railroad buying in the remainder of the year.

The Iron Trade Review also considers that the price stabilization plan has ceased to be a factor. It says:

Fruitless weeks of waiting for Washington to put in working form its plan of general price readjustment have undone largely whatever recovery the iron and steel market previously had been able to attain. Now with the failure of the stabilizing movement generally recognized the industry finds itself obliged to make a fresh start on a lower plane of prices, with order books greatly depleted and with production still declining. Judge Gary's statement that the Government price plan is dead is so accepted as correct appraisal of the present state of affairs and it is recognized as forecasting the immediate presence of an open market.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,566 pkgs. Prices declined about 1½c on most grades of creamery and there is rather quiet trade passing at the lower figures. On the current packings stock is offered at irregular figures, with moderate demand. Good dirties and checks selling fairly and firm in the top grades. COTTON PRICES HERE UNUSUALLY ERRATIC

Decline 45 to 50 Points at Opening, but Show Net Gains for Day of 15 to 35.

SPECULATORS IN CONTROL

Selling in Paris, Break in Liverpool, and Good Weather Report Affect Market.

Yesterday's cotton market was erratic in the extreme. It opened lower and then went into a sharp decline which carried values down 45 to 50 points from the previous day's closing, but in the late afternoon turned upward again and finished the day at net gains of 15 to 35 points after having been up 35 to 45 points. Considered from any viewpoint the fact stands out that the present cotton market is unstable. Speculative interests have for the time being taken control of the market out of trade hands and are making the kind of market experienced some years ago when "cotton kings" were made and unmade overnight. The only difference now is that no single individual stands out.

The early selling was due mainly to the unsatisfactory news from Paris. There was also considerable profit-taking by recent speculative bulls. The break at Liverpool, which came in the afternoon there, after sending over an advanced list at the time of our opening, was probably due to the same causes. Another thing which hit Liverpool and New York was the announcement that freight rates had been advanced 25 cents per 100 pounds because of the port congestion at Liverpool, which was graphically reflected in the receipts of 73,000 bales at that port. Then the weekly weather report was better even than had been expected by the bears.

In the late afternoon buying by Wall Street houses caught the trade unprepared, and with many ring traders heavily short on the day, a lot of short covering set in and carried prices up even more sharply than they had gone down in the morning.

Spot markets were generally steady. The local market, while failing to report sales, showed quotations up 25 points. A good deal of interest attaches to what will happen on Friday, when the first of the May notices will start circulating. It is understood there is a large amount of cotton already reclassified by Government inspectors and there is a general belief that there will be no shortage of notices over the three days.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

WAR RISK AWARDS EXCEED PREMIUMS

$785,000,000 Issued Now Far in Excess of Payments by Insured Men.

500 AWARDS ISSUED DAILY

Claims Coming In Less Rapidly at 350 a Day—Often Shared by Many Beneficiaries.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Insurance awards, made by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, it is announced, are more than the premiums paid in by the insured man. To date, death awards for insurance of more than $785,000,000 have been made by the bureau. This sum, which is being paid to the beneficiaries in monthly installments, greatly exceeds the amount received in premiums by the Treasury Department.

To April 15 the Bureau of War Risk Insurance had made 102,286 awards with a commuted value of $785,613,500 for deaths of men holding insurance. There have been made 139 awards with a commuted value of $804,500 for total permanent disability of insured men. Among the death awards there were represented 87,744 claims affecting the 102,286 beneficiaries. In many instances the monthly insurance payments are divided among several beneficiaries and in some instances single payments are divided among as many as ten beneficiaries.

Under the provisions of the War Risk Insurance Act, which provides compensation for dependents in case of death, exclusive of whether or not the man in service held insurance, there have been made 19,295 awards for compensation for death with monthly payments of $453,463.58.

Compensation for disability is paid by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance to more than 14,975 beneficiaries. These disability awards carry monthly payments of $411,366.76.

There have been 105,800 claims for insurance awards for deaths filed with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance and but 1,004 claims have been disallowed for various reasons, and in many cases the disallowance is not final. There are approximately 10,000 claims now pending upon which awards are being made. Claims are being filed at the rate of approximately 350 a day and awards are being made at the rate of approximately 500 a day. Awards have been made for practically all claims for insurance due to death in action.

Claims for compensation due to disability are being filed with the Bureau of War Risk Insurance at the rate of over 500 a day.

Burial expenses for men who died in the service have been paid by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in 19,225 cases at an expense of $1,358,436.03. Compilation of the causes of death is now beeing made by the Bureau, and within a short time it will be possible to state the number of deaths that were caused in action, as well as those resulting from wounds, and the number which can be attributed to other causes.

GRAIN OFFICIALS ASSEMBLE.

Heads of Fourteen Zones Here to Determine National Policy.

The first meeting in the all-week session of the officials of the United States Grain Corporation was held yesterday in the office of Julius H. Barnes, United States Wheat Director. The men who direct the work of the corporation in its fourteen operating zones and who, with Mr. Barnes, will decide the personnel and policy of the organization in the current year, came to New York in a body from Chicago. They were entertained by Mr. Barnes at a luncheon in the Bankers' Club, after which they entered into executive session. It is expected that an official announcement will be made today in regard to the policy to be followed for the rest of the year.

Among the guests at the luncheon were: Frank C. Crowell, Vice President of the Grain Corporation; Gates W. McGarrah, Treasurer; Watson S. Moore, Secretary, and the following Vice Presidents: G. B. Fox, H. D. Irwin, P. H. Ginder, Frank L. Gary, George S. Jackson, Howard B. Jackson, Charles Kennedy, R. A. Lewis, D. F. Piazzek, and E. F. Newing. Others who attended were B. H. Lang, Walter Starr, a volunteer assistant from the Corporation's San Francisco office; J. W. Shorthill, and Edgar Rickard.

While no official announcement was made regarding the number of officials who would continue their volunteer services with Mr. Barnes, it was learned that not more than two or three would probably resign to re-enter private business.

CITY'S GIFT FROM VENICE.

Coffer of Wrought Iron Presented at City Hall.

The City of Venice yesterday, through its guilds, presented to the City of New York a rare coffer of wrought iron and precious stones, made by master craftsmen. The presentation took place at the City Hall at 3 o'clock. In a letter Mayor Filippo Grimani of Venice recommended the consideration of Mayor Hylan the exhibition of the products of the industries of Venice at Silo's Fifth Avenue Art Galleries, 40 East Forty-fifth Street. The objects on exhibition are to be sold later for the benefit of the Venetian Refugees Fund, which is used in aiding the people of Venice who were driven from the city by Austrian airplanes. The guilds of Venice were represented at the presentation by Angelo Menocci and Ilario Neri.

RAILROAD PETITION DENIED.

Long Island Line to Continue Passenger Service to Fresh Pond.

An application by the Long Island Railroad Company for permission to discontinue the passenger service between the Fresh Pond and Bushwick stations on the Bushwick division of the road, was denied yesterday in an opinion by Public Service Commissioner Kracke. The distance between the two stations is a little more than two miles, and as the track is only a single one, it was found that passenger traffic interfered with the movement of freight. The company offered to provide passengers with transfers to the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, but the trip to and from this city would be lengthened from nine to thirteen minutes by this method.

In his opinion Mr. Kracke said that while the business of the road on this short distance appeared to be unprofitable the business of the road as a whole returned fair profits, and that the passenger traffic had probably fallen off because the company had depleted its passenger service that freight trains might have freer action. He also said that the company was under obligations to serve the public and must take the fat with the lean.

Exchange on Berlin.

Herbert Hoover, at present head of the American Relief Administration, was reported as being in Berlin yesterday, whither he had gone to arrange for the shipping of allied foodstuffs for the relief of the German people. This fact, taken in conjunction with the newly arranged "food exchange rates" which the Relief Administration is quoting on the South European countries, gave rise to a report that similar exchange arrangements would shortly be opened with Berlin. At present, commercial dealings with Germany are prohibited, but it is believed quite likely that if Mr. Hoover gives the word exchange dealings will be opened through his organization, especially as the new arrangement is designed mainly to enable the Relief Administration to dispose of the cash balances it will acquire at points where it distributes food.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Prices at the close of an active and broad market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were about on a parity with the final quotations of the previous session. Profit-taking in heavy volume, initiated in midafternoon and continued to the close, made for a general reaction. Previous gains were reduced to a minimum and not a few active issues recorded losses. The movements in Steel common dominated the market action throughout the session.

CITY INVESTIGATOR TO HEAR LANDLORD

Commissioner of Accounts Opens Inquiry Into Rent Profiteering Today.

ELKUS REPORTS TO SMITH

Finds Private Interests Can Do Little Soon and Urges Expediting of Public Works.

The investigation into rent profiteering will be taken up today by Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, who will examine a landlord whose tenants have made complaints against him to the Mayor's special committee on rent profiteering. Mr. Hirshfield will proceed on the assumption that where rents have been raised from 25 to 50 per cent. and at the same time no improvements have been made upon the property, or has actually deteriorated, there must have been an increase in the value of the property such as has not been reflected in the assessment levied. Whatever information he elicits will be turned over to the tax commissioners and the committee on rent profiteering, Nathan Hirsch, Tax Commissioner and Chairman of the Rent Committee, will sit at the examination by the Commissioner of Accounts and suggest questions such as will help him in his work.

Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the State Reconstruction Commission, commenting upon the ordinance introduced in the Board of Aldermen on Tuesday, in which the city was directed to acquire lands by purchase and to erect houses thereon, paying for the operation by the selling of bonds, said that municipal and government plans for relieving the present housing situation did not give any promise of immediate relief, that there were serious legal obstacles in the way, and that at best it would not be possible to provide homes for the people by next Winter. At the same time the commission made public a report sent to Governor Smith, giving the results of a canvass made among the leading manufacturers and business men of the State.

The report states that nothing can be definitely expected of private business in the housing trades, and the commission recommends to the Governor that he urge the heads of State departments at Albany to expedite public works authorized for which funds are available, to call conferences of county and city officials in which programs of procedure might be outlined, and to urge the authorities of the City of New York not only to stimulate all usual repairs and extensions of public works for which appropriations have been made in whole or in part, but also the following specific projects, rapid transit construction, port development, and the building of garbage disposal plants, terminal market structures, and sewage disposal structures."

Find Business Men Cautious.

"Business men," continues the report, "are doubtful as to the effect of the treaty of peace on world trade in general and on the export field in particular, and as to the nature and effect on business of impending changes from war to peace policies in the Federal Government. There is a reluctance on the part of both the consuming public and the business community to buy in excess of immediate needs because of the anticipation of a possible decline in prices.

"The removal of wartime restraint has caused no large-scale resumption of building operations.

"The commission has tabulated replies to a questionnaire which was sent out to bankers. The substance of these replies is to the effect that the unsettled conditions, the disturbed condition of the organized building trades, the difficulty of obtaining mortgage loans because of present construction costs and because of unavailable appropriations of funds by the Liberty Loan, and on account of the waiting attitude of business men and the general public, little is to be expected in the way of private building during the next few months.

The Housing Committee of the Reconstruction Commission at its meeting in the Hall of Records this afternoon will consider three alternative plans which it has worked out for the erection of a sufficient number of apartment houses in New York City by next Winter to accommodate the surplus population now unhoused. It is understood that the financial backing for these plans is assured, and that either the city, the municipal, State or national Government will be asked. The plan will be considered by the Executive Committee of the commission tomorrow, and until then no details will be made public.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted at a recent meeting by the Executive Committee of the Real Estate Owners' Protective Association, President Joseph S. Schwab appointed a committee yesterday to work with the State and city authorities who are investigating rents. The committee consists of Representative Henry M. Goldfogle, Ira J. Ettinger, Irving Bachrach, Isidore H. Kempner, John M. Sieber, Joseph H. Rothschild, R. G. Barthold, and William C. Capless.

Robert Greve of 1,008 Valentine Avenue, 7 months old, was adjudged the best baby in the Bronx under 2 years old and was awarded a $20 gold piece. Rida Duffy, 1½ years old, of 216 St. Ann's Avenue, received the prize for youngsters between 2 and 3 years.

Closely allied with the baby contest is the work of the New York Committee of the Child Health Organization, under the direction of Mrs. John Collier, Secretary, which is receiving hundreds of school children daily to be weighed and measured. One thousand dollars was the bid for a five-pound chunk of the three and a half ton cheese by Luther Childs. The proceeds of the sale will go to the Red Cross.

The attendance yesterday far surpassed Monday and Tuesday, and the management asserted last night that keen interest is being shown in the milk products. The exposition continues through Saturday.

HART WILL CONTEST ENDS.

Old Village Friends to Get Estate He Bequeathed to Them.

Following a contest in the courts lasting more than two years, the Court of Appeals handed down a decision yesterday affirming the order of the Surrogate of Westchester County admitting to probate the will of Lemuel M. Hart of Hartsdale, who divided his $50,000 estate among his friends and cut off his brother, Joseph Hart, without a cent.

Mr. Hart was over eighty-five years old at the time of his death, and his brother in the contest proceedings said he was incompetent to make a will and that because of his age, undue influence was exercised over him.

The various heirs named will now receive the legacies. Among those include the village blacksmith, the barber, a gardener, Mr. Hart's housekeeper, and others who used to call on him while he was working in his greenhouse or around the large grounds surrounding the old mansion at Hartsdale, where he had lived all his life.

EMPIRE BUILDING BOUGHT BY U.S. STEEL

Corporation Purchases It for Approximately $5,000,000 as a Permanent Home.

LARGEST TRANSFER OF YEAR

Structure When Built Was the Tallest of the Skyscrapers in the Financial District.

The largest real estate transaction of the year in Manhattan was closed yesterday when the twenty-one-story Empire Building, at 71 Broadway, held at $5,000,000, was purchased through Joseph P. Day by the United States Steel Corporation as a permanent home. Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors and Finance Committee acted for the Corporation and Clarence H. Kelsey, President of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company, and Frederick Potter, as trustees, represented the owners of the property, the O. B. Potter Trust. The property had been held firmly at $5,000,000 and is said to have brought close to that amount.

The United States Steel Corporation, which will take title to the property in the name of a subsidiary, will pay all cash. The corporation now occupies as a tenant, a large portion of the building it has just purchased.

The Empire Building, which is assessed for taxation purposes by the city at about $4,000,000, occupies a plot of ground fronting 78 feet on Broadway at the southwest corner of Rector Street, 223 feet on Rector Street, and 50 feet on Church Street, overlooking Trinity Church on the north. The total area of the plot is about 14,000 square feet.

When the building was constructed, in 1897-8, its foundation, which consists of twenty-three steel caissons, was carried down fifty feet to bed rock. Prior to the construction of the Empire Building the site was occupied by a six-story brownstone office structure, built in 1859, which, however, despite its latter day shabbiness, housed many prominent individuals and firms. One of its best-known tenants was Russell Sage, whose office in the building was once invaded by a fanatic, who exploded a bomb, seriously injuring one of the clerks.

The present Empire Building, construction of which was begun on June 1, 1897, was the tallest building of its day.

Judge Gary in announcing the purchase yesterday afternoon said: "The purchase of the Empire Building was influenced by the excellence of its location; by the character of the building; by the recent very great improvement and concentration of transit facilities in this part of the financial district, and deemed it wise to obtain permanent quarters in this city."

Mr. Kelsey in discussing the transfer said: "This purchase is big with potentialities. It means that the City of New York is now to be the permanent steel centre of the world, for the head of any great industry is the place from which it is financed."

WEST WANTS HAND IN SALE OF SHIPS

J. M. Parker Says It Supplied Money to Build Them and Proposes to Safeguard Investment.

FEAR FOREIGN OWNERSHIP

H. M. Merrick Assails President Wilson for Absence at the Peace Conference.

CHICAGO, April 23.—John M. Parker of New Orleans, President of the Mississippi Valley Association, at its convention here today challenged the authority of the United States Shipping Board to sell shipping created by the necessities of the war, and urged that the Middle West ask Congress to investigate the actions of the board.

"The Middle West," Mr. Parker said, "produces most of the freight for the new merchant marine. It has also supplied a large proportion of the money to build it and proposes to safeguard its investment."

Harry M. Merrick, President of the Chicago Association of Commerce, filed objections to the proposed sale, pointing out the danger of such a sale to dummy owners, who later would transfer shipping built by the money derived from the sale of Liberty bonds to a foreign power, which then would have control of our trade routes.

Mr. Merrick also criticised President Wilson for going to Europe and leaving the United States, as he asserted, without governmental leadership during the most critical period of reconstruction. He attacked the national Administration for its alleged failure to formulate a definite policy toward business. Mr. Merrick appealed to business interests to take a more active part in political and Government affairs.

At the session of its coanking section of the association, bankers representing seventy-five cities in the great central region of the country indorsed a resolution presented by John J. Arnold, Vice President of the First National Bank, calling for the appointment of a committee representing all Middle West banking interests, which would prepare plans for a central financial corporation of trade in which all the banks under the scope of the Mississippi Valley Association would have a part. This contemplated institution, located in Chicago, would give to business men of the central region the same financial privileges which they are now obliged to seek in Eastern money centres.

Trade relations with foreign countries, particularly South America, would be fostered on systematic lines by the proposed institution, which, according to the plan, would have representatives located in South American capitals, performing business functions now delegated to United States Consulates.

F. K. Houston, Vice President of the Third National Bank of St. Louis, supported Mr. Arnold's plea. He said the banks of this city had lost business to Eastern institutions because they had no foreign agents.

The meeting ended with the appointment of a committee with a member from each of forty cities in the valley to continue the consideration of a co-operative bank, in agreement with the Mississippi Valley Association.

Appraisers Fix Sum as Gross Value of Bernheimer Estate.

The estate of Max E. Bernheimer, who, until his death on Sept. 24, 1913, was president of the Bernheimer & Schwartz Brewing Co., was appraised yesterday at $5,391,400 gross and $4,698,755 net. He owned securities worth $3,956,798, of which $1,052,844 was the value of 13,980 shares of the brewing company and 50 shares of stock of the S. & E. Bernheimer Co., a real estate holding company, were worth $1,515,410. The par value of the stock is only $100, but the appraised value is $20,000 a share.

He also held $250,000 in bonds of the brewing company, $250,000 of United Cigar Stores stock, $138,315 Guggenheim Exploration Co., and $234,200 Tonopah Extension Mining Co. He had $937,290 in cash and personal property, valued at $494,311, including a collection of postage stamps valued at $24,837.

Mrs. Stella S. Bernheimer, the widow, received a life interest in $4,078,880 and on her death the property goes to her sons, George and William Bernheimer, who also got trust funds of $250,000 each.

Surcharge on Cotton Shipments.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A surcharge of 25 cents per 100 pounds on cotton shipped from Atlantic and Gulf ports to Liverpool and London was established by the Shipping Board today in lieu of demurrage, because of serious delays in unloading at the English ports.

FRANCE KEEPS HER GOLD.

Industries Not Allowed to Pay Cash for Goods Bought Abroad.

Copyright, 1919, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, April 23.—The French Government has tightened its grasp on domestic gold by withholding from French industries permission to pay cash for the little they are permitted to buy abroad. There will be no "money on receipt of goods" transactions as long as exchange is so unfavorable to France.

This became known today in a contract for American goods by a French department store. The store had agreed to pay cash. The management was informed by the authorities this could not be done, so the firm which sold the goods has accepted notes payable at the convenience of the French Government.

American manufacturers interested in the French market has reached a decision to grant long credits. French industry is ready to buy and is willing to place orders running into hundreds of millions as soon as the Government opens the ports. The American Chamber of Commerce and Bernard Baruch, representing the United States Government, have made protests against the embargo.

CHANGES IN SHIPPING STAFF

New Executives of Fleet Corporation Are Announced.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—A number of changes in the executive personnel of the Emergency Fleet Corporation were announced today by Howard Coonley, Vice-President. A successor to Mr. Coonley will be announced this week by Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board.

Changes announced are:

P. J. McAuliffe, first assistant of the ship construction division, will succeed Daniel Cox, head of the division.

R. E. Talbert, assistant, will succeed M. B. Ferris as head of the contract division.

Captain R. N. Bakenhaus, U. S. N., will succeed Admiral H. H. Rousseau as head of the shipyard plants division.

G. H. S. Rollason of the shipyard plants division will succeed A. E. Pfeiffer as head of the material supplies department.

Mr. Coonley will return to Boston when his duties with the Emergency Fleet Corporation end. He is president of a machinery manufacturing company.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A decentralized plan of organization for the division of operations of the Shipping Board, effective May 1, was announced today. Under the plan, exporters and importers will have the opportunity of dealing directly with authorized agents of the board at all important ports of the United States. Examination and approval of accounts, to assure prompt payment of disbursements made by operators for the Shipping Board's account, will be included among the activities of the new agencies.

Drug Buying Picks Up.

Drug and Chemical Markets will say today that buyers show more confidence and are purchasing freely many products that have been neglected, owing to high prices, which finally have given way and are now more nearly normal. Importations of botanical drugs sent prices down, but on other materials, which are scarce, prices are higher. There are fewer weak spots in the market for pharmaceutical products. For dye bases and dyewoods the demand is light. Coal tar crudes are in better request and prices are firm. In heavy chemicals there has been considerable business transacted in the last week.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Nat Lebenson, formerly with the Republic Novelty Works, has gone into the silk business on his own account. He will do business under the trade name of N. Lebenson & Co., Inc., at 9 West Twentieth Street.

The New York Oversea Co., Inc., 17 Battery Place, has opened a branch in the Kohl Building, San Francisco. It will be under the management of H. Berg, with K. Hosaeus as assistant manager.

Commissioner Gallatin Hears the Application of the American Institute.

PHILBIN OPPOSES MOVE

Declares That to Permit Use of the Building Would "Perpetrate a Serious Wrong."

Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin held a hearing in the Board of Estimate Chamber yesterday on the application of the American Institute of Safety for a permit to use the Arsenal Building in Central Park for the permanent exhibition of appliances and devices for the prevention of accidents in all industrial pursuits. The institute some time ago applied to the Board of Estimate for the use of the Arsenal, promising to expend $50,000 in restoring the interior of the building to an attractive and sanitary condition.

The only opposition to the plan was in the form of a letter from Eugene A. Philbin to George Gordon Battle of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, in which he stated that to grant the request of the institute would "perpetrate a serious wrong." The Park Commissioner, it was said after the hearing, will probably grant the permit, especially in view of the fact that Governor Alfred E. Smith in a letter to Chamberlain Philip Berolsheimer, former Park Commissioner, expressed the hope that the institute would be allowed to use the building. Representatives of labor organizations also favored the plan. The Governor explained that he favored the plan when it was first presented to the Board of Estimate, of which body he was then a member. His letter read in part:

"I am pleased to know that the matter of the museum for the Arsenal is still alive. I feel strongly that the city should grant the privilege. It means nothing to the museum, but I know what it means to the people themselves."

In placing the matter before the Park Commissioner, William J. Moran, Secretary of the Institute, said that the establishment of the museum in the old arsenal would not invade the park, but that the object of the park and the museum were the same, to promote the well-being of the people, and that both were organized to conserve human life.

"A great park playground," said Mr. Moran, "is not invaded if a small percentage of its area is set aside for the promotion of the safety of the people and where the workers and their children may study and learn the elements of safety. The cultivation of the idea of safety is as essential as the cultivation of grasses and shrubs and flowers."

Dr. R. M. Little, manager of the institute, said that there was no profit to the institute, but that the museum was for the benefit of all the people and should be in a central portion of the city.

"The museum," he said, "is rendering a national service and is helping to make things really safe in our workshops and mills. Let us take that historic building, not intruding upon the park at all, and co-operate with State, city, and Federal Governments in giving safety all along the line."

Mr. Philbin, in his letter to Mr. Battle, said:

"The people of this city, whenever attempts were made to divert the park from the use for which it was designed, have successfully opposed such movements. It is certain that a similar attitude is taken regarding the present application. The fact that the institute is a very important and useful undertaking should not cause the principle involved to be disregarded.

"In my opinion the granting of the application would not be of any permanent advantage to the American Institute of Safety, but its temporary use would only result in establishing a precedent that would permit similar invasions to gradually destroy the uses to which the park is now applied. If the institute has the great merit which all who have observed similar movements elsewhere believe, it would only be a short time before it would have to plan its work to such an extent as to render it necessary to seek some other site.

"I infer that the main advantage sought to be gained by going into the park is to derive the benefit of the publicity that would accrue, and thus more speedily develop the movement. That object could be obtained by judicious advertising at a far less cost than would be involved in the alterations of the Arsenal building for the amount which I understand the institute proposes to spend. I again express the hope that the Park Commissioner will become satisfied that he is under duty to protect the park from such a use, and that under all circumstances he has no power to grant the application."

SAYS BOLSHEVISM WON'T THRIVE HERE

Not That, but Industrial Idleness, Our Big Problem, Secretary Wilson Asserts.

CO-OPERATION AS REMEDY

Holds Capital and Labor Should Meet at Council Table and Fairly Divide Profits.

BOSTON, April 23.—There is no danger of Bolshevism getting a foothold in this country, William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, declared in an address before the Chamebr of Commerce today. The greatest trouble confronting the country at the present time, he added, was the possibility of a long period of industrial idleness.

Secretary Wilson spoke on the "future relationship between capital and labor." He said that the only amicable way to adjust industrial disputes was for the employer and employe, being mutually interested, to "sit at the council table and discuss matters."

Discussing the growth of Bolshevist ideas, Secretary Wilson said:

"When we define the labor question we find that it reaches into all activities. We have heard lately of the Bolsheviki—the element in society that pulls down—and there is the other element—honest labor, which builds up.

"For two years the Department of Labor has been combating the ideas of the I. W. W., which, in some respects, is closely allied to Bolshevism. A year and a half ago the I. W. W. was nearly dead here, and it would not have come back without help, either consciously or unconsciously, from abroad. A committee examined the new situation, and it was found that the I. W. W. ideas did not flourish except in plants where there was a policy of repression.

"To my mind every man is entitled to the true social value which his labor produces; but not yet has human intelligence been able to compute what the full social value of each man's service shall be.

"The I. W. W. undertake to destroy the profits—to reduce the production of the individual and to increase the cost. With properties practically destroyed the I. W. W. believe that they could take them over and run them for their own profit. But they have forgotten, or did not know, history, for in earlier days production was slight, comparatively, and even then there were profits for the employes, although the standard of living of wage earners was much lower than today.

"The employer and employe have a mutual interest in protecting the welfare of the work and the workers, and if the employers and employes, in these times of stress, have common sense they will sit down around the council table and make a fair division of the profits of the plants. Even under this implied partnership there will be differences, but they will be few and unimportant."

GALSWORTHY AT COLUMBIA.

America Is Hope of England and Hope of World, He Says.

Speaking on the future of civilization yesterday in St. Paul's Chapel, Columbia University, John Galsworthy, the English novelist and dramatist, urged a closer and firmer union between the English-speaking races of the world as the single force capable of preserving and improving civilization. Sanity, which was needed above all else in the world today, could obtain only through a union of the Anglo-Saxon races, he said:

"America has the might of a great country and a great people behind her," he went on. "With her powers she can accomplish wonders for the benefit of the world. But she must look to the use she makes of her might. Whatever she does is watched with careful eyes by England, for whatever America does affects England. America's actions vitally affect England, not so much in a material way as a spiritual way. To America the whole world looks. Her dauntless spirit, her desire for the best things, the force of her inhabitants are capable of being of the greatest service to the rest of the world.

"America is on the threshold of her career. She may stop out as the redeemer of the world. It is her duty to do so. Noblesse oblige is as much an obligation of democracy as of aristocracy, and at present rests peculiarly on the United States. Her good work will be done, however, in the schools and the homes rather than in Congress. If America walks upright, we too shall walk upright. If America bows to money and wealth, we too shall bow and civilization will be lost."

FAVOR POLICE RETIREMENT.

Change in Charter Would Remove Age Limit of 55 Years.

There was no opposition yesterday at a hearing held before the Mayor on the bill passed by the Legislature to amend the charter in relation to the retirement of policemen. As the charter now stands a policeman may only retire after a service of twenty-five years on the force and reaching the age of 55 years. The amendment provides that the policeman may retire after twenty-five years' service on his application, whether he has reached the age of 55 or not.

Police Commissioner Enright spoke in favor of the bill, saying that there were now on the force 1,002 men who could retire under the amendment and that there were 518 over 55 years of age who were entitled to retirement, but who had not applied for the privilege. The Commissioner did not think that many would ask for retirement under the amended law. In answer to questions from the Mayor, the Commissioner said that very few men made application for retirement under 50 years of age, unless they were physically incapable and were retired by the Board of Police Surgeons.

"How old are you, Commissioner?" asked the Mayor.

"Forty-seven," was the reply.

Representatives of real estate interests announced themselves in favor of the bill.

TAKE TYLER TO CLEVELAND.

Established Alibi in Brooklyn, but Must Face Charge in Ohio.

I. Roy Tyler, who was arrested in St Louis a month ago and brought to Brooklyn on the suspicion that he was one of the men who robbed the East Brooklyn Savings Bank of $13,000 and killed two of the employes of the institution in December last, started yesterday morning for Cleveland, Ohio, in the custody of two detectives from that city. Tyler is wanted in Cleveland on suspicion of complicity in a bank robbery there on Dec. 21, 1917.

Tyler's release by the Brooklyn authorities was ordered by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis after an alibi set up by Tyler had been confirmed upon investigation by Detective William Roddy of Brooklyn. Roddy ascertained that on Dec. 13 last, the day on which the East Brooklyn Savings Bank was robbed, Tyler and his wife were registered at a hotel in Seligman, Ariz.

Tyler was taken to Cleveland by Chief Inspector Charles Sterling and Detective George Moore of the Cleveland Police Department. Mrs. Tyler was present as her husband, handcuffed to Sterling, was taken in a cab to the Pennsylvania Station. She had visited Tyler daily while he was incarcerated in Police Headquarters in Brooklyn, and said that she was going to Cleveland immediately to help him in his defense there. Tyler declared that he could prove his innocence as to the Cleveland bank robbery, and his wife asserted that she would "spend every penny" she had to aid him.

Anti-Saloon League Head Not Robbed

In a recent police report of a robbery of silverware valued at $3,000 at the home of Mrs. William H. Anderson, 310 West Seventy-ninth Street, it was erroneously stated that Mrs. Anderson was the wife of William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Anderson, who lives at 272 Van Cortlandt Park Avenue, Yonkers, sent out a statement yesterday rectifying the confusion of identity.

TRY SWIFT UNDER NEW LAW.

Former Tammany Lawyer Charged with Larceny Over Check.

Frederick J. Swift, an attorney of 122 East Thirty-fourth Street, who was legal adviser to Richard Croker when he was the head of Tammany Hall, and had been Assistant Postmaster of New York during the administration of Postmaster Charles W. Dayton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of larceny before Judge Malone in General Sessions yesterday, concerning a check for $2,600, which it is charged was drawn and presented for payment when there was not sufficient funds to meet it. The complaint, which is made by the Guaranty Trust Company, is based on Section 1292 of the Penal Law, it is said, recently passed by the Legislature, making it a criminal offense to draw a check when the full amount called for is not on deposit.

This is the first case to be brought under the new law. Abraham Levy, attorney for Mr. Swift, obtained a delay of one week to study the provisions of the new law, which he characterized as a measure designed to use criminal proceedings to collect a civil debt.

It was said that Mr. Swift had added to his deposit in the bank certain checks which would complete the amount in full of the check, but that some of the checks had not been collected and placed to his credit when his own check was presented for payment. Under this new law any amount of shortage, meaning a check, if not made good within ten days, may be prosecuted on a criminal charge of larceny.

ALLOW NEW UNITS IN NATIONAL GUARD

Emergency Forces Are Authorized Under Defense Act in New York and New Jersey.

MEETS GOVERNORS' APPEAL

Will Not Affect States with Effective Constabulary Nor Anticipate Congress Plans.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Reconstitution of the National Guard was actually started today when the War Department, through the Bureau of Militia Affairs, authorized the organization of seven regiments and one extra battalion of infantry, one squadron of cavalry, and eighteen companies of coast artillery.

The State of New York was authorized to raise four regiments of infantry, one squadron of cavalry and twelve companies of coast artillery New Jersey was authorized to organize one regiment of infantry and two companies of coast artillery; Ohio, two regiments of infantry, and Oregon, one battalion of infantry and four companies of coast artillery.

These new units are intended to replace State troops which, under section 61 of the National Defense act, cannot be legally maintained by the States in time of peace. That section prohibits the maintenance of any troops except those prescribed in the act, which covers regulars and National Guard.

Other authorizations for units are expected to follow soon. The States first considered were those in which conditions were such their their Governors considered armed forces might be necessary under certain contingencies. The State of Pennsylvania, for instance, reported to the War Department that it possessed at this time an efficient State Constabulary and 3,000 State troops, sufficient to handle any emergency which could be foreseen.

The units authorized today must be in such state of organization before June 30 as to be eligible for Federal recognition if the War Department is to extend financial aid. The organizations will all be based on a peace status, a company consisting of sixty-five men as a minimum.

"It should be clearly understood," the message sent to the State Governors said, "that the War Department does not call for the organization of the National Guard at the present time, but leaves initiation of its organization with the State authorities, and it is not desired to anticipate the action of Congress in the formulation of the national military policy; nor is it believed to be desirable to undertake the general reorganization of the National Guard prior to the demobilization of the former National Guard units from the United States Army."

CHILDS UNDER BAIL PENDING AN APPEAL

PLANS A FINISH FIGHT

Declares He Did Not Serve on Committee Filing Report Involved in Indictments.

William Hamlin Childs, Chairman of the executive committee of the Mitchel Fusion Committee in 1917, whose trial on indictments for violating the law with respect to making reports of campaign expenditures has been ordered by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, was admitted to $1,000 bail yesterday by Justice Page of the Appellate Division, pending his appeal to the Court of Appeals. It is not expected that the Court of Appeals will hear the case until next October.

Mr. Childs made a statement last night concerning the case, for the purpose of making his position known to the public, in which he said that he was not a member of the committee filing the report which caused his indictment, and never saw it before it was filed. He said there was no reason for concealing the payments to Sulzer and Appelbaum. He stated that $1,090,000 was spent "in a strenuous effort to overthrow the best administration New York ever had, the failure of which many of its opponents now sadly regret."

"I mean to fight this thing out to its conclusion," the statement went on, "not only in my own interest, which, of course, I am bound to do, but in the interests of public-spirited men of affairs, whom it is sought to drive out from participation in matters of municipal government. I am sustained by the consciousness that I have done no wrong, by the assurance that those who know me know that I would not wittingly violate any law, and who, with myself, do not believe that in this matter I have violated any law, and with the hope that those who do not know me will appreciate the real purpose of the vicious attacks made upon me in certain newspapers."

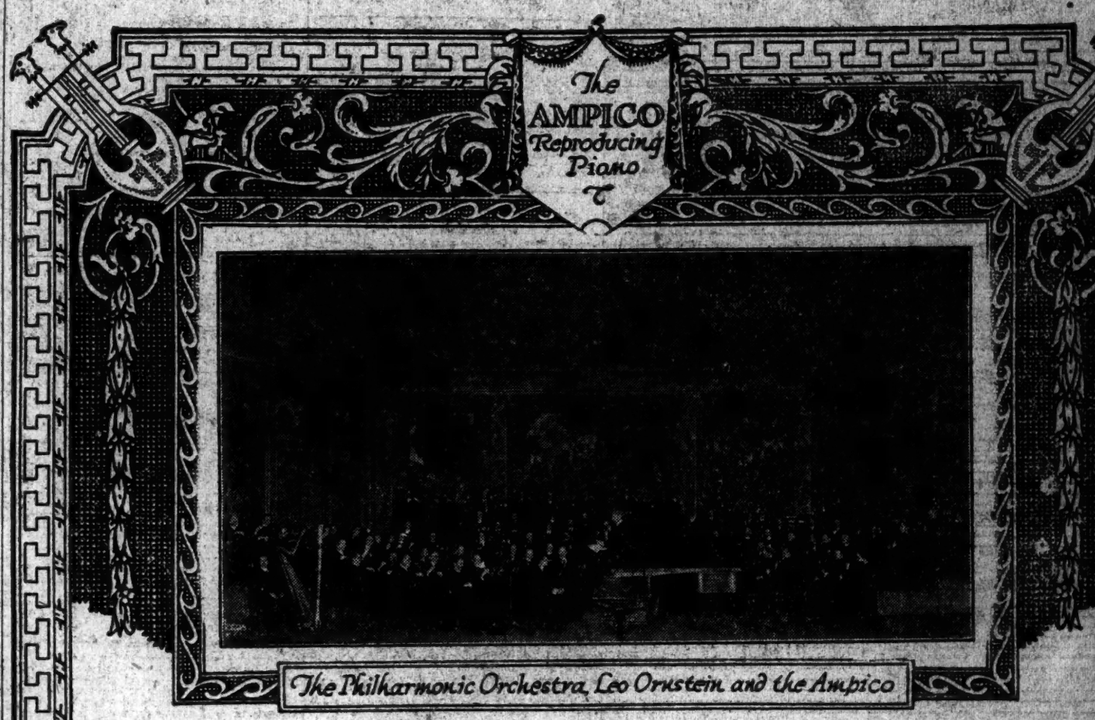
The AMPICO Reproducing Piano



The Philharmonic Orchestra, Leo Ornstein and the Ampico

The Ampico Demonstrates its Supremacy in a Concert with the Philharmonic Orchestra

ON WEDNESDAY EVENING, April Twenty-third, in Carnegie Hall, before an enormous audience of critics, musicians and people of high social prominence, the Philharmonic Orchestra under the direction of Josef Stransky presented the Mendelssohn Concerto, the first movement of which was played by the Ampico, untouched by human hands, from a record of the playing of Leo Ornstein, the following movements being played by Ornstein in person.

As in previous Comparison Concerts, the triumph of the Ampico was complete. The Mendelssohn Concerto is especially adapted to a test of this kind, as the first movement, played by the Ampico, is welded into the second movement without a break and, as this second movement was played by Ornstein himself, the continuity of tone color and expression was perfectly demonstrated.

THERE could hardly be a greater test of the faithfulness of the reproduction of an artist's style and touch. That the two portions of the Concerto, the one played by the Ampico from a record and the remaining movements by the living pianist, were exactly alike was evident to every one of those present. The reproduction of the F Sharp Nocturne of Chopin, which was one of a group played later in the program, was equally startling in its fidelity to Ornstein's distinctive interpretation. The Ampico had again proven its supremacy.

OF EVEN greater significance is the mission this remarkable instrument fulfills in thousands of homes throughout the country. Today the art of the world's genius is not confined to the concert stage. It is destined to carry the pleasures of music to every home of refinement in America. It carries the message of music and the higher musical appreciation as a living force, to the farthest village, as well as to the metropolitan centers. To the modern home the Ampico brings the beauties of music in its highest perfection.
